

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

CAPE COD AND ALL ALONG THE SHORE. Stories. By Charles Nordoff. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York.

Those who were favored with a hasty reading of these charming stories, in "Harper's Magazine," and the "Atlantic Monthly," will be pleased to have them in bound form...

HORACE WILDE. By Mrs. M. Jeanne Malory. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia.

This work belongs to the class of fiction called "religious novels," if the classification is proper. Religious controversy and love are closely locked in the pleasant narrative...

THE REBELLION RECORD: A Diary of the American Events. Published by D. C. Nostrand, New York.

The LXXIII number is just out, completing this work. The careful details of the events of the Great Rebellion have been embodied in this history, in an impartial manner...

THE HISTORY OF THE DASHAWAY, OR KATIE PUTNAM'S VOYAGE. By Mary Manning. Published by Lee & Shepard, Boston.

These numbers of the "Helping Hand Series" give some idea of the character of these books, their object and design. The moral lessons taught in this series have made them a great favorite with young people...

JOHN BRADSHAW. By J. H. Howard. Published by G. W. Carleton & Co., New York.

Works of this class, however objectionable they are, to persons of refined taste, are popular and much sought after by the masses, for the rich humor which they contain...

A TALE OF TWO CITIES, AND GREAT EXPECTATIONS. By Charles Dickens. With twelve illustrations by J. H. Howard.

This volume is "The Charles Dickens Edition," the merits of which have over and over again been noted. Compressed in this book of five hundred pages may be found two of Dickens' great novels...

FROM THE OAK TO THE OLIVE. A Plain Record of a Pleasant Journey. By Julia Ward Howe. Published by Lee & Shepard, Boston.

Books of travel are so numerous that it scarcely seems possible to write anything sufficiently new and varied, to make a book of this character interesting. However, the best travel may be by travelers, there are always places in European travel worthy of reproduction and worthy of reading...

THE CORNER HOUSE. MARY STEADMAN. Published by Henry Hoyt, Boston.

These volumes form a part of "Hoyt's Sunday School Series of Juvenile Religious Works." They are well named, and are admirably suited for Sunday School Libraries, and for the family circle.

war, and reconstruction, 1865-1867. This work is undoubtedly the best on the great rebellion that has appeared. It has been completed in a spirit independent of the special interest of any party...

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for July (Quarterly). Published by Ticknor & Fields, Boston.

This able Quarterly comes laden with articles of marked quality, as the following contents indicate: 1. Lawrence Sterne. 2. Meteoric Showers. 3. The Religious Reform Movement in Italy. 4. The Lumber Region of Michigan. 5. George Willard Curtis. 6. Essay on Liberal Education. 7. John Hookman Fresco. 8. The Chicago Convention. 9. Dryden. 10. Commercial Immorality and Political Corruption. 11. Critical Notices. The article on "Dryden," by James Russell Lowell, is one of much merit.

THE REBELLION RECORD: A Diary of the American Events. Published by D. C. Nostrand, New York.

The LXXIII number is just out, completing this work. The careful details of the events of the Great Rebellion have been embodied in this history, in an impartial manner, from official documents on both sides. Its importance to all private, and more especially public and district libraries, will be readily seen from the facts named. The numbers are elegantly illustrated with steel plate engravings of distinguished officers of both armies.

CAMERONS FROM ENGLISH HISTORY. From Rollo to Edward IV. By the author of "The Four Rival Kings." Philadelphia, J. B. Lippincott & Co. For sale by K. S. Davis, Pittsburgh.

History is presented in a very attractive and interesting form for young folks in this work. Pictures of persons and events are drawn with such distinctness that there is a charm about it which interests as well as instructs the reader. These "Camerons" were prepared years ago for a special purpose, and afterwards were revised and enlarged to make this excellent book. They commence with the tenth century and come down to the death of Robert Bruce in 1329, early in the reign of Edward the Third.

THE MIDDLE AGES, AND THOSE OF THE ROSES. The book is printed in elegant style. DORRY, DICKERSON AT HOME. By Sophia Dorr. New York, Lee & Shepard, Boston.

This little volume is a charming one for "two folks," and is written in simple style for the capacity of young minds. FARM, TALES, NUBSES AND NURSERY. Published by Lee & Shepard, Boston.

The first named is a series of admirable articles in the colloquial style, illustrating various common farm topics, written by George E. Brackett, Belfast, Maine. Its practical and worthy of a wide sale. "Nurses and Nursery," is a pamphlet of eighty pages, number five of "Tracts for the People," written specially with reference to the Management of Sick Women. It contains valuable suggestions.

A CORRESPONDENT of the London Field relates the following curious incident: "Having been told by my brother that a blackbird had taken possession of a hen's nest in the hedge of the farm garden, and had been sitting upon a hen's egg for the last ten days, I went up to the farm to satisfy myself as to the truth of the story, and there, sure enough, was the blackbird on the nest. I put her off and examined the egg, which was quite warm. The farming man told me that when he first found the nest there was only one egg in it, which the blackbird was sitting upon, but that since that time the hen has laid regularly in the laid eggs. During the time the hen is laying, the blackbird perches in some place close by, and seems anything but pleased by the intrusion.

Most Bitters of the present day that are highly praised through the newspapers as having great curative properties are vile compounds, and base impostures, containing no medicinal virtues whatever, and, instead of acting as a stimulant and tonic, have a tendency to weaken the stomach by destroying the coating. The public should therefore be very careful in purchasing none but Robb's Stomach Bitters, which have stood the test as a remedial agent for many years, and are really as valuable as any medicine known to the world, and when taken, in conjunction with Robb's Food Pills, are the safest and surest remedy for all those ailments and disorders, thoroughly regulating the whole system, and giving tone to the digestive organs. They are highly recommended as an invigorating tonic to mothers while nursing, increasing the flow of milk, and for convalescents to restore the prostration which always follows long-continued sickness, if they are unassisted. No household should consider themselves safe without this ordinary medicine without these invaluable remedies. They can be obtained of any druggist.

THE CORNER HOUSE. MARY STEADMAN. Published by Henry Hoyt, Boston.

These volumes form a part of "Hoyt's Sunday School Series of Juvenile Religious Works." They are well named, and are admirably suited for Sunday School Libraries, and for the family circle. There is a healthy glow throughout both volumes, in which lessons are taught worthy to be followed by young people. Under the guise of such stories, great moral principles are illustrated, and have the effect of forming the character of youth in the right mold. HARRIS'S FEDERAL HISTORY OF THE GREAT REBELLION. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by Henry Miner, Pittsburgh.
