COL. LEET, Assistant Adjutant General on the staff of General Grant, arrived from an inspection tour in Sheridan's command. He presents a fav table account of the Indian war and its progress. The hostile tribes are dispirited by the recent severe punish-ment some banks have received. The death of Roman Nose is a severe blow to the Cheyennes, and the capture of Santanta and Little Wolf, chiefs of the Kiowas and Atrapahoes, deprives the Indians at war of their ablest leaders, and has put into our hands the most dangerous of our foes.

THERE is little probability of an early decision by the Supreme Court on the legal tender act. There still remains one case before the Court of Claims. It will be argued this week. The rumors circulating with regard to the probability of a decision unfavgard to the propability of a decision difference orably affecting the constitutionality of the law have no foundation, and in fact are believed to be started for stock jobbing purious for the propagation of the propagation poses. Attorney General Evarts and Judge Curtis are quite confident that when the decision is rendered the Court will be nearly if not quite unanimous in favor of sustaining the legal tender portion.

AT BOOTH'S last performance of Hamlet I met a man, a man of honest looks and pany, there is no possible reason for doubtquite unfoppish dress, who said he came from Attleboro, where they make jewelry." He asked me if I had ever been theatre before, and informed me in the same breath that he hadn't. He had "come down" to a horse-race at Riverside Park, he forgot his bets and his favorite horses and had come to see that. "For," said he, git's my opinion that Shakspeare wrote the best things ever was wrote, and Hamlet's the best of him. But," he continued, "I never was so disappointed, Seems to me they don't any of 'em know anything about it exceptin' that dark, tall fellow there, and he thinks a sight more of himself than he does of Shakspeare."-Boston Letter. SAVINGS BANES AND SPECIE PAYMENTS. -The Worcester (Mass.) Gazette says: We learn from good authority that many of the savings banks are disposing of their five-twenty bonds, for which they get a premium of ten per cent., and purchasing the thirty per cent. Government bonds at to the railroads at six per cent. currency on thirty years' time. ject is to secure the premium on the fivetwenty bonds, and get the long time cur-rency bonds under the belief that a resumption is soon to take place, when the currency will be equal to gold, when of course others and have the advantage of thirty years to run. This movement arises from the agitation of the subject of return to specie payments by Congress."

Miss Evans, of "St. Elmo" fame, has been married, as already noticed. She is very popular in Mobile, being affectionately correspondent of the New York Times.
The writer adds: "I was informed that she was soon to publish another romance, not withstanding the travesty which ungallant New York wits have made at the expense of her last work. The origin of the forthcoming book savors somewhat of the apocalyptical. The fair authoress had been saying called 'Gussie,' as we are informed by a tablishments of that city. The defective correspondent of the New York Times. kernels are scrupulously sorted out and conwas soon to publish another romance, not-withstanding the travesty which ungallant New York wits have made at the expense of her last work. The origin of the forthcom-ing book savors somewhat of the apocalyp-tical. The fair authoress had been saying her prayers, and while yet in the attitude of devotion the whole plot of a new romance. devotion the whole plot of a new romance flashes though her mind:

"The coupled ideas shot though her brain As shoots though a village au express train, " While a peremptory voice seemed to say to her, 'write.' I tell this tale as it was told to me, in sober earnest."

THE ex-King Consort of Spain, Don Francisco de Assisi, seems to entertain no hope of returning to Spain. He has already fitted up a furner's work-shop at the hotel where he lives, and works there six or seven hours daily, at tops and other toys for the royal children. The story that he stole, in Spain, large sums of money belonging to charitable institutions, can not be true, he having been for many years in such a chronic state of impecuniosity in Madrid that even the mechanics and merchants who furnished goods for the Court refused to let him run up small bills at their stores. He led a very retired and inexpensive life, and if those millions were stolen by persons at Court, it is more than likely that they abused the poor simpleton's name, and pocketed money of which he never 'saw a real. GARNIER PAGES, the French Representative, met Haussmann, the Seine Prefect, the other day at an evening party. Haussmann conversed with the old man for some time, and finally made a remark which irritated Garnier Pages so that he retorted rather tated Garnier Pages so that he retorted rather angrily Haussmann, shrugging his shoulders, exclaimed contemptuously, "My God, what did you Republicans ever accomplish when you were in bower?" "Sir," replied Garnier Pages, haughtly, "we had the exchequer of France at our disposal, and when we retired from the administration we were not righer, but noters than before I for not richer, but poorer than before. I, for one, was Minister of Finance, and I had to Guide to Hanny Manual and the state of the state make a living afterward by giving private lessons. I hope, sir, you and your friends may one day be able to boast likewise of such a thing." Haussman made no reply, and left the party a few moments afterward. THE Albany Knickerbocker gives the fol-Clowing description of Gov. Hoffman's residence in that dty: "The residence of Gov. dence in that Giv: "The residence of Gov. Hoffman now nearly completed, in Congress Hall building, will probably be one of the intest in the interior to be found in the city. The apartments to be occupied by His Ex-cellency have been turned inside out, renovated, reconstructed and altered throughout. They do not look like the same place. It is wonderful how the labor of the mechanic and artist can, change the appearance of things. The buildings that were formerly nsed as an ordinary dwelling will soon pre-sent the appearance of a princely palace. Furniture, carpets, damasks, laces, &c., of the most gorgeous description, constitute the arrangements of the Governor's mansion. To the external appearance has been added a portice of beautiful architecture, neat, ata portice of tractive and accommodating. In front of the portico are two large pillars, handsomely carved and worked up, from the top of which will project a gas burner, to be covered by an appropriately designed globe, giving to the whole an air of distinction, elegance and refinement, somewhat in keeping with the name and office of Governor of the great Empire State. We earnestly hope, however, that the day is not far distant when steps will be taken to erect a permenent Governor's mansion. The Governor's mansion is com-

Life Insurance on a Positive Basis. There is a tendency among men of all classes, towards speculation in regard to matters in which money is in any way concerned. If we invest, in the ordinary manner, one dollar, we of course expect at least one hundred and six cents in return, but if THE whole number of claims received at we have a chance of receiving by some exmark is prompted by a consideration of the different methods of life insurance now offered to the public. On one side we have the mutual companies, which, for positive high premiums, paid during a man's life, will guarantee a certain sum to his heirs at his death; and also will possibly pay into his hands certain premiums, which may be declared by the companies; the time of pay-ment and the amount of said premiums to be determined by the profits which may accrue. On the other hand we have the method proposed by the National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America. In this Company everything it promises is as fixed and certain as that which it asks. In the first place the premium paid is smaller than in the mutual companies. There is an advantage to start with. Secondly. There is no po sibility of the insured person being de-ceived or deceiving himself by incorrect calculations. So much premium secures so much money at death. Thirdly. The policies cannot be forfeited, for what one has paid he receives a policy for a proportionate amount. Fourthly. The policy one receives is a certain possession of the heirs at the death of the insured. It cannot be attached by creditors. These and other promises are secured by a paid-up capital of one million dollars, thus making it possible for this Company to meet all liabilities, no matter what losses or disappointments may occur. When we add to these various advantages the fact that men of the highest financial positions in the country ere at the head of the Comng the absolute security it guarantees to all ts policy-holders. The Farming Prospects in the South. Valuable sugar plantations in Louisiana, which were sold at nominal prices two years ago, are rapidly going up in the market. The New Orleans Crescent says that plantations which were bought for $10,000 two years ago the owners now could get $30,000 for them. One which was bought about two months ago for $130,000 the owners refused $170,000 for. Of course this is not to be wondered at when the net proceeds of plantations can be bought for $30,000 or $40,000 while an outlay of $15,000 or $20,000. will make a crop of $60,000 or $30,000 per annum. Capitalists, everybody knows, are cautious, but when the results are so patent as this year, it is no wonder that Western men are going along the river examining and selecting plantations for permanent set-

A letter from Georgia to the New York tlement. Times says that from all appearances, if the coming year is even moderately propitious, more cotton will be made in Georgia than has been made since 1860. Even ladies are talking of having their cotton patches, and are discussing the comparative etc., with as much interest as the oldest planters. There are signs of material pros-

A recent visitor to Malaga describes the process by which the chipped, cracked, or otherwise damaged almond kernels are prepared for market in the extensive fruit establishment. basket and in her right hand a camel's hair brush. Her business is to pick up almonds from her pile (which is constantly being fed by an attendant), paint over the damaged place with gum and dip it in the mound of brown dust. She then brushes off the superfluous grains of powder, and drops the apparently perfect almond into her basket, the latter being emptied at intervals into a heap of shelled fruit that occupies a whole neap of shelled fruit that occupies a whole corner of the room. In some establishments a simpler and less adhesive liquid of gum'is used in this department of the trade; the gum being a recent innovation.
