

The Pittsburgh Gazette

THREE MEETINGS.

BY THE AUTHOR OF "YON HALL." GENTLEMAN.
On the happy meeting from over the sea; or
The three meetings which have been over me;
And we stand face to face, and for letters read
With a gazing, as if it were some strange,
All I asking, "Say now is there aught of change?
Since I love my friend and my friend loves me."

On the blissful meeting of lovers true;
When the heart which has done all that could be done
And the hand which has given all that could be given
Has met again, and over those shall be
Dead years of anguish, parting, and pain,
In the bright, the joyful, the happy, the gay,
Unsanctified, union, in the balmiest air;

Archangel, the good guards the right,

But on the meeting to come one day.

When the spirit slips out of the house of clay;

When the spirit slips out of this face of mine;

And the spirit goes onward, as spirit must go;

But to eye, without fear I see;

God and my friends, as they see me."

EPHEMERIS.

Lamarine is said to be crazy.

Box-toes are now fashionable on ladies' shoes.

Chester, Maine, has a one hundred and one.

Agricultural schools are to be started in Algeria.

French lawyers are to be allowed soon to wear beards.

Potato bugs are not pleasant but still they are in Massachusetts.

There are six thousand more Americans than Germans in Chicago.

Small-pox is threatening to become epidemic in Providence, R. I.

Ghosts are terrifying the inhabitants of several of the counties of this State.

Mrs. Lander is enjoying her well earned summer rest at Swampscott, Mass.

Turkish finances are said to be more prosperous just now than they usually are.

"One foot in the grave; a love story," is the name of one of the latest English novels.

Deep lace ruffles on the shirt fronts are now once more the fashion for gentlemen's evening dress.

There are four factories in Springfield, Mass., engaged in making buttons out of vegetable ivory.

Judge Sharswood is one of the strong candidates for nomination at the New York Convention.

Erie has had cool weather and plenty of dust all the while we were indulging in our little rains here.

Fifteen persons were killed on the 10th of June in Stockholm by the explosion of a nitro-glycerine factory.

The Fenians in England now say that O'Farrell was insane and that the British government knew of it.

An exchange thinks that a stone-mason on a four-story house about as high in masonry as any other man.

Twenty thousand people want to get to see the sun at the Democratic Fourth of July celebration at New York.

"Geo. B. McClellan for Vice President" is the latest humiliation suffered by that no-warrior and would-be statesman.

What shall we eat? This is not so much a riddle, as the name of a useful little book recently issued by G. P. Putnam and son.

Dr. Cummings has been indulging in a little despair over the progress recently made in England by the Roman Catholic church.

Trinity Chapel, New York, was the scene of a very fashionable wedding last week. The bride wore a gray travelling suit and a gray hat.

Senator Yates has once more conquered the enemy and is now leading a sober life and is once more one of the most brilliant men in Washington.

Geo. W. Middleton, a New York actor, has four wives. He liked to play Othello, but now he is, harking to the Toombs, where he is reading.

Jenkins is sorely troubled about Colfax.

He can't find out whether the next Vice President is soon to be married or not, and Schuyler won't tell him.

The Grand Duke of Luxembourg does not destroy the fortifications at Luxembourg, because it will cost him $4,000,000 to do so and he hasn't the money.

General Carl Schurz has taken to the stump. General Grant has thrown away many a stump, but it is to none of these that Schurz has taken himself.

The second son of the Egyptian Vice-roy is to be educated in England. His future profession will be military; at present he is but fifteen years of age.

The Mormon Bishop, John Sharp, is at the head of a party of fifty saints who are working on that portion of the U. P. Railroad started by Brigham Young.

If a certain old gentleman and lady in Vermont live another eighteen months they will celebrate their diamond wedding. Their oldest child is now seventy-one years old.

An exchange says two Pittsburgh merchants have been detected in smuggling oranges from Canada. The crime was not small one, but it might have been a greater.

The Mikado of Japan enjoys nothing better than improving on nature. He has had his eyebrows shaved off and another pair painted on—an inch higher up on his forehead.

Brick Pomeroy made a speech in St. Louis the other day, and disgusted the Democrats that the Republicans are anxious to engage him to speak his piece throughout the season.

The suicide mania is not confined to this country, it also rages in England, France and Germany. Seven persons took their own lives in London during the last week in May.

A lunatic jumped from a New York hotel over his head, but the flag of the dove and the tree didn't hit him, any good when he got into the water.

Rev. Henry Stockpole, of Woodstock, Vermont, while descending a ladder, at a saw mill in the place a few days ago, lost his footing, and fell outside of a large circular opening, which severed him from his body.

A Frenchman died in Buffalo a few days ago after drinking two quarts of beer. Plenty of Germans have died here a good while after drinking a great deal more than two quarts of the native beverage.

—Hans, the wizard, strayed westward; his floating head and Indian batch tricks are among the most wonderful in the modern magical repertoire, but the manner of the wizard is unpleasant.

The Hapsburg family, anxious to prove their gratitude to the two lawyers who defended the Emperor Maximilian and refused to take any fees, have forwarded to them each a service of silver plate worth $50,000.

—A Western lady recovered damages the other day from a dentist for renting her mouth to the doctor's student to take casts in beeswax and plaster, which she said seriously impeded her articulation and respiration.

—Senor Romero, the Mexican Ambassador to Washington, has returned to the United States for the purpose of getting a wife, he is to be married early in July to a young lady of Washington, who has just left boarding school.

—Alexander Dumas is well known to be an old hypocrite and sinner, so that no one will be much surprised to hear that he went to the first representation of his new play "Madame de Chambay" and wept bitterly at all the affecting parts.

—Woman's rights are being agitated in various, unexpected quarters, the latest in Lisbon in Portugal, where a paper has recently been started to advocate the principles of the Revolution of Miss Anthony; it is called the "Vox Feminae."

—A negro has recently died in Washington. Thus far there is nothing very singular in the fact, but this negro left $30,000 behind him. This also was not very peculiar, as far as the leaving is concerned, but the $30,000 part is certainly a mystery.

—Some old pipes were found in a place in Scotland where there was once a Roman camp. Other people have probably been there since, but that makes no difference to an English antiquary who says that this discovery proves that the Romans smoked.

—The people of Antwerp, Belgium, had recently a very lively time indeed, caused by a tiger which got loose from a menagerie and rendered himself generally obnoxious to the inhabitants. The beast was shot dead at last, but the people of the good old town were horribly scared.

—A Paris correspondent writes that the dress of the season for walking purposes is a foulard—the shade light fawn or cream color, with a fringe of a somewhat darker shade or satin. The indispensable fichu as Lappelle, or mantie and fichu combined, is worn with this cut in two skirts. At the theatres, pink silk is worn under high muslin bodices inserted with lace. Full dress at court is satin.

—Paris correspondent writes that the dress of the season for walking purposes is a foulard—the shade light fawn or cream color, with a fringe of a somewhat darker shade or satin. The indispensable fichu as Lappelle, or mantie and fichu combined, is worn with this cut in two skirts. At the theatres, pink silk is worn under high muslin bodices inserted with lace. Full dress at court is satin.

—A Paris correspondent writes that the dress of the season for walking purposes is a foulard—the shade light fawn or cream color, with a fringe of a somewhat darker shade or satin. The indispensable fichu as Lappelle, or mantie and fichu combined, is worn with this cut in two skirts. At the theatres, pink silk is worn under high muslin bodices inserted with lace. Full dress at court is satin.

—An economical lady went to spend the winter with her consummate husband in Florida. The husband died, and his widow had him packed in a box, in which, to save the expense of transportation and to give an agreeable surprise to her Northern friends, she also packed a quantity of fine oranges and sweet potatoes. The widow, the box and its miscellaneous contents all arrived in good condition at their destination. This is rather a notable example of peculiar economy.

—C. Cornell, of Nebraska, who leads the graduating class in the Annapolis Naval School, is a model young man—a second Admirable Crichton. He is a thorough scholar, a great gymnast, excelling in all the many sports. He so admirably divides his time with study and exercise, that he can devote the Sabbath to the teaching of a Sabbath-School. Purely religious, without any taint of hypocrisy and cant, he is deservedly popular with the officers and messmates.

—Trinity Chapel, New York, was the scene of a very fashionable wedding last week. The bride wore a gray travelling suit and a gray hat.

—Senator Yates has once more conquered the enemy and is now leading a sober life and is once more one of the most brilliant men in Washington.

—Geo. W. Middleton, a New York actor, has four wives. He liked to play Othello, but now he is, harking to the Toombs, where he is reading.

Jenkins is sorely troubled about Colfax.

He can't find out whether the next Vice President is soon to be married or not, and Schuyler won't tell him.

The Grand Duke of Luxembourg does not destroy the fortifications at Luxembourg, because it will cost him $4,000,000 to do so and he hasn't the money.

General Carl Schurz has taken to the stump. General Grant has thrown away many a stump, but it is to none of these that Schurz has taken himself.

The second son of the Egyptian Vice-roy is to be educated in England. His future profession will be military; at present he is but fifteen years of age.

The Mormon Bishop, John Sharp, is at the head of a party of fifty saints who are working on that portion of the U. P. Railroad started by Brigham Young.

If a certain old gentleman and lady in Vermont live another eighteen months they will celebrate their diamond wedding. Their oldest child is now seventy-one years old.

An exchange says two Pittsburgh merchants have been detected in smuggling oranges from Canada. The crime was not small one, but it might have been a greater.

The Mikado of Japan enjoys nothing better than improving on nature. He has had his eyebrows shaved off and another pair painted on—an inch higher up on his forehead.

Brick Pomeroy made a speech in St. Louis the other day, and disgusted the Democrats that the Republicans are anxious to engage him to speak his piece throughout the season.

The suicide mania is not confined to this country, it also rages in England, France and Germany. Seven persons took their own lives in London during the last week in May.

A lunatic jumped from a New York hotel over his head, but the flag of the dove and the tree didn't hit him, any good when he got into the water.

Rev. Henry Stockpole, of Woodstock, Vermont, while descending a ladder, at a saw mill in the place a few days ago, lost his footing, and fell outside of a large circular opening, which severed him from his body.

A Frenchman died in Buffalo a few days ago after drinking two quarts of beer. Plenty of Germans have died here a

PITTSBURGH GAZETTE: FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1868.

DENTISTRY TEETH EXTRACTED

WITHOUT PAIN!
NO CHARGE MADE WHEN TEETH ARE ORDERED
A FULL SET FOR $5.

AT DR. SCOTT'S,
618 PENN STREET, 2D DOOR ABOVE HAND.

ALL WORK WARRANTED. CALL AND EX-
AMINE SPECIMENS OF GENUINE DENTAL EQUIPMENT.

W. E. SCOTT, DENTIST.

DR. SCOTT'S, DENTIST.

<p