THE DEATH of David Ewing, of Allegheny City, in the Commercial Hospital, at Cincinnati, on Thursday evening, is recorded in the journals of that city.

GEN. GRANT goes West this week, his family accompanying him, intending to be absent about a month from Washington.

WE ARE gratified to learn that, in deference to the general expressions of public opinion, the Ways and Means Committee of the House have reconsidered their action postponing the second Tariff bill.

THE pending claims against the War office, for refusing to sanction which Mr. STANTON made himself especially obnoxious to the "ring," have been referred by Gen. Schofield to an Examining Board.

HON. JOHN COVODE is the Republican candidate for re-election in the XXIXth or Westmoreland District, of this State.

B. L. E.—A very appropriate and excellent sermon was delivered in the M. E. Church, corner of Smithfield and Seventh streets, by the Pastor, yesterday morning, on the request of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

NOTING the triumphs of Reconstruction, the New York Times says: A restored Union at the hands of a Republican Congress, despite Executive vetoes and the Democratic party, will be the tidal wave of success which will carry GRANT and COLFAX to victory in November.

THE BILL containing the Freedmen's Bureau for one year requires it to be discontinued in any State which shall have been restored to its constitutional relations, unless the Secretary and Commissioner shall deem the further continuance necessary.

THE FLORIDA Senators already elected are in Washington, but will not be admitted until after the State Legislature has been reconvened.

It is intimated that Prof. BURR, who has recently found so much favor in the eyes of the Democracy, will challenge the intrepid NEOLEY to a public discussion on the issues of the day.

has got to be made. However, the General can talk as well as fight, and we dare say will be ready at any moment to meet any political competitor who throws down the gauntlet for fair discussion at any proper place, and under proper circumstances.

The Sunday Leader, our able and sprightly contemporary, entered into the eighth year of its existence yesterday, and marked the event by donning an entire new dress. In point of neatness the Leader will now compare favorably with any paper in the country, while it is edited and managed with marked talent and ability.

The journals of the country have dwelt with such particularity upon the frauds systematically perpetrated in the evasion of the tax upon whisky, as to lead to the impression that in this class of crime, as it is administered, has no other defects.

There are reasons for believing that the new bill, which the House passed and sent to the Senate on Saturday, reducing somewhat the tobacco tax, and very materially that on distilled liquors, will result in checking these frauds in the future and in securing an increased revenue.

WHATEVER may be the action of the Democratic Convention proper, it is clear enough that Gen. HANCOCK is to be nominated previously in the side arrangement which is to be called "The Conservative Soldiers and Sailors' Convention."

But, the Report detailing the evidence taken by the Managers of Impeachment to the kind and amount of pressure brought to bear upon certain Senators, must settle the case even now in the mind of every man who reads it.

While we thus held, and still hold, we did not fail to insist that Congress should not enter upon the impeachment business, until it had exhausted all other obvious measures of redress, and was so clearly of one mind as to ensure the complete and speedy success of the proceedings.

THE restoration of Arkansas is immediately followed by an order from Gen. GRANT to Gen. McDOWELL, the local Commandant, instructing the latter to turn over the State government to the civil authorities as soon as he may with safety to the public interests.

They have remitted themselves to the extreme ground of the unreconstructed rebels, that a "military despotism" is better than that comprehensive Democracy which confers a full enfranchisement upon every citizen, and in future years, that suffrage irrespective of race or previous condition is a political condition inseparable to the States lately in rebellion, simply because the people of the always loyal States hold that condition to be inapplicable and unnecessary for themselves.

IMPEACHMENT, ONCE MORE. For two years past we have steadily maintained not simply that President Johnson was deserving of Impeachment, but that his Impeachment was imperatively demanded, for the continuance of the just balance of powers essential to government by the people.

FRESH DEMOCRATIC DISPLEASURE. So long as the States that engaged in the Rebellion remained under the Military supervision of the General Government, the Democrats throughout the whole country, and particularly their representative men in the two Houses of Congress, were marvellously indignant, and let no occasion slip, in season or out of season, to make their feelings manifest.

THE DEMOCRACY AGAINST REGISTRATION. We find in the State Guard of the 26th the following very important statement concerning the pending suit to test the validity of the late Registration law.

THE JUDGES of our Supreme Court will stand divided, politically, three Democrats to two Republicans. Time was when the political opinions of the citizen were an unknown element in his judicial decisions from the bench.

After a season, when JACKSON had retired to the Hermitage, the political heresy he had combated was revived, and flourished with greater vigor than before. The slaveholders had resolved to revolutionize the government, so as to make its political form harmonize with the "peculiar institution," and for reasons since demonstrated to be cogent, determined to make the Democratic party the instrument for accomplishing this momentous revolution.

only about one-half of the population to share in the suffrage. Nominally, the line of distinction ran on color, but really on conception of aristocracy, not clearly defined, but operating with remarkable certainty. If the revolted States could be restored on that basis, Mr. FAYLOR, or whoever shall be nominated for President by the Democratic National Convention, would be passably sure of getting all the electoral votes of these States, and might have at least a possibility of obtaining enough more to be chosen.

As it did not seem possible to secure Reconstruction on this plan, the Democrats set out to "court the blacks." They prosecuted this enterprise vigorously for awhile, though not with the delicacy and sincerity essential to ensure success. The job was so clumsily managed that it failed. The penetration of the blacks, proved greater than the Democratic capacity for dissimulation.

Hereupon, the Democrats reverted to their former position that this was "a white man's government;" that the revolted States had lost none of their rights and fallen under no disabilities by their treasonable conduct; and that they should be unconditionally restored to their original status. As the Democrats saw no way in which they could be sure to get the electoral votes of these States, they preferred to still have them held in abeyance, and not allowed to vote at all, rather than incur the hazard of having them all, or nearly all, vote for GRANT and COLFAX.

Fortunately, however, they are powerless in the premises, and the Southern States will all be restored upon lenient and just conditions, clearly indicating the magnanimity of the Republican party, in accordance with the rights of all classes of the inhabitants of the country, and tending powerfully to guard against the recurrence of other revolts, because settling permanently the rights of the Federal government and the responsibilities of the respective States.

DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases, which finally ended in a terrible fever, which I had been advised to "let alone," on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten it on my lungs.

So FAR the Democratic State Conventions have shown a remarkable unanimity in avoiding any very positive expression of opinion on the great issues of the day. True to the well-known admirable drill and discipline of the party, they leave themselves open for Pendleton and a white man's government, or Chase and negro suffrage, just as the New York clause may direct. The slavery of party dominancy has never been more powerfully illustrated.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED. When the system is once affected it will not rally of its own accord; it needs help-it must be strengthened and invigorated; this is especially the case when the

DR. SARGENT'S Backache Pills. Are purely vegetable, and contain no mercury or calomel. They do not exhaust the system, but on the contrary they act as a tonic, imparting new tone and vigor to the organs throughout the whole body.

LET US PROTECT OURSELVES. The physical structure of the strongest human being is vulnerable everywhere. Our bodies are endowed by nature with a certain negative power, which protects them, to some extent, from unwholesome influences; but this protection is imperfect, and cannot be safely relied on in all climates, regions, or under circumstances of more than ordinary prostration.
