

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

THE NEW REBELLION.

Record of the Democratic Party

AS MADE UP

BY ITSELF.

BLAIR'S LETTER DICTATING THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

PUBLISHED DAILY, BY PENNIMAN, REED &amp; CO., PROPRIETORS.

F. P. PENNIMAN, JOSIAH KING, Editors and Proprietors.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF PITTSBURGH, ALLEGHENY AND ALLEGHENY.

TERMS: Dail. Sem. Weekly. Weekly. One year... $3 to... the year. Single copy, 25c. Six mos. 1.50. Six copies, each 1.25. Three mos. 75c. Ten mos. 1.50. From each, 10c. and one to Agent.

OFFICE: GAZETTE BUILDING, NOS. 84 AND 86 FIFTH ST.

GOLD closed in New York on Monday at 146@146.

GEN. GRANT remains at Galena, his old home, until the middle of the current month, and will then return Eastward.

The "cattle-disease" has made its appearance at the yards and slaughter-houses in the suburbs of New York. Why should we wonder at it when the railroad companies knowingly took the responsibility of conveying it there?

The Atlantic Cable "rote sarkasical" when it announced that ex-Confederate Secretary BENJAMIN has given a pamphlet to the London world, arguing that the repudiation of debts is not compatible with "the innate honesty of the American business public." The idea is well enough, but its expositor is most unfortunately chosen.

There are reports from Washington that Mr. JOHNSON proposes to recognize the Southern State governments as legal, and to give due heed to their official applications for Federal aid in maintaining the laws. When it is remembered that, in his message vetoing the Electoral College Bill he explicitly declared the illegality of the acts under which those governments have obtained existence, we find it difficult to give entire credence to the later reports, first above alluded to. We prefer to judge the President by what he shall do, not by what others may say of him.

Part of the diseased cattle at the East Liberty stock yards were shipped last week to New York. Nearly one hundred of them died on the round, and at the yards at Commippaw, causing great alarm and excitement in New York. Our dispatches state that one case of sickness from eating the diseased beef has been reported. The railroad authorities consented to ship the cattle from this point only upon the representation that they would be disposed of as condemned animals on their arrival at their destination. If they were sold to butchers for table purposes, the operators in the transaction were guilty of gross offense and should be severely dealt with. It was at best an unsafe policy which led to their being transported to the East.

REPUBLICANS! are you prepared for another prolonged and bloody war? Everywhere throughout the country the opposition jubilantly exult over the dark cloud of trouble they themselves are raising. It is but natural that the uncompromising rebels should rejoice in the prospect of again meeting the Union ranks in battle, hoping by the aid of their allied friends in the North to undo the glorious results growing out of the rebellion in which they were so wofully defeated. The threats of the SEYMORE-BLAIR party to bring war to the doors of the Republicans mean more than idle electioneering words. They are in dead earnest, and if they secure a victory at the polls their wickedness and violence will break forth upon the people like a storm-cloud, and plunge the country into scenes of anarchy and bloodshed.

THE DEMOCRATIC REBELLION RECORD.

We surrender our column this morning to the record of the Democratic party, as made up by itself, showing its part in the last rebellion and its preparation for another treasonable struggle against the Constitution and laws. We have collected together, in a form convenient for reference, the most conclusive evidence, all of it upon recognized Democratic authority, of the deliberate purpose of that party to secede, and then to retain the control of the Federal Government by a scheme which, in its details, comprehend:

I. An armed and rebellious resistance to the law.

II. The overthrow and nullification of the Federal Constitution.

III. The violent and revolutionary exclusion of the Senate from the exercise of its prerogatives as a portion of the law-making power.

IV. A treasonable plot to restore, without law and in defiance of law, to the unreconstructed States of Virginia, Texas and Mississippi, all the rights of an equal participation in the next Presidential election and to enforce, if need be, by arms, the counting of their unlawful Electoral votes.

V. The exclusion of three and a half million of legal Southern voters from their legal right of suffrage.

VI. The election of General GRANT to be followed by another Southern appeal to arms.

VII. The election of SEYMORE and BLAIR to be followed by an armed overthrow of the legal Governments in the Southern States, and the forcible re-establishment of rebel supremacy under the old Confederate Constitution.

This is the scheme which the Democratic party has now the hardihood to avow, and for the accomplishment of which, the nominations of SEYMORE and BLAIR have been expressly made.

And the evidence thereof, which is ample and clear, is now presented, as it comes from the Democratic party itself.

Reconstruction acts are revolutionary, unconstitutional and void. When I proposed that, every single member of the Committee—and the warmest friends in the North—came forward and said they would carry it out to the end. Having thus pledged themselves, I feel assured that when the Democratic party come to triumph they will show us a remedy for our misfortunes in their own good time, for which I am perfectly willing to wait.

The Democrats of South Carolina held a State Convention at Columbia a few days after to ratify the nomination of SEYMORE and BLAIR. Gov. POWELL, who had been a delegate, said that "With HAMILTON was the lion of the Convention." And added: "HAMPTON was courted by all parties—North, South, East and West, and when, as a member of the Committee on Platform, he submitted that section which declares the reconstruction acts void and revolutionary. The rest of the Committee told him to make it as strong as he pleased, they would endorse it."

The Rebel Democratic Champions.

The Mobile Register, edited by JOHN FORSYTHE, a delegate to the New York Convention, writes:

"No men received more hospitable and marked welcome in the Convention, in the city and in the North, than Generals HAMPTON and POWELL, and this, not only from a genuine admiration of their heroic characters of these great cavalry officers, but in order to signalize and mark the triumph that has been made between the friends of liberty in the North and in the South. This is the spell of a doubtful prudence in policy."

And now, so far from advancing these gentlemen, including ADMIRAL SEMMES, not to appear in public as the advocates of SEYMORE, the Representatives will contain a majority of Democrats from the North, and they will admit the Representatives elected by the white people of the South, and, with the co-operation of the President, will not fail to COMPEL THE SENATE TO SUBMIT ONE MORE TO THE OBLIGATIONS OF THE CONSTITUTION. It will not be able to withstand the public judgment, now gone past, that, with mailed hands, we must 'up and at' the enemies of our liberty."

IN WHAT TEMPER THE SOUTH REACTS TO THIS ACTION.

At Little Rock, Ark., Mr. C. S. CAMERON, a delegate to the New York Convention, declared:

"In sixty days from the adjournment of the Convention five hundred thousand soldiers will be organized into companies, regiments, brigades, and army corps if need be, to march to Washington."

"Friends—fellow-citizens of Mobile—comrades of the Queen City of the Gulf! let us make one more effort in behalf of our rights and liberties. If we are successful in our approaching contest, we shall regain all the lost in the 'Lost Cause.' Once more to arm, once more to go on, with more force, and when the clouds shall be cleared away from the flaming field, our flag, the grand old Democratic flag—will be seen in all its glory, and streaming like the thunder cloud against the wind. Let us then rally once more around the dear old flag, which we have followed so often to honor and victory. Let us plant our standard in the midst of the field, and let us once more raise the 'cry'—they who doubts are damned; he who dares is a dastard!"

AFTER THEIR RIGHTS ONCE MORE.

The Mobile Tribune, in urging its readers to ratify the New York nominations said:

"Friends—fellow-citizens of Mobile—comrades of the Queen City of the Gulf! let us make one more effort in behalf of our rights and liberties. If we are successful in our approaching contest, we shall regain all the lost in the 'Lost Cause.' Once more to arm, once more to go on, with more force, and when the clouds shall be cleared away from the flaming field, our flag, the grand old Democratic flag—will be seen in all its glory, and streaming like the thunder cloud against the wind. Let us then rally once more around the dear old flag, which we have followed so often to honor and victory. Let us plant our standard in the midst of the field, and let us once more raise the 'cry'—they who doubts are damned; he who dares is a dastard!"

THE SOUTH SATISFIED.

The Montgomery (Alabama) Mail says:

"When the Committee came to consider the reconstruction question, it was deemed proper to simply declare the present government at the South 'unconstitutional, null and void.' But at the same time, the Committee, with but a single dissenting voice, acknowledged that the remedy for the unconstitutional proceedings at the South would rest with the Executive. The action of the Committee and Convention upon the question of the remedy agreed with the declaration of Gen. Blair, and was satisfactory to every Southern delegate."

The Memphis (Tenn.) Avalanche, in quoting from Gen. Blair's letter to Col. Broadhead takes occasion to say:

"It was the publication of this letter that secured Mr. Blair's nomination for Vice Presidency. Thus it will be seen that the world is far ahead of the South. They are ripe for revolution."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention, and Blair's infamous letter. It then says:

"The sentiments expressed by both candidates are consonant with the views and feelings of the Southern people. Gen. Blair has only one way in which these outrages of the Reconstruction can be checked and remedied and the Government restored. It is this: The President shall declare the reconstruction acts null and void."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Chronicle, a bitter anti-reconstruction journal, quotes Seymour's speech delivered on his election as permanent President of the New York Convention,