

The Pittsburgh Gazette.
A NEWSPAPER
THE SUMMER FASHIONS.

From Boston.

THE NO BONNET.

has come at last; it has been expected that bonnets would come to that for some time, and really the substitute made of a few yards of narrow ribbon, with lace or fringe edges, looks about as much like a bonnet when it is on the head as the bits of straw and lace which come under the proper name. The "Lea," as the new style is called, consists of ten double loops of narrow ribbon, five on each hand, mounted on a strip of foundation muslin an inch in width, covered with silk the same color as the ribbon; this makes two bands of five loops each, which are fastened to a length of ribbon sufficient to pass round the head, and tie under the hair behind.

Properly arranged, one band is placed across the top of the head, and the other over the comb or chignon, and when the ends are turned behind, few would suppose that any difference existed between it and bonnets sold for twenty-five dollars each.

For summer, however, they would be immense, as ladies could make a new one every day while waiting for the carriage to drive around, if they wanted to, and cost seventy-five of them in one small hat-box.

Another new idea in bonnets is the introduction of a ruff more imposing than Queen Elizabeth's; it consists of a fall of fluted lace which passes across the back of the head, depends to the shoulders, and forms a square loop upon the breast. A third imported oddity is called "string," which fastens with an ornament upon the breast, and then divides off, and now goes down upon the sides of the dress, where the ends of lace are fastened with a bow and ends of ribbon.

is a new little bonnet of straw, the rim of which rolls over in the front, instead of straighting up. It is mostly trimmed with leaves and with a scarf of real lace, which is fastened at the back with a rosette of ribbon, and forms second strings in front.

Leave out the spiral and flexible stems are this season among the most fashionable ornaments. They have delicate impeded flowers; some are fitted with the heads of the forest, others are touched with fire, and still others shine with a brilliant metallic green. The newest, and prettiest, however, are the leaves and flowers, of mother-of-pearl, which in the natural tint compose a picture of paradise for turquoise-blue bonnets. The new designs for bonnets are in the habit of carefully concealing them from ourselves and each other, and history, which is said to be the result of a general conspiracy to conceal the truth, is probably less trustworthy on this than on any other point.

The wheat on the prairie lands of Western Missouri is nearly ready for the sickle. It's bearing heavily with grain. Old farmers say that for ten years there has been nothing like it. Through the agricultural portion of Kansas, from this point to the mineral regions of the further West, the crop is equally promising. The average yield will be thirty-five bushels to the acre, but in some bottom lands, it will reach fifty.

GUIDE TO MARRIAGE.

Young Men's Guide to Happiness and Contented Felicity. The human view of beauty and youth and manhood, and the secret of happiness, is given in a variation of the "Marie Antoinette" is a new and fresh sight, with lace hood, square tabs in front, trimmed with lace and fastened down under a belt, to which a wide sash with bows are attached at the back, the ends of the sash being trimmed with lace. Water-proof cloaks are now made with a deep cape instead of a hood, the cape caught up at the back with two rosettes in the "Collets Bawn" style. Scotch tartan makes a more stately travelling costume of cloth, and is very becoming in the above mentioned.

MORNING WHAPPERS AND COTTON DRESSES.

Several correspondents, some from distant parts of the country, have written to me to know how to make calico dresses. Making, of which every lady needs one or two, are gored plain, buttoned down the front, trimmed with a narrow border in a chintz pattern or a plain cambric stitched on and finished with two little pockets. Such wrappers are made of prints of small patterns, can be bought ready made at a fashionable mill for four or half a dollar each.

Wrappers of the same are made in white plique and trimmed with white braid (several rows) for five dollars each.
