PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET. OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,

Tuesday, December 15, 1868. There is no commodity in this market that presents the same inducement or, perhaps temptation, to persons inclined to speculate; that oil does, and there are but few, outside of the trade, who have the slightest conception of the muslins and calcoes. The Stark A heavy of this character that are of almost daily occurrence. It is very common fer men engaged in other avocations, when their particular branch of business becomes a little dull, and who, perhaps, have seme capitally for understanding and a few other makes which have the slightest conception of the specialty occurrence. It is very common fer men engaged in other avocations, when their particular branch of business becomes a little dull, and who, perhaps, have seme capitally for understand a "fly" in eil, most generally buying for future delivery. As a matter of course, these speculative movements sometimes afford the speculator a very handaoms the wreag way. It is all very well turns the wreag way. It is all very well perhaps temptation, to persons inclined for men, possessed of ample means, and who can give their whole time and attention between the control of the can give their whole time and attention but the can give their whole time and attention but the can give their whole time and attention but the can give their whole time and attention but the can are a can are the can are a can are the can are tien, but for men who are engaged in other branches of trade, requiring their time, and who can illy afford to meet with loss of this kind outside of their legitimate business, it is, to say the least, not very prudent. The oil business is characterized by a good many "thout trains?" terized by a good many "short-turns," which sometimes everceme the shrewdest operators, and particularly has this been the case during the past few months. Instances are by no means rare, where men have been "bulla" one day and "bears" the next. They will tell you one day that the demand is constantly increasing the production diminishing, and that prices are bound to go higher. Subsequently, the same parties—having unloaded in the meantime—have discovered that they were mistaken, and that instead of an advance a decline is inevitable. Europe is full of oil have enough on hand to run them half the mext year; the production is increasing, stocks at all the leading points accumulations and more investigations of the production of the points.

ing, and, more important still, there will a good crop of rape-seed. The Titusville Herald, of Monday, gives the situation as follows: The cause of the large advance, and of improved prices for future, delivery in which the cause of the cause large advance, and of improved prices for future delivery is mainly attributable to speculation. The markets have been under the control of a combination at New York during nearly, if not quite, all the month, and it is supposed that during the next ten days an effort will be made to "corner" sellers for next months' delivery to be at the moderately active and steady for the best and easy for lower grades; sales at $73,25 for common, $7,403,95 for fair to good, $888,25 for extra; receipts of 18,252 head; shipments 7,748 head. Beef Cattle quiet; sales at $3,754,40 for cows, $535,25 for light steers, and $9310 for extra choice. "corner" sellers for next months' delivery at New York. When the combination entered the market during last month, the stocks of refined in the country were low, several of the principal refineries had closed their works, and the stocks of crude were much reduced. Since the bull operation were much reduced. Since the bull operations began the stocks, generally speaking, have undergone but little change; but one of the effects of the advance in prices was to start up, there refineries which had been stopped, but with this exception the present condition of the trade favors bull operations as much as it did then.

ORUDE.

There is a continued fair demand for Crude, and the reported sales continue large, while prices are unchanged. The offerings, however, still keep pace with offerings, however, still keep pace with the demand, and buyers appear to be getting all they want at quotations. Sales of 5,000 barrels, seller's option, 1869, at 12½c; 340 bbls, on spot, at 12½c; 5,000 April to December, seller's option, at 12½; also, a put of 2,500 bbls, all next year, seller's option, at 12c, and five hundred dollars, and 5,000, all next year same option, at 12c and 5,000, all next year, same option, at 12c, and one thousand dollars. RIVER NEWS.

The river rose several inches at this point during Monday, night which is said to have been caused by a gorge in the Ohio near Shoustown. The weather has moderated somewhat although it is still cold, the thermoneter at four P. M. being down to 30 degrees above zero. The ice in the Allegheny is not so heavy, and is more scattered, which would indicate that it is closed at the same point above.

Navigation continues suspended to lower ports, and, as a consequence there is little or nothing doing at the landing.

The following boats are in port: New York, Ingomar, Grey Eagle, Glendale, Camelia, Lorena, Sallie, Armenia, Maggie Hays, Savanna, Yorktown, and Mary Davage.

Davage.
The Wausnita was expected to arrive at Cincianati on Monday. -The Alaska, going through the canal broke her wheel badly. -The Westmoreland left New Orleans, for Cincinnati, on Saturday. -The Glasgow, Pittsburgh to St. Louis was at Louisville on Sunday. -The Leonidas, St. Louis to Pittsburgh, was at Leuisville on Sunday. -The Bellevernon, Pittsburgh to New Orleans, was at Memphis on Sunday.

-The ferryboat at Fort Shelling was wept away by floating ice on the 8th. -Captain Charles Beers now commands the Lady Withaup, from Memphis to White -Captain George Vandergrift's towhoat Jim Watson passed up from Aurora Saturday morning with two barges of hay for Pittsburgh. —A barge containing 1,500 bris salt ran afoul of the coal fleet moored at Pumpkin Patch, Saturday morning, and sunk. It was from Kanawha river. -The towboat Fearless and thirteen barges, are laid up opposite Ironten, Ohio. The Mary Alice and Ajax, Pittsburgh to New Orleans, were at Cairo on Sunday. -It is reported that there was no insurance on the freight burned at Columbus. Ky., a few days since, the freight having arrived by river and insured by river risks

-The Dubuque Times, of the 10th, savs A telegram just received from St. Louis says the White Collar Line has sent Superintendent Wellington to Cincinnati to put two more new boats under contract. These, added to three already under contract, will add five new boats to the Company's fleet next spring. With this addition, there will be ten first-class side-wheel "fleaters" in the line headder. "floaters" in the line, besides the present array of smaller steam crafts.

—An insurance suit has been pending in the Circuit Court at St. Louis, involving $280,000. It seems that some time ago the firm of Henning & Woodruff entered into a contract with the United St. contract with the United States Insurance Company for the insurance of a heavy ship-ment of cotton, in which Hudson E. Bridge and others were concorned. One steam boat load of the cotton thus insured was destroyed by the burning of the boat. Nonsuit was granted—a victory for the insurance company.
