PROBABLE, HOMICIDE

A Man Strikes His Wife on the Head with a Hatchet-Tb e Perpetrator Arrested.

A most brute 1 and fiendish attempt at murder was made Monday evening by Peter McFørland, an Irishman, employed at the Keyr, tone Iron Works as a puddler, upon Ann. McFarland, his wife, which in all probs bility will yet prove fatal. The facts connected with the affair, so far as we have been able to ascertain them, are as follovys: McFarland's wife was a widow whe' he married her, some time since, and was; the mother of two children. She owned a bouse and lot on Soho street, near the So ho bridge, in which she has resided since by er man of intemperate habits, possesses a violent temper when drunk, and is consti-tutionally lazy and worthless. He is a puddler by occupation, but does not work steady and squanders his money for whisky when at work, depending up-on his wife to provide for his family; and abusing her if she fails to furnish him with such food as he desires.

such food as he desires. Monday night, about nine o'clock, he come home drunk, and because the supper his wife (who had been out nearly all day) his wite (who had seen out nearly an usy) had prepared for him was not in exact ac-cordance with his taste, he began to abuse her. She tolerated his abuse until forbear-her. She tolerated his abuse until forbearsuce ceased to be a virtue, when she called the police. The officers, being in the vicin-ity, heard her ories, and responded imme-diately. They were about to arrest McFar-land, but cfrained from so doing at the request of his wife, he promising not to abuse ber any more. The officers then left, and McFarland followed them to the corner, watching until they had passed out of sight. He then returned to the room where his wife was and swore he would kill her seizing a hatchet with which to carry his threat is a hatchet with which to carry his threat into execution. His wife, to prevent him from striking her with the hatchet, took hold of him and endeavored to wrench the weapon from his grasp, but failed, and after scuf-fling for some time he succeeded in strikfling for some time ne succeeded in strik-ing her a blow on the right ear, almost sev ering it from her head. She then oried loudly for help, whereupon he struck her another blow on the back part of the head, the blade of the hatchet penetrating the skull its entire length. She then fell to the floor insensible, whereupon he struck her a third time over the left eye. Fearing that her crites for help had been heard and that the rolice would return be log the that the police would return, he left the house, without his coat and hat, evidently thinking that he had killed the woman. This, it appears, occurred between eleven and twelve o'clock, and in perhaps half an hour afterwards the wife returned to consciousness, got up, left the house and walk-ed to Dr. "Frex's office, which is some distance from where she was injured. The Doctor, after dressing her injuries, had her conveyed to Mercy Hospital, where she still remains under charge of Dr. M'Nally. The officers, it appears, had gone some dis-tance from the house before the woman cried help and consequently did not here here help, and consequently did not hear her cries. Officer McCurry, who was off duty cries. Officer McCurry, who was off duty and had retired for the night, was informed of what transpired by his son, who it ap-pears works in a glass house in the neigh-borhood and while on his way home heard that a woman had been murdered. The officer very prompt-ly got up and started for the scene. On his way he met officer Timmony, who was also con duty and going home, but when informed of the case he accompanied McCurry to the house. On arriving there they found a number of officers already around the house, the doors of which were fastened on the inside. Officer Timmony broke the door open, and in company with policeman y searched the house. They found et covered with blood lying in one McCurry searched the h of the rooms, and discovered traces of Great Semi-Annual C'arance Sale at J. In our edition yesterday we gave an ac count of the prosecution of W.B. Hollis, Street, Life Insurance Agent, for obtaining a judgment note for $500 under false pretences.

The facts as claimed by the defendant are as follows:

In June, 1867, while acting as agent for the American Lafe Insurance company, he effected an insurance on the life of Christian Coleman for $3,000. When the policy was brought to Mr. Coleman he was unawas brought to mr. colonial no was that ble to pay the premium, and for some time put Mr. Hollis off in various ways. At length as Mr. Hollis was obliged to report to his company he offered to pay the pre-mium himself and take Mr. Coleman's peraccepted and Mr. Hollis did pay the pre-nium and received from Mr. Coleman a note at twenty days for $123,50, which note was not paid at maturity, and in fact Mr.

Coleman declined to pay it all. That note has not yet been paid. Mr. Coleman died very suddenly. The administrator, William Coleman, made anxious inquiry of Mr. Hollis whether the insurance would be paid inasmuch as the deceased had failed to pay his note at ma-turity. Mr. Hellis informed him that it would, as the Company had received the premium from him. Thereupon Mr. C. chealing, very generons over this unexpected accession to the estate, told Mr. Hollis that as he had paid the premium and been at all the expense and trouble in the matter he would make him a handsome present, and thereupon gave Mr. Hollis a note, which included the original note for fire hum included the original note, for five hun-He gave it of his own accord. The note was deposited with a third party, to be paid when the policy was paid. The note has since been fraudulently obtained and not

Mr. Hollis has since then left the American Life Insurance Company and is now working for another office, and there is ev-idently a strong flavor of malice in the prosecution thus commenced by the agent of the American, and Mr. Hollis is determined to carry the matter further than the ball for his appearance at Coart, waiving a before Justice Ammo learing xplanation of the uniform omission by the railway companies terminating at this city, to furnish excursion tickets for parties wishing to travel in the summer for health or pleasure. Why, for example, cannot a Pittsburgher, during the season, obtain an excursion ticket to Niagara Falls, Trenton Falls, Saratoga, Cape May, the Springs and watering-places generally? When June watering-places generally the sum comes in, the Eastern roads regularly offer facilities of this sort to pleasure travel, in-cluding in their arrangements nearly every note-worthy place of resort in the United note-worthy place of resort in the United States or Canada, placing the fare at about half the regular rates, sometimes even less, frequently giving the option of a greater or less choice of routes, and good for say ten, twenty or thirty days. These facilities induce many people to make ex-gursions, sometimes for health and more frequently only for pleasure, who could not afford to themselves the gratification except under a large reduction of the cost. A large number of those purchasing such tackets would not otherwise travel at all, and it is considered that the business thus obtained by the railways is really, there-fore, an addition to, and not a loss from their regular patronage. It is suggested that such facilities, if supplied here, would be largely enjoyed by a pleasure-loving community like ours, and that the busi-ness which Pittsburgh could be made in this way to yield would swell a total really fore Mayor Drum, vesterday marning. deserving of some effort on the part of companies to secure it. Brutal Assault. A most brutal and unwarranted assault was made upon James Daugherty, head salesman in Rodelheim's grocery, on Smithfield street, yesterday morning, by Thomas Hart, residing in the cellar of No. 4, Splane's Court. It appears that Hart's son, a boy eight or ten years of age, went into the store on Monday evening, and was stealing dried peaches out of a barrel 'which' stood near the door. Daugherty caught him at it, struck him on the head, and drove him out of the store.

out of the store. About ten o'clock yesterday morning, Hart, accompanied by his wile, went into the store, and the wife pointing to Daugh-erty said : "that is the man;" whereupon Hart picked up a two pound weight and struck him on the head three times. The fourth blow felled him to the floor, and fractured the skull. The other blows were on the side of the head and although cost of the side of the head, and although each of them made a severe ga h they did not injure his skull. Daugherty was alone in the store at the time, and was found a few moments after the act had been committed, lving upon the floor insensible and bleeding profusely. The proprietor sent for a carriage and had him conveyed to his residence, on Poplar Alley, 6th ward, where his injuries were attended to by Dr. Daily, who states that it is possible they may prove fatal. Hari, it appears, left the pren ises immediately, and had not been arrest-ed at a late hour last night. against Michael McNamara for disorderly. conduct. It seems that Michael, who was erally. slightly under the influence of the ardent last Sunday morning, made his apance at the residence of the Jovce family, having in view the castigation of the head thereof. Failing to execute his design at the house, he laid in wait until Mr. Joyce left to take a stroll, and embra ing the opportunity, beat him to his heart's content. The case was heard yes-terday morning, and it was finally settled by Michael paying a fine of ten dollars. In return he made information against. Mrs. Cuff for selling liquor on Sundays. She oc-cupies the front room of the Joyce mansion, and from her he says he procured the liquor which caused him to act so disorderly. A hearing was had in this case yester-day evening, which resulted in the defend-ant being held for her appearance at Conrt.

Market House Difficulty.

John Wrigley, one 'of the constables of the Pittsburgh markets, made information before Alderman Humbert, yesterday, against Catharine Semarara, a country woman, for interfering with him in the discharge of his duties. It appears that another countrywoman, named Elizabeth Shaffer, had ocsupied a stand in the market on Monday, leaving her bench and other trappings over night, intending to occupy it again the next day. She was, however, forestalled in this arrangement by Mrs. Semarara, who took charge of the premises early next morning, throwing to one side the fixings of the former occupant. Mr. Wrigley, the constable being made ac-quainted with the facts, ordered Mrs. Sem-grara to vacate the stand in favor of Mrs. Shaffer, which she refused to do, and hence the information. Larceny .- One of the gentlemen board-Larceny.—One of the gentlemen board-ers of Ann Shivelen, on High street, be-coming indebted to his landlady, left a parcel of wearing apparel, valued at $10, as security for the payment of all arrear-ages. Michael McGee, forgetting the in-junction of the eighth commandment, and without consultation with any person, ap-propriated the articles to his own use, which fact becoming known to Mrs. Shive-len, she very promptly made information before Alderman McMasters against the contleman. A warrant was isaned

Assault and Battery.—The domestic ar-rangements of John Meal, of the Ninth ward, are rather inharmonious, if his own ward, are rather inharmonious, if his own statement is to be relied on. He appeared before Alderman Taylor, yesterday, and lodged an information for assault and bat-tery against his wife, Eliza Meal, alkas Eliza Dudley, stating that she had attacked and beaten him pretty severely with her shut fist and otherwise abused him. A hearing was had in the case and after mutual ex-planation the matter was compromised and the sult withdrawn.

Cross Suits. John Swaney yesterday brought suit against Joseph Hastings for surety of the peace before Alderman Mc-Masters. This is a cross suit arising out of A matters. This is a cross suit arising out of s former difficulty botween the parties, which resulted in a suit against Swaney by Hastings for damages, which we noticed in a former issue. Swaney states that Hast-ings threatened to knock his brains out with a stone, accompanying the threat with other hostile demonstrations. A warrant was stand. was fitsued > > > > >
