Correction.—In our notice yesterday of the first Brooks, Ballentine & Co.'s factory, in Temp-ranceville, we stated that a large amount of oil had been destroyed. We have since learned from Mr. Brooks that our information was in error, the loss being very inconsiderable.

Horsemen and Cavalrymen also directed to advertisement of "Spurs" in another column. It is to be hoped that the proposition will meet with favor. The advertisement is an excellent one. A girl's old 3d Pa. Cavalry, and is anxious to open correspondence with his fellow officers.

Hereafter persons residing in houses on Boardman street and the old Greenburg Pike can have their letters delivered twice daily to Dr. Large's drug store, by leaving orders at the Post-office.

Absconding Apprentice.—John Wills, who was an apprentice of Mr. G. Kaufman, a barber in the Fifth ward, absconded a few days since on account of a difficulty with his employer. Tobacco and Cigars.—At John McGraw's, 214 1/2 East side, you will find the best Cigars and Tobacco as found in the city. This house is one of the largest in the city and can sell as low, if not lower, than any other house here. Wholesale and retail dealers and country merchants should call at this house, examine the stock and get the prices before purchasing elsewhere. ad

Disorderly Conduct.—Christina Hill made information before Justice Ammon, yesterday, charging Mary with disorderly conduct. Alleged Larceny of a Horse and Buggy.—B. F. Morvey, a livery stable keeper, lodged an information before Alderman McClaster yesterday, against David Elkins of Allegheny city, charging him with the larceny of a horse and buggy valued at $300. He will be missed by his church, the school board of which he is an active member, and by the community of which he has been an ever-ready worker. City Mortality.—Dr. A. G. McCandless, Physician to the Board of Health, reports the following interments in the City of Pittsburgh from August 23 to August 30:

Males..... 19 White..... 83 Total..... 35 Females..... 10 Colored..... 23 Diseases.—Adults: Consumption, 35; Typhoid Fever, 3; Dropsy, 1; Tetanus, 1; Mumps, 1; Enteric Fever, 1—15; Children: Cholera Infantum, 1; Pneumonia, 1; Diarrhea of Brain, 3; Convulsions, 2; Disease of Bowels, 1; Measles, 1; Encephalitis, 1; Unknown, 1—20.

A Meddlesome Woman.—Annie Hopkins made information before Justice Ammon yesterday, charging Peter Bun with assault and battery. It appears that Peter married a daughter of Mrs. Hopkins, and that the mother-in-law is in the habit of visiting Peter's house during his absence and telling his wife stories calculated to distract the harmony of the household. Peter having become tired of this proceeding informed the old lady that she must come to the house and stay there. Yesterday morning he came in rather unexpectedly and found the old lady, who in the midst of some big talk, had put herself, and he rather unceremoniously ejected her from the premises. The Justice, after hearing the case, did not think it a clear case of assault and battery, and accordingly imposed a light fine on the defendant for disorderly conduct.

Bold Robbery.—James Fife, an elderly gentleman from Wilmington, Ohio, was relieved of his pocket book yesterday morning at the Union Depot in the following manner: He had just arrived on the western train, in the act of taking the train going east, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, being somewhat of an invalid, and having two young ladies in charge, he gratefully accepted the kind, proffered services of a nice young man who assisted in the exchange from the western to the eastern train. When the ladies being attended to first, he seated in the car, and just as Mr. Fife was sitting down, the nice young man, by a sudden and expert movement, passed his hand into the old gentleman's pocket, and forth his pocket book, and, leaping to the ground and over palings, made his way up O'Harra street, at a rapid pace, before the astonished victim or those in the car could make any alarm. The stolen pocket book contained twenty-five dollars in money and a railroad ticket. No trace of the thief could be discovered, and Mr. Fife, deeming it unnecessary to waste time, proceeded on his way eastward.

Another Victim.—Another successful confidence game was played on the western bound train of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway on Wednesday evening. The victim was a farmer going west to buy a farm, and the operators two sharpers, one of whom made his acquaintance at the Union Depot. When the train was near Rochester, Ohio, while the farmer was engaged in an interesting chat with his new found friend, sharpener No. 2 stepped up and demanded the payment of what little bill. No ready cash, but offered a $500 check on a Pittsburgh bank, or a $500 bond. No objection, the change, whereupon the cunning verdant gentleman, being left at his leisure, examined the bond and found it to be a counterfeit. He returned to the city and will not buy his farm at present. In the meanwhile, affable strangers and nice young men are his especial aversion.

An Abused Wife.—Thursday evening Chief Green received a telegraphic dispatch from Warren, Ohio, signed J. C. Topley, describing a woman who, it was stated, left that town that morning on her way East, and would pass through this city that evening, and without stating any particulars requested that she should be arrested and detained. The telegram was handed over to Officer McCready, who reported to the United Depot where he found the woman described, on the train which was about to start East. She was taken in custody and taken to the lock-up, and she is a fine looking and remarkably intelligent woman, and tells a plain, straightforward story, which we give in substance: She was raised at Exeter, near Harrisburg. Her parents are in good circumstances. About three years ago she married J. C. Topley. At the time of her marriage she had a considerable amount of money, which she alleges her husband squandered. He induced her to leave her friends and go with him to Warren, Ohio, about a year ago, and after they had been there a short time she was compelled to hire out to do housework to support herself. Finding that her husband would not support her, she resolved to go back to her friends, and arranged to which she consented, provided she would not tell her father and brothers who she had been treated by him. She refused to promise to do so, and the subject and declared her intention to leave him, and Thursday morning packed her clothes and started.

In her statement she true she really to be titled and the husband who should be severely punished for having her arrested and kept in confinement. He has been authorized to work for a term. Some other reason for detaining her, she will be released.

A Meddlesome Woman.—Annie Hopkins made information before Justice Ammon yesterday, charging Peter Bun with assault and battery. It appears that Peter married a daughter of Mrs. Hopkins, and that the mother-in-law is in the habit of visiting Peter's house during his absence and telling his wife stories calculated to distract the harmony of the household. Peter having become tired of this proceeding informed the old lady that she must come to the house and stay there. Yesterday morning he came in rather unexpectedly and found the old lady, who in the midst of some big talk, had put herself, and he rather unceremoniously ejected her from the premises. The Justice, after hearing the case, did not think it a clear case of assault and battery, and accordingly imposed a light fine on the defendant for disorderly conduct.
