Democratic Presidential Intrigues. A Washington special of the 13th, to the New York Commercial Advertiser says; The Democratic politicians are very busy here. The Chase movement is evidently gathering strength, and is sustained by the administration as a means of dividing the Republicans, and breaking down the Radical influence. Assurances have been received here from New York to the effect that the nomination of Chase will be sustained by I publicans there. [All bosh!]

The Chase platform as now presented is: A frank acceptance of all the accomplished events of the war, both financial and political; the submission of all disputed points to the decision of the Supreme Court; a return to specie payments, a strict economy and contraction of national expenses, universal amnesty, and the relegation of the suffrage amnesty, and the relegation of the surrage question to the respective States under the authority of the Constitution.

The return of Chief Justice Chase from Richmond is looked for with interest, when Richmond is looked for with interest, when a consultation and comparison of views will take place, that will decide the question It is believed that the Pendleton men will not offer any serious opposition to Mr. Chase, in case it should be clearly proven that his nomination is essential to the success of the party.

THE Baltimore American insists that the rumored railway combinations supposed to be on the tapis in this quarter, would not, even if consummated, actually affect the interests of the Connellsville road. The latter company could still reach the Lake, and the, connections thence northward. The American adds: No fear need, therefore, be felt as to the connections beyond Pittsburgh; while the business of that city itself, and that brought to it by the Ohio river, now being improved for uninterrupted navigation, and the local trade of the country between Cumberland and Pittsburgh, demands and will insure the immediate completion of the Connells-ville Railroad, which all the arts and efforts of the Pennsylvania Central, of which the consolidation is the latest fruit, cannot prevent. The interest which the Fort Wayne Road was expected to acquire in the Connellsville by subscription to its bonds is now being by subscription to its bonds is now being readily transferred to other parties, and the only effect of the preferences for a Philadelphia rather than a Baltimore connection shown by the Fort Wayne will be to increase the proportion which this city will hold in the proportion which this city will hold in the proportion which this city will hold in the proprietorship of a line which of a right should belong to her exclusively. The most active steps are now about to be taken to place the road between Connellsylle and Cumberland under contract, and within a few weeks the heavier sections may be expected to be commenced, with a view to heir vigorous prosecution, and the opening of the entire line within two years. A WASHINGTON special of the 13th, says: The Republican National Committee has completed its arrangements for the approching campaign, but the canvass will not commence until July, and will not be active until the latter part of August Great confidence is manifested in the result. The Republican organization is perfect in every State. A list of States has been made out which it is essential to carry for the success of the ticket.

The strength of the party will be concentrated in these States, but the others will not be neglected. The utmost exertions will be made to elect General Grant by an electronic majority, and overwhelming majority, and also to maintain the Congressional ascendency of the Republicans.
