THE DEATH OF THE AUBURN HORSE.

THE DEATH OF THE AUBURN HORSE. To the Editor of the Tribune: Sir: The death of Mr. Bonner's celebrated Auburn horse has suggested to me to communicate to you, for the benefit of your readers, a remedy which I have never seen fail to cure colic in horses. It is simply to drench them with a preparation of chloric and permanganic acid, which can be procured at any drug store.

STOCK RAISING AND DAIRYING.

Animals should be kept growing all the time during winter as well as summer. By thus doing hinders, if of good breed, are of ample size to come in when they are two years old; and thereafter, they will make all their future growth, they not only pay their own way, but they pay a profit besides.

RECIPE FOR CHILLIANS.

Alum, half a pound; water, two quarts. Dissolve the alum in the water, first having coarsely powdered as this will hasten the process of solution. It may be put at once into cold water, and left to stand until it is dissolved, or the water may be heated so as to be at the boiling point, and the alum mixture in the meantime. When it has come so hot that it can only be borne for an instant by the hand, it is ready for use.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

It is an excellent habit in family cooking to serve up meat boiled in the soup with some tasteful garnish. (It is of the first importance, for a good soup, with a few vegetables in proportion to the meat, will do the work of a dinner.)

THE BEST TIME TO SCRAPE AND CLEAN FRUIT TREES.

Many farmers form good resolutions during the winter for agricultural and horticultural operations, which they hope to reduce to practice as the seasons advance. They are anxious to get at it, and often undertake too much.

WHEAT TO SELL GRAIN.

"The bee cholera" is raging in Clinton county, Ohio. Henry Hawkins, of New Britain, has lost thirty out of eighty hives. He says, that by careful observation he has discovered that the bees were attacked with a violent purging, and that the matter thus evacuated being of a glutinous quality, clog to and bedazzled the bees in such a manner as to finally almost retard their motion. Their wings became so glued up that in attempting to fly they drop down a short distance from the hive and perish.

or to "hold over," whether wheat will be worth more next month or next spring than it is now, are questions which have puzzled the brains of many farmers.

The better way for farmers is, sell when you are ready. Not once, nor twice, nor one year and another, but make it a rule. Trust not to your impulses; avoid being influenced by your feelings. It is often grasping, is not healthy, is not to be encouraged. Many years of observation have convinced us that this is the right course. Save your interest and waste caused by mice and vermin; save your grain from losses by fire and rot. Be content as you will be if the responsibility is off your mind. You will lose, but you will gain also; your neighbor may triumph over you one year, or two, but your time is coming, and on the whole you are the gainer. This is experience, this is the truth in selling grain; it is the clean satisfactory thing.

HOW TO RAISE A FIG.

To have it in prime order it should be from four to five weeks old, and should be killed and dressed the day before roasting. Make a stuffing of bread crumbs, and two or three good onions chopped fine, and well seasoned with salt, pepper and pepper. Allow no water in the pan; bake whole in a good oven, and rub often with a little bag of butter. When done, put the whole on a platter, and add a little water added to the brown gravy, boiled up, and either poured over the pig or served in a tureen. It should be served with hot plates, apple sauce, hot, and very nice onion sauce.
