Annual Report of the Ladies' Relief So-ciety of Allegheny City.

In offering this their twentieth annual report, the Officers and Managers of the association desire to express their gratitude to God, the Dispenser of all good, who has thus far crowned their efforts with success, in ameliorating the condition of so many of the needy and destitute, who have shared their charities; and also to repeat their thanks to those friends of the cause who have so often laid their offerings of material ald upon the altar of humanity in this behalf.

The record of the Society from year to nething will supercede the English script, year will compare favorably with any of and those inimitable styles of old English our charities, according to the means at text, the most novel being those with our charities, according to the means at their command. In view, however, of the vast extension of our city, with its increasing population, wealth and poverty, efforts and substantial means, commensurate with the extended fields of labor, must be put

The formation of the Society was an ex-The formation of the Society was an experiment, but not a doubtful one. With woman's energy, woman's prayers and woman's faith, it has risen like a bright star to cheer the hopes of worthy recipients of its alms-deeds; and expanding in its upward and onward progress, each succeeding year, will show increased activity on the part of the Managers, and corresponding good be accomplished.

Twenty years ago the world seemed to be comparatively "standing still," and enterprises, commercial, moral and religious were rather like moving on stilts. than under the locomotive engine or the

than under the locomotive engine or the lightning's flash.

We are in the midst of mighty revolutions, civil, political and religious. Nations are being remodeled, or. "born in a day." Earthquakes are troubling the mighty deep. The moral and physical elements seem at war with each other. The whole face of human society indicates that the Almighty Sovereign of the Universe has a controversy with us; therefore, under such circumstances, it becomes us to be in earnest, and press onward in all our good earnest, and press onward in all our good

Our doubts are traitors.

"And make us loose the good we oft might win
"By fearing to attempt:" It will be seen by the Treasurer's report that the Seciety is not in debt; and in pros-ecuting the work the managers will observe strictly their usual policy of confining their expenditures to the limit of their receipts.

Since the last annual meeting the Society has lost its venerable, much loved, and for many years most efficient President, Mrs. ished most affectionately by all who were associated with her.

Names of other members of the Association, who have, in the providence of God, been called from their labors, might be mentioned in this connection, but they have been entered in former, annual re-

Much might be said of the self denial of Much might be said of the self demai of the ladies engaged in the work; and the painful and almost heart-rending pictures of want; distress and woe presented to them in their visits to the abodes of the suffering, outside and beyond the sympathies of the refined and fashionable portion of the community. At is, however, scarcely necessary, to dwell upon such points, but close by earliestly appealing to all who have heretofore so liberally contributed of their means, and trust that those who have not been called upon will feel it a privilige and pleasure to make their offerings the present year, which it is apprehended will be one of more than ordinary pressure upon our charities. As far as returns have been made by the Managers, there ted during the season: of coal 9,600 busheis; flour, 3,500 pounds; tea, 17 pounds; sugar, 80 pounds; shoes, 210 pairs; coffee, 47 pounds; and 2,780 yards of cotton and woolen goods. Also in cases of sickness crackers and various small articles of food

The Society acknowledges with much pleasure the benefit derived from the Brew-er Estate Coal Fund.

The number of families relieved was 271, of which 162 were those of widows.

Electrical Gas-Lighting. Roaming through the Capitol, the other day, to see what preparations were made for Congress, I fell upon Gardiner, the inventor of the lamp lighting apparatus, which, as you know, leaps like a flash of lightning through the thousands of gas jets from the lantern of the dome to the coal pit of the far wings, setting one, or fifty, or a thousand aflame, at choice. Gardiner is a middle-aged man, with black beard and hair, rather invalid-looking and meagre of body. He occupies one of the little old domes of the central Capitol, where is his prodigious battery, the acid buckets, holding three gallons spiece, made of glass, and there the ladies go to take shocks for nervous disorder or for amuse-

This patent is one of the most valuable in existence. The inventor has from twelve to sixteen years to run upon it, and he sits in his battery room, aware that fortune is assured. All the gas lights of cities will be illuminated in this way, eventually. "They've got to come to it," says Gard-ner, quietly. "The officers of the St. Louis Gas Company were here to see me a little while ago. New York has already entered into negotiations. London will be probably the second to accept it." What will it save New York to adopt this system ?" "Well ! the city has a hundred and seventy thousand dollars a year for matches, lighters and inspectors. I can light the city for seven dollars a lamp, or about six hundred thousand dollars. Then the work is done forever; there will be no more repairing. I calculate that the city will be Consignments Solicited. Prompt Beeyen with itself in five years, and then for turns.

Gardner already lights Stewart state store on Broadway, several hotels in England and America, and the Capitol: He says that Washington is the worst lighted says that Washington is the worst lighted says that Washington is the worst lighted best, Gardner already lights Stewart's new the difference being accounted for by the opposite quality of the gas.— Was ington Letter.

CABDS OF ETIQUETTE.

The Home Jeurnal, which is good authority on the subject, says that visiting cards will be, for this season, rather larger than formerly, and of the finest unglazed Bristol board. The new sizes will tend rather to the square than otherwise. The shape of the card may be varied, according to taste. Among the various texts in use, dropped capitals, and the extremely neat, extra shaded. Visiting cards, with the familiar words denoting the object of the call, will remain in use, to some extent, especially for calls of Congratulation or Condolence. The word visite, on the left hand upper corner, will be engraved on the reverse side. The corner containing the desired word will be turned down, so as to denote the object of the call. The word on the right hand corner, Felicitation, will be used for visits of con-gratulation on some happy event, as, for instance, a marriage, or a birth; on the left lower corner; the word Conge, used for a visit previous to leaving town; the other corner is to be marked Condolence. Cards sent to friends before leaving for a long journey, are issued with the addition of P. P. C., in the left hand corner. These cards ere inclosed in heavy and elegant, though plain envelopes, ornamented with a tasteful monogram or initial. In Wedding Invitations, all abbreviations like eve. for even ing, will be avoided, as well as p. m., the word afternoon being preferable. Invita-tions to ceremonious weddings consist of a square note sheet, embellished with a large monogram in relief, entwining the com-bined initials of the bride and groom. The individual cards of both bride and groom must be also inclosed, united with a neat satin tie; and, in some cases, another card with reception days for the following month. A very nest style of card has the customary "at home" on a note sheet, a ceremony card (at fixed hour), and the united cards of bride and groom, all in-closed in a splendid large envelope, of the very finest texture, with an elaborate monogram or ornamental initial.

Gen. Robinson, whose heart was truly in the good work. Her memory will be chertus detailed by a writer, who says he saw on Broadway a man, appearing to be drunken sailor, walk up to a beggar woman sitting on the curbstone and pretending to be blind, and deliberately kick her. Great sympathy was aroused and the woman made a handsome collection from passers by. She walked down a few blocks, where precisely the same scene was re-enacted This performance was repeated two or three times, when the woman went to her home in Water street, or rather to a beer shop there, whither she was followed, and found with three or four more "blind beg-gars," with their sight restored, and all rejoicing in their good luck for the day and in their toddy.
