Yet, even these, if fee by dew.

Yet, even these, if fee by dew.

Which stiently descends from heaven,
Indebted for each bright r huo
To light its glorious sun has given—
And freshensed by its gratiest breeze,
Thus rear'd, even earthly fowers may please.

I will not say my youthful friend.
That such may fitting emblems be,
Of ough, that I have ever penned,
Or now presume to offer thee;
But as thy bard my highest bliss,
Were to approximate to this: To touch, to please, to win the heart,
To caim and virtuous feelings prone,
Not by mere rules of minairel art
Or fancied kenius of mine own,
But by those holler charms whose birth
Is caught from heaves, not of earth.

And were I gifted, then, O how would I thy path with flowers adord When grief toe often clouds my brow, To find mine own has many a thorn. Whose ranking wounds a pledge might be; How little I could succor thee! But there is baim is Gilead! There
The wood Physican may be found.
The wood Physican may be found.
Whose love and mercy can prepare.
An antidote for every wound!
An antidote for every wound!
His hand can easier flowers dicting.
And faith in Him can make them thing.

Planchette.

A "Reformed Planchettist" makes the following revelations in Harper's Magazine: I have little more to say, and surely nothing further to confess. I have truthfully given my experience, and if it be of use to any of my fellows, that knowledge is guerdon sufficient. A reformed Planchettist, I eat better, drink better, and sleep better than while pursuing my evil practices. My conscience is more at rest, and I no longer have troubled dreams. Let this encourage those who are still under the dominion of the destroyer to emancipate themselves. It is useless to tell me that there is anything in Planchette, or that by its aid every man may become his own medium; I've been there. When you can pat a terrapin on the back and get him to respond in Coptic with his tall, 'twill be time to persuade me that a block of wood can be charged enficiently to write sentences. Mine we sufficiently to write sentences. Mine was charged (it stands charged against me, I becharged (it stands charged against me, I believe, to this day,) but it would only write when I moved it, and then it wrote precisely what I dictated. That persons write

"unconsciously" I do not believe. As pared to believe the assertions of those who leclare that "they do not move the board." I know what operators will do in such cases; I know the distortion, the disregard of board superinduces.

I have seen charming young ladies, whose word I would take on anything else in life (even if they protested they were not engaged,) who would not fib if you asked them if their curls were false, or if the red of their lips was natural, sit up with both hands on Planchette-fortified in falsehood by the contact-and lie . like lawyers. Bring me any two professors of the art-young ladies, for men are not to be believed under any circumstances—not too far gone to be sensible to some moral compunction who will put one hand on Planchette and of galvanic connection between the nega tive and positive poles of truth, so to speak -and swear (as Elia says the custom of re sorting to an oath in extreme cases has inotion of two kinds of truth,) that they do not write the messages they promulgate and I will discuss whether they do or not seriously.
