INTERESTING OCCASION. Worthy Retiring Official Made the Recipient of an Elegant Testimonial of

Esteem from the Employes of the C. & P. Railroad. Wellsville. Ohio. on the line of the Pittsourgh and Cleveland Railroad, on Thorsday evening last, was enlivened by an occasion which will long be remembered as one of brilliancy, cheer and good humor. It had been previously arranged by the nu-Smoky to the Forest city, to meet together the enters into his new sphere of action He enters into his new sphere of action and friendship for their very worthy and highly respected former co-laborer J. H. Devereaux, Esq., who lately resigned the important position of Vice President of the Company. Fully eight hundred gentlemen, employed in the various departments of the road, and from all its principal points, brought together by special trains from Pittsburgh and Cleveland, assembled at the commodious Railroad House, where, after an organization was effected, Sol. Schoyer, Esq., Attorney for the road for this city, proceeded, on behalf of the employes, to present Mr. Deveraux with a spirited blooded horse and beautiful and elaborately finished family barouche, with harness and outfit complete. The reipient was taken completely by surprise, not having had the slightest intimation of the object of the meeting further than a friendly interchange of good feeling with the many friends on the line with whom laughed and chattered away as though it had been at home. The Mayor has taken charge of it until the parents can be found. Badi the many friends on the line with whom Mr. Schoyer addressing Mr. Deversaux, said: That it was the privilege of such case Mr. Schoyer addressing Mr. Deversaux, said: That it was the privilege of such occa-sions as this, that friends could throw aside taily and unofficially, they could and did justly and truly esteem and respect him. The consciousness of duties well performed, was a pleasure to him; the pleasure must be greatly heightened when he knew that his co-workers, who were his most competent judges, accorded him the credit therefor, which was his due. The ness and of that appreciation must make the most dolightful experience of life. Surely in no other position are the duties so varied, so arduous, so respon-sible, as in that which he had just quitted.

One thoroughly fit, was like the poet, born not made. The great public who were whirled so rapidly, and safely, over the line, from day to day, little knew what constant care, and unceasing attention every movement of every train, required to secure that safety. What decision of mind, what judgment, and discretion for every emergency. It seems as if the mind spun out as it were with every train, com-prehending from one end of the line to the

By means their skill in the curative art. By means of a scientific process they detect the immediate seat of disease as well as the cause, and hence with this knowledge their treat-ment must be efficacious. Such a physician is Dr. M'Kee, who we are pleased to see has located his office permanently in our midst at No. 174 Smithfield street. With long practice, close study and careful ope-ration, he has made himself master of most diseases to which human flesh is heir. He treats all diseases of the lungs, throat, bowels and organs of hearing and sight in the most skillful manner, and there are hun-dreds in our city who bear willing testimo-
