

Pittsburgh Gazette

VOLUME LXXXIII. PITTSBURGH, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1888. NUMBER 241.

THE CAMPAIGN.

HOW SHOULD WORKINGMEN VOTE.

Words of Sense to the Laboring Classes.

SPEECH OF SENATOR WILSON, OF MASSACHUSETTS.

There assembled last evening at Harb's Hotel, on Liberty street, foot of Fifth avenue, an immense gathering of the Republicans of these two cities, in order to hear the Hon. Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts, and to hear him discuss the questions of the campaign.

More than thirty years ago, Calhoun, McDuff, Pickens, and the Calhoun school of nullification, secession and disunion, proclaimed the slavery of the South to be the great cornerstone of the Republic.

Mr. Chairman and Fellow-Citizens of Pittsburgh: I am glad to look in your beaming faces to-night for the assurance of a victory on Tuesday next.

Mr. Chairman and Fellow-Citizens of Pittsburgh: I am glad to look in your beaming faces to-night for the assurance of a victory on Tuesday next.

Mr. Chairman and Fellow-Citizens of Pittsburgh: I am glad to look in your beaming faces to-night for the assurance of a victory on Tuesday next.

Mr. Chairman and Fellow-Citizens of Pittsburgh: I am glad to look in your beaming faces to-night for the assurance of a victory on Tuesday next.

Mr. Chairman and Fellow-Citizens of Pittsburgh: I am glad to look in your beaming faces to-night for the assurance of a victory on Tuesday next.

are created equal and have an inalienable right to liberty is a white man's Government. The Republican party, believing that we are children of a common father, that God made us and Christ died for us, that every man should have the right to himself to the fruits of his toil and possess the priceless privileges of intellect and moral culture, and striving to preserve the liberties bequeathed us by the fathers, and to make the bounds of freedom wider, the Democratic party, following the doctrine of human equality, has been and now is the champion of privilege and cast.

Frank Blair, then the advocate of the rights of workingmen, now the champion of privilege and caste, looked forward to this emancipation as the hope of the South. He then said: "I have seen myself how the restless march of our victorious armies is followed, and their beneficent march by a peace full tide of population, sprung from the loins of the great North, breathing with their industry and vigor, and the sounds and gleams of the free lands of the South."

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

policy to the end. We will never agree to tax the little earnings of the workingmen and their small incomes at the same rate as the incomes of the millionaires and the great capitalists of the country.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

of hundreds of millions of dollars. The people of the United States, in this year 1888, produce five thousand millions of dollars. It will take something more than three thousand millions to support them.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

of this country. Go to those men, no matter whether they were born in Scotland, on the banks of the Thames, the Shannon, or the Rhine, no matter where they were born, they are to be our countrymen. Take them by the hand.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

of this country. Go to those men, no matter whether they were born in Scotland, on the banks of the Thames, the Shannon, or the Rhine, no matter where they were born, they are to be our countrymen. Take them by the hand.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

Blair tells us that the question of taxation and finance is of no account whatever to the man who has the means to pay it.

THE CAPITAL.

Union Brotherhood Wait on the President-The Ordinance Bureau-Revenue Appointments.

Washington, October 7, 1888.

This afternoon the Supreme Circle of the Brotherhood of the Union, now in session here, visited the President of the United States by appointment.

The following Internal Revenue appointments were made to-day: