Australian BEEF and Mutton are now being introduced into England in large quantities. Formerly the sheep and cattle of Australia exceeded by soveral millions the actual wants of the colonists, who, in order to dispose of their flocks profitably were obliged to boil down the carcasses for the tallow, which with the skins and the wool formed the principal articles of export. The Government of the Colony of Queens land, not long ago, offered a handsome reward to the person who should succeed in shipping to England a given quantity of Australian meat. Numerous attempts have been made to carry out this project, but the failures have been very large in number. Recently, however, there has been received in England 2,000 whole sheep, 2,500 legs of mutton and 10 tons of beef, shipped for mitting in the process of preparation of this cargo is very simple.
