of him, and found the body horribly mutilated, lying on the track. It was evident from the manner in which it was cut up that the whole train had passed over it.

Fire in Allegheny.—About eight o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in a small frame building located in the rear of F. Adler's brush factory, No. 219 Onio street, Allegheny. An alarm was sounded from Box 32, which brought the fire department out in force. The building was, however, totally destroyed, but, by the exertions of the firemen, the fire was kept from communicating to the adjoining property. The fire was caused by an accident. Mr. Voelker also lost a silver watch of Bartlett's manufacture, No. 65,829, worth forty dollars. The saddle establish ment of John Schultz, on Carson street, near Denman, was also entered, and a set of double harness and the horse blankets, valued at siventy-five dollars, taken out. Mr. Fred. Schuman's shoe shop was also broken open and eight pairs of mer.'s cus-tomer made books, valued at ninety dollars, were taken. It is quite probable, from the amount of goods taken, that there were several hands engaged in the transaction. An entrance to all the houses was effected to the transaction of the transaction of the transaction. An entrance to all the nouses was enected by use of "outsiders" or nippers, with which the keys were turned and the doors unlocked. The establishments entered are all connected with dwelling houses in which the proprietors were sleeping, but so quietly did the thieves conduct their operations, that nothing was known of the affair until yesterday morning. There is no clue as to the guilty parties.

The Bevins-Hemmings Case. The Bevins-Hemmings case, which has or a week past occupied the attention of the authorities at the Mayor's office, to the exclusion of almost everything else, as will be seen by the Court reports this morning, is drawing to a close. Hemmings having, as previously reported, been arrested on a requisition from Governor Fenton, was brought before the Court on a writ of habeas corpus, and was remanded by the Court to the custody of the officer from New York, who placed him in the lock-up, intending to start for New York at two ofclock this magning. o'clock this morning. Bevins was arrested on a warrant issued by Alderman Donaldon a warrant issued by Alderman Donaldson, on oath of Hemmings, for surety of the peace, and the Mayor became responsible for his appearance at Court. The alias capias in the case for damages, in which Miss Kate Fisher is plaintiff, was also served upon him, and Mayor Blackmore signed the bond for his appearance. The surety of the peace case against Magle was postponed, at the instance of the prosecution until this morning atten o'clock, when it will be disposed of by Judge Mellon. it will be disposed of by Judge Mellon.

Mr. Hemmings appears but little concerned about the matter, and alleges that he will have no difficulty in establishing his innocence of the charge preferred against him.

The Query.

Naturally fair and lovely as a May morning, her countenance became flushed with excitement, and half in perplexity, half in anger, she exclaimed, as we approached: "Oh! dear me, how vexatious? Why go to Liebler's mammoth Trunk Emporium, No. 104 Wood street, and get a new one. He has ever, thing in the line of trunks, vallses, satchels, &c., &c., all styles, all prices, all of the best quality, and you can't fail to get suited." Her countenance relaxed in an instant, and with grateful acknowledgements for the judicious advice, she followed it forthwith, and a few hours afterwards waived us a kindly adleu from the car window as she started on her journey. dow as she started on her journey.

The Peetry of Motion.

Prof. Cowper, at his rooms, No. 51 Fifth avenue, we are glad to say, has formed new day and evening classes for the coming term. In addition to the dances hitherto taught, he will teach the Empire and Parlslan and German Quadrilles, which are Parisian and German Quatrilles, which are the present rage. Prof. Cowper is pro-nounced one of the most finished teachers in the country. Remember the Academy is located over McCailum's carpet store.

The experiment is successful beyond the publishers' most sanguine expectations. As many as five thousand copies have been taken in single orders. Its illustrations and literary contents, as well as its astronomical calculations, are adapted to the tastes and requirements of the whole American people—not to those of a particular latitute or -not to those of a particular latitute or section of the country.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The Academy of known famous violinist. The audier on special occasions, when the attraction character. We believe it was some twentyone years before that the great Norwegian musician had made his first bow to the Pittsburgh public, and there were hundreds of persons present, in whose ears still rang the wonderful melody produced on that occasion, and as he made his appearance on the stage it appeared to them that but a night, instead of two decades of years, had passed away since they were first made captive by his genius. Ole Bull has not changed much in appearance. His commanding frame, classical cut features, sharp, fire emitting eye, gracefu movesed away since they were ment and stage composure all remain as in days of yore, and his heaven inspired gen-ius has lost none of its lustre and brilliancy. The great interpreter of music, the pre-eminent performer on the violin, who, long since, won his way into the ranks and the pre-eminent performer on the violin, who, long since, won his way into the ranks and the pre-eminent prelong since, won his way into the ranks and took hardly second place with Tartini, Rode, Kreutzer, Spohr, Vieuxtemps and Paganini is now in his 58th year, and yet capable of pouring his whole soul forth in the congenial task of drawing the purest of fine music from an unpretentious instrument so closely allied to his life and his-

The concert opened with an exquisitely The concert opened with an exquisitely delicate fantasia on the piano, La Traviata, by Mr. Egbert Lansing, its composer. The selection was not a judicious one for so large a hall as the Academy, but would have been more appreciated in the parlor or drawing room. The melodious soft passages, requiring the tenderest manipulation of the kevs. fell with hardly any effect on sages, requiring the tenderest manipulation of the keys, fell with hardly any effect on the audience, a loss of appreciation by no means regained in the spirited rendition of the very few brilliant bars which here and there mark the composition.

The Romanza, a sweet composition of Tito Mattei, was rendered with no remarkable power by Mr. Gustavus Hall, a bari-tone of some national eminence. It was devoid of any perceptible mark of beauty and coldly fell upon the audience. Had and coldly fell upon the audience. Had not Mr. Hall acquitted himself in a noble manner in the subsequent rendition of the lively aria, Rossini's "Largo al factotum," he would have left no impress of his superior abilities as a vocalist on his Pittsburgh audi-The appearance of Ole Bull was the signal for wild applause and the enthusiastic welcome he received must have made the heart of the master violinist of the age throb faster, for there was no mistaking the depth of the appreciation in which he was held. Scarce had he drawn his bow across the strings of his violin till the most perfect silence reigned, his audience being held spell bound at his feet and were carried with him to the end. As the last sweet note ceased to ripple and the melody died away, there burst forth a storm of enthuthe streets in the Fourth Ward, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon, each with a rooster in his arm which had been taught to "pitch into" any of its unfortunate brethren whom it might meet in the way. By this means again coming before the audience. His second effort was "Home, Sweet Home" second effort was money, abiding impression was and the same deep, abiding impression was left on those upon whose ears it fell, as would remain with the mortal on whose ears might fall the soft, sweet sounds of ears might fail the soit, sweet sounds of celestial melody, breaking through the portals of heaven and stealing their way to earth. None living can criticise the interpretations of Ole Bull. He is the standard the standard of the standard ard of perfection whereby all violinists of the world are to be measured, and a phenomenon of innisical inspiration worthy of recognition among the limited few who have been specially endowed with a high order of talent by an Omnipotent Being, perhaps to clevate mankind and teach how near heaven man's soul can dwell.

Miss larton, a soprano of no ordinary merit, and yet not worthy a place in the highest walks of song, delighted the audience in several vocal offerings, conspicuous among which were "Coming Through the Rye," and the humorous song "I wrote him a Letter." She is a sweet singer with a full round voice finely cultivated and capable of wide range. The most attractive feature of her singing is articulation, the feature of her singing is articulation, the state of the singing and about about about about alleger of the singing and about about about alleger of the singing and about about about alleger of the singing and about about about alleger of the singing alleger and beginning about about a singing and a singing alleger of the singing alleger and the singing alleger at the singing alleger and alleger and a singing a singing and a singing and a singing a singing a singing a singing and a singing a singin every word being close out, sharp, clear and intelligible. A splendid duet, "Ia cl darem," Mozart, was rendered with fine effect by Miss Batton and Mr. Hall, accompanied on the piano in most excellent manner by Mr. Lausing—who, we might here say, acquitted himself splendidly throughout the programme, and left a fine impressay, acquitted himself spiendidly through-out the programme, and left a fine impres-sion on his critical audience—concluded the programme, and all present departed highly delighted with the musical feast afforded.

The performers did not appear in full dress on the stage, as they lost nearly every article of their wardrobe in the recent terrible disaster on the Ohio river, they being passengers on the ill-fated steamboat America. To-night the last con-cert of Ole Bull will be held at the Academy with an entire change of programme, and we hope that none of our readers will fail to embrace the opportunity of seeing musicians. PAREPA ROSA.-After Ole Bull, the musical sensation of the hour, will have departed, another celebrity flashes upon the people in the person of Parepa Rosa, who appears on Wednesday evening next at the Academy. She will be accompanied by a concert combination of marked brilliancy concert combination of marked brilliancy and reputation, her assistants embracing Mr. Bowler, tenor; Signor Ferrani, baritone; Carl Rosa, violinist; Mr. Colby, planist, and Mr. J. Annoying.-There is, perhaps, nothing Annoying.—There is, pernaps, nothing more annoying to a hungry man than to go into a restaurant and order what he wants and then be compelled to wait a haif or three-quarters of an hour before it is placed before him. This annoyance, although a pretty general one, is never experienced at Holtzheimer's Continental Saloon, Fifth avenue next door to the Postoffice. avenue, next door to the Postoffic
