STATE SUPREME COURT. Judge Strong has resigned his place on the bench of the Supreme Court of Pennsvlvania, on account of bad health. As his resignation comes too late to be filled at the approaching election, Governor GEARY will have to supply the vacancy.

The name of Paon. H. W. WILLIAMS will be presented by the Republicans of Allegheny county to supply the vacancy. It would be eminently just that the appointment be awayded him, as the people of the Commonwealth at the ballot-box last fall, chose him to sit upon the Supreme Bench. Their will, however, was set aside through fraud and Mr. Shanswood took the place Judge WILLIAMS Was called to fill. The opportunity of now carrying out the expressed will of the people in the elevation of Judge WILLIAMS to the Supreme Bench, is presented to Governor GRARY, and we kope he will not disregard the strong pressure made by the Republicans at this end of the State to that effect. No legal gentleman in the State is better qualified for the high position. The possessor of pare natural talent and acquired ability, of a mind well-stored with legal lore, a generous disposition and large stock of moral courage to enable him to do right, and be just in all things, and on all occasions, Judge Wil-LIAMS, above all others, is worthy the appointment solicited for him by his friends. Will the Governor appoint him?

-At a late hour last evening we were shown a dispatch from the Governor to Judge WILLIAMS, reading as follows : HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 30, 1868. Hon. Henry W. Williams:

I hereby tender you the appointment of Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, vice Hon. William Strong resigned. Will you socept? John W. Geary. Judge WILLIAMS has notified the Governor of his acceptance.

he takes a strictly technical and narrow view of the case upon which he discourses, In this respect he falls into an error common to most lawyers. What he needs is to rise from the low ground of special pleading into the higher region of genuine statesmanship. Let him do this, if he has capacities equal to the task, then read the Constitution, and he will find what now appears to him strange and anomalous to be consistent and indispensable. With what show of reason do men who sat the Constitution at defiance, who made prodigious war upon it with intent to utterly overthrow and demolish it, appeal to it for protection? They only who have respected the Constitution themselves have a right to hold it up as a measure of adjudication either between individuals or communities. But it is simply preposterous for men who appealed to the right of revolution, which is anterior to all Constitutions and superior to all, to undertake to limit the action of those whose powers they defied. A Constitution is the superior law of a be altered or abolished the same as any quired for its abrogation or amendment. No Constitution ever has been devised that accurately met the wants of any people for a century. Nor will Constitutions be have been in the past. The Medes and Persians, under an impulse of unbounded national egotism, made all their laws, organic and statutory, unchangeable in form. Yet they were not only changed, but literally swept away. The development of civil society-the inevitable flow of the ageswas not impeded by the lofty pretension of mmutability. Each Constitution must be changed, from time to time, or it will soon cease to be adapted to the necessities of the people for which it was designed.

In view of such facts it is amusing to hear certain expounders of law declaim. They seem to imagine that the Constitution of the United States is superior to the people who live under it; indeed, that the people were created mainly that the Constitution might have subjects to operate upon. That was the Jewish idea of Sunday; that the institution was greater than the people; that the people were made for it, and not it for the people. Wherever this thought reappears, it is always a fallacy. Men are superior to their institutions, and whenever they are wise, will make their institutions conform to the condition they happen to be in. That is what the people of the United States have been doing, and what they will continue to do so long as they are fit to maintain popular Government.

Nor is this all. I Having conquered the rebellion, they mean the rebels shall consent rebels or rebel States, will deter them from is recorded in the Legislative Record, page executing their purpose. This is not unreasonable or oppressive, but a dictate of ordinary prudence. A vast flood or tornado never yet left a district of country as it such circumstances, expects the old States to be restored precisely as they were. Mr. Howard then ascended to the stand, and for two hours discussed, in a manly convincing argument, exhaustive in its logic and unanswerable in the conclusions, drawn from its premises. It was an effort exceeding creditable to Mr. Howard, as, indeed, all his numerous speeches made in this campaign have been. The Democrats present were much chagrined at the failure of Foster to show himself, but they all united in bearing testimony to the courtesy with which they had been treated by Mr. Howard. Many of them, no doubt, listened for the first time to a Republican speech, and it is to be hoped that it will do all of them a power of good.

A STUPID EFFORT has been made by one DELMAR to show the inaccuracy of recent official and Republican statements touching the National finances. It is the same person who was removed from employment in the Treasury Department, last winter, for incompetency and is only known as a ludicrous humbug. He prepared, while in office, a pamphlet, intended for European circulation at the Paris exposition, which was so full of stupid and ridiculous blunders regarding our Government and the geogra- the New York Convention have attracted phy and resources of our country that Secretary McCulloch issued an order to suppress it, and the whole edition was accordingly burned. It is liable to tition of their habitual frauds in naturalization and colonization. As to the latter, our other law, though special formalities are re- own local columns, and most of our exchanges from the border counties of the Commonwealth, bare ample testimony to the progress of this rascally work. The naturalization swindle is also so vigorously any more permanent in the future than they and impudently pushed that a number of arrests have been already made in Philadelphia, of leading Democrats, whose frauds and perjuries were so manifest that they have been held to bail for indictment and trial. But even this has not arrested the course of rascallty in that party. The Press of Tuesday says : "Yesterday seven hundred and twenty naturalization papers were granted by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in three hundred minutes. In many of these cases the oaths were administered by the tip-staves in the absence of the judge charged staves in the absence of the judge charged with the duty of granting naturalizations. It is openly asserted, and we believe capable of proof, that naturalization papers, forged or otherwise, have been issued in blank, signed, certified, and bearing the great seal of the court, to be filled up with ames as occasion may require." The Supreme Court has ordered that in the future, "the names of the vouchers shall be endorsed on the papers," but this will not wholly remedy the mischief.

As in Philadelphia, so here and in other counties of the State, our desperate opponents are pushing, as far and as fast as they dare, their rascally purpose of swamping the ballot-boxes with illegal votes. The only remedy for this is to watch them well and punish them promptly.

How Democrats Carry Elections. John Casey, an honest Irish laborer on the Clearfield railroad, was summoned to appear before the Legislative Investigating Committee last winter to testify in relation to to such terms of restoration as shall be need. the frauds committed at the election polls in recently gave expression to some of his legal ful to guard with reasonable care against lipsburg, Centre county. As a law crochets in a letter to General Rosechans, fresh outbreaks in time to come. It reads as follows: "John Casey, sworn-I was working on the railroad for Mr. Collins at the October (1867) election; was boarding in Philips-burg, watere I voted with the other men; Mr. Lede took me up to vote and gave me the naturalization paper, and I put it in; cannot read; am as ignorant as a baste; I put the paper in my pocket; cannot tell what became of it; I was never naturalized; never was in a court before this; Lede told me to vote; I was working near Mr. Collins' store; came the day that O'Meara did to Philipsburg; I voted Democratic."

Such is the testimony of an honest Irishman. These words are the verbatim report of the testimony given by Casey under oath before the Investigating Committee of the Senate, and four days after the examination when the above was elicited he was found in the road near Clearfield, brutally murdered, beaten to death with clubs. He had undoubtedly been killed lest he should tell more, and to wipe out every trace of the crime at the polls, on the night of the murder, two men, on a forged order, obtained from his landlady all his papers and destroyed them. Dead men teil no tales; and the agents who seduced John Casey incommitting a crime against the country will probably never beknown in this world.

WHILE BLAIR and the Northern Copperheads are bawling themselves hoarse against negro equality and suffrage their rebel friends at the South are about evenly divided as to the duty of murdering the blacks or the policy of wheedling them with soft words. In Georgia and Texas the revolver and bowie-knife are in vogue, but in Tennessee, on the other hand, the Democratic State Central Committee have squarely re- Is entirely free from any deleterious ingredient, and address makes this promise:

"No colored citizen of the State, uniting with us in the overthrow of a common tyrauny, and the redemption of our noble State, shall be disturbed in any of his vested rights if, through his agency, our own rights should be restored to us."

The Republican Banner, of Nashville,

WHEN Mr. WALLACE recently charged that the convocation of Soldiers and Sailors, which will commence this morning at Philadelphia, was designed to cover and promote frauds upon the elective franchise, he must have forgotten certain testimony taken last winter by a Legislative Committee. The Rev. THOMAS TRACY, corroborating MI-CHAEL O'MEARA, was the witness. Rev. Thomas Tracy, sworn—I paid Michael O'Meara five hundred dollars a short time before this case commenced; I gave him the money in his own house in the evening, about a week or two before the assembling of the Legislature; he was to leave the State and remain out three months for the five hundred delices. Mr. Gorman for the five hundred dollars; Mr. Gorman, lor the live number of collins, gave me the money to give him; the man who gave the money was the only one who had any knowledge of the transaction, as far as I know I had correspondence with Mr. Wallace on the subject of O'Mearn's leaving the State the only of O'Meara's leaving the State; the only stipulation was that he should remain away three months; I understood it was for hin to be gone until after the trial.

A sense of decent shame should have restrained Mr. WALLACE from accusing his fellow citizens.

One good turn deserves another. VAL-LANDIGHAM'S extraordinary efforts to secure the nomination of Horatio SEYMOUR in much curious speculation; and the mystery is now explained. In a speech made by General Burnside, at Bristol, R. I, last

IN A single-club that paraded on the 22d inst, at the Union League meeting in Philadelphia, there marched twenty-five men who voted the Democratic ticket last fall.

The Young Douglas. Robert M. Douglas, the eldest son of the late Senator Douglas, made a speech, a few days since, at Raleigh, N. C., and denounced in bitter terms those who affected to be his father's friends, and were now using his name to aid the Copperheads. His words might be pondered with profit, if not with pleasure, by the friends of Stephen A. Douglas, wherever found. He said:

"Speaking of him, and feeling that whatever importance any words of mine may have is derived from the name I bear and the affection many still feel toward one who through life proved himself the people's friend, a few words concerning my father may not be deemed inappropriate. It was with feelings of surprise—and I must add, of indignation—that I saw his name inscribed upon one of the transparencies borne in the late Conservative processions. I thought that common decency, at least, would have prevented them from dragging from the tomb the name of the man whom they had betrayed and denounced through ife, and, after his death, whose orphan children they had persecuted.

"When gazing upon that name, I remembered the time these same men declared him a traitor to every principle of honor, be-cause he preferred his country to his party, and bitterly denounced him for his efforts to rally the people of the West for the defense

"I remember all these when I was declared a degenerate son; and for every quotation they give me from his speeches, I will give them a dozen. When the Sentinel parades a sentence concerning a white man's gov-ernment, I would remind them of his dying words. When the wife bent over the scarcely breathing form of the expiring statesman and asked if he had no message to send to his children: 'Tell them,' said he, in a voice rendered almost inaudible by the near approach of death, 'to obey and support the Constitution and laws of the land.' This solemn injunction I intend to obey. When I see myself personally abused by the conservative press on account of my political sentiments, and called a traitor to the State in which I was born, I would recall to their recollection the time when I was declared an allen enemy. About the year 1862, a bill was field summoning Thomas Settle (now Associate Justice of the Supreme Court) and R. A. Ellington to Greensboro to show cause why they should not surrender the property of Robert M. and Stephen A. Douglas, alien enemies of the Confederacy; and when I am denounced as a Yankee and a carpet-bagger, I would remind them of their efforts to drive me an exile from my native State and render me a stranger to the soil that gave me birth. As, however, I have in herited my father's name, and his principles, it is natural that I should inherit their animosity. Nevertheless, it is strange hat these men, his bitterest enemies in life should now claim to be the truest exponents of his principles; but not more strange than that they should now assert themselves the best friends of the Constitution of the United States and the infallible interpreters of its provisions, after they have sacrificed hundreds of thousands of lives and thousands of millions of treasure to trample in the dust that sacred instrument.'

WE ARE NOT CAST IRON. Cast Iron undergoes marked changes under the siternate action of heat and cold, and the human bedy is not cast iron. On the contrary, it is a combination of delicate tissues and fibres, which are exquisitely sensitive to atmospheric changes, and, inless protected against sudden and violent variations of temperature by wise precautions, are sure to be disastrusly affected by them.

At this season the difference between the temperature of night and day is greater than as any other period of the year, and the stomach, the liver, the bowels and the nervous system are apt to receive folent shocks from these changes, resulting in indigestion, billous attacks, deblity, low nervous fever, feverand ague, remittent fever, &c. Sustain and reinforce these organs, therefore, with the purest and most potent of all vegetable tonics and literatives, viz: HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BIT TERS. The effect of this matchless invigorant is to brace up the whole vital organization, and regulate its action. Useful at all seasons as a mesns of pro-moting perfect digestion, an even and natural flow of bile, and a healthy condition of the bowels and the skin, it is especially necessary in the Fall when the complain a arising from checked perspiration are so common. It is found, by those who a e in the habit of using this agreeable and unequalled tonic, that it so strengthens and fertifies the body as to render it proof against the morbid influences which infect the air during the prevalence of epidemics. One of them was dated in January last, and opens by saying that the writer had "thought for a year that Grant should be President,"—which shows that General Dix is no new advocate of Grant's nomination; and the Gazette says t "should be known that he (Gen. Dix) intends returning to this country in the Spring, no matter how the election results; his advocacy of Gen. Grant, therefore originates in no desire to retain his position abroad." The other letter is of nearly the same nature as the letter published a few days ago by Gen. Dix's own desire.
