The New Districts.

EDITORS GAZETTE :- The report of the Council Committee charged with the important duty of redistricting the consolidated city, which was published in Saturday's GAZETTE, fails to give the desired satisfaction, and from present appearances the ground will have to again be gone over and some more equitable and just division made. There does not appear to be any necessity for changing the boundaries of any of the old wards, with the exception, perhaps, of the Eighth; Third and Tenth. The Third was deprived of the Tenth during the war as none allow through well that the war, as some allege, through political motives, and there would hardly be any objection to its again being plined on to the district from which it was injudicionsly taken. With the Eighth ward there is some difficulty regarding the boundaries, owing to the presence of Boyd's Hill; which is a natural dividing line. By putting the Tenth into the Third and making two wards of the Eighth, or what is better, making a single ward of the strip of land running from Boss streat to Sho charge the Monorgahels river, the labor of the Committee with the old city proper might rest. Members of Council cannot deal too carefully with the report when it is presen-ted for their approval. CITIZEN.

of the interest." This is the gentlest and most insinuating way of stating a difference that involves the uestion of paying one's debts honestly, or duction of paying one's deuts nonestly, or of repudiating them altorether, for the prop-osition to pay in greenbacks is only a half-way halting-place toward entire repudiation. Nevertheless, the World deserves credit for the ingenuity with which it gives promi-nence to Judge Chase as a candidate for the nomination and balances his claims with those of Mr. Pendleton.

A RECENT visitor at Jerusalem gives ome of his impressions of that city as folows:

It is cavernous, disagreeable, damp, desolate, and very uninteresting. It abounds in caves and cisterns, acqueducts and tombs. Greeping into a little for, hole just outside the Damascus gate, we wondered for hours through spacious and lofty caverns indermining shalf the city the ancient quartes discovered by Dr. Barclay. In Warren's recent excavations we grouped through arches and covered ways of Herodian tin down to the original rock of Solomon's foundations. AY ou are struck with the incongruity of new and costly modern buildings rising from among the rub-bish and decay of the old city, and of no use, except for the pligrims of all Christendom who watch with jealous care their respective rights in the Holy City, and are kept from biting and devour. ing one another by the sabre of the Turks. There are great empty places of desolation within the walls. Just inside the Diug gate I saw Jerusalem ploughed as a field, and got lost in the great cactus wilderness of the Tryopenn valley, just where that magnificant causeway of Dr, Robinson's arch once connected Mount Zion with the Temple. Stumbling over dead dogs and garbage un the steep of Zion, I was run at by a cow who was just about tossing me on her borns when the herdman came to my defense. And then g ing out of Zion gate I had to run the gauntlet, of the lepers who there do congregate, whining horribly and stretching out study shapeless storipe.

THE author of "Prometheus and Atlantis," whose astronomical writings have attracted considerable attention, claims to have discovered a fact connected with the moon's motion which is, he says, fatal to Newton's theory of universal gravitation. His alleged discovery is, that in the moon's libration in longitude we see most of her ind most of her western limb when she is near her apoges whereas, the this book near her spouse avantes, theory requires, all affirm, and Newton's theory requires, that we should see most of the moon's western limb when she is near her perigee, and most of her eastern limb, when she is near her aporte.
