FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOVD.

At the annual meeting of the Ohio Wool Growers' Association a resolution was adopted declaring that the interests of the Ohio wool growers are in opposition to the renewal of what is known as the Canadian Reciprocity Treaty, and that our Representatives in Congress be urged to oppose in every feature the introduction of untaxed foreign wools, to the exclusion of wool grown from our own flocks. Also a resolution that wool-growing is an important, and should remain an essential, feature of agriculture in that State; that the present together; have some butter in a frying pan, depression of this interest is owing to causes | and when it is melted put in the potatoes temporary in their nature, and furnish no good reason for the sacrifice of flocks and the abandonment of their business to those who have for years been profitably engaged

ABOUT twenty years ago the Smithsonian Institute embarked in a series of experiments testing the practicability of neutraliz-ing the poison of snakes, founded purely on a chemical basis, which developed great results. The fact was illustrated that the poison of the most venomous rattlesnake can be neutralized in an incredibly short time. After the most extraordinary results from all the experiments witnessed, there was pro-mulgated from the Institute, at the time above mentioned, the following simple but certain cure for snake bites, and for the sting of all kinds of insects:
Thirty grains of Iodide Potassium.

Thirty grains of Iodine.
One ounce of water.
Applied externally to the wound by saturating lint or batting—the same to be kept moist with the antidote until the cure be effected, which will be in one line.

Those who like fat should select a fatty piece, those who prefer lean may take the

This simple remedy can be obtained at any drug store, and costs but a trifle. Every family might keep a vial of it ready at hand. Fruit gatherers may feel some security in having it about them. Hunters and fishermen may not find it inconvenient to go forth thus prepared for "the mishap of the hour."-[Farmers Home Journal. "GRAIN-KILLED" HORSES.

Some years ago a man lived in this vicinity who had kept livery stables both in New York and Philadelphia, and he owned one of the poorest grass farms you would wish to see, but well watered. He would buy horses in those cities from gentlemen that kept but one horse-horses that had a good deal or work on the road as family horses, and were fed very highly of grain, and had been in the city some four, six or more years, and were what horsemen called grain-killed. He would bring them up generally in the spring, and let them run at pasture, and I have seen from six to ten horses in a field for weeks together, where you could not see a green thing, unless some weed or brier that the horses would not eat. He would keep them just alive for eight, twelve or more months, as the case might be, but at least eight months, and put them in the stable about February 15th or March 1st, having let them run in the barnyard after snow came, but housed from storms. He would begin feeding a few carrots at first, and then add grain after being ground, but never feeding very highly, and in a few weeks the horses would look tull, with smooth coats and well-filled between the ribs, and in May or June Le would take them back to the city and sell them just as houses from the country—the old owners often buying the horse they sold, because the horse could not eat grain enough to look as fine and soft coated as he did when he returned to the city, when at pasture or in the yard. At this farm the horse was kept just alive, but had little or no work. I tried it on one or more horses I have owned, and ribs, and in May or June he would take found it very beneficial, especially to horses that were over ten years of age. I think that eight quarts of grain given to a horse, after some six months of this treatment, will have a better effect on the looks of the hair, and feelings or life of the horse, than twelve or fourteen quarts did before; remember, I speak from facts. You look at coach horses, in your city, which you know have been there six or eight years, with a good deal of BATCHELOR'S HAIR DYE. work, and the coachman allowed to feed all: the grain he chooses, and also a little hay, and see if I am not sustained in what I

Grain-killed horses are always gaunt be-tween the ribs; the hair stares and looks dead, and the flesh feels hard and dry; the horse is dull and stupid-not playful, and looks sleepy about the eyes. Treat him as I say, and, my word for it, in a few months he will be his old self, playful at the halter, prompt to the bit, and look sleek. To give less grain, more damp hay or green food, carrots, potatoes or something of that kind in moderation is my advice and practice. - James Thompson, Rose Hill, in Country Gentleman.

COOKED FOOD FOR SWINE. Thomas J. Edge, of Chester county, Pa. one of the best farmers of that excellent farming district, in answer to the inquiries of the editor of the Practical Farmer. gives that paper a report of his experi-ments, which cannot fail to be read with interest by all engaged in making pork: My first experiment was with old corn, in three forms, viz: shelled and fed whole; ground and made into slop with cold water, and ground and thoroughly cooked. The pigs, five in number, were from the same litter, and were the produce of a good common sow crossed with a Berkshire boar. In each case the food was given them as fast as consumed, and all possible care taken to avoid any waste or irregularity of feeding; in every case of a change of food three days was allowed before the weighing for the experiment, in order that the effect of a sudden and entire change of diet might not effect the result. I found that five bushels of whole corn made 471 pounds of pork. Five bushels (less miller's toll) of corn, ground and made into thick slop with cold water, make 541 pounds of pork. The same amount of meal, well boiled and fed cold, made 83} pounds

With the whole corn the pigs had the slops from the kitchen (no milk), and for drink the boiled mush, one or two quarts were thinned with cold water or slop from the house; in each case the house slop was used in some form or other, but all the milk was reserved for small pigs. The fifteen bushels of corn cost $1.30 per bushel, and you will notice that while the pork made from the whole barely paid for the corn, that from the same amount of ground corn cooked. paid the whole cost of the corn and a little more than one dollar per pushel ever, and that the economy of grinding and making into slop will fully warrant the extra trouble and expense. How could it be otherwise, when the whole economy of profitable feeding consists in bursting or breaking the indigestible hull which encloses the minute in speaking of the value of potatoes when cooked for higs, says:

11 have demonstrated to my own satisfaction with the faction; with the use of a steamer and careful weighing, that while five bushels of boiled mush (hasty-pudding) will make eighty-four pounds of pork, three bushels of meal and and five of potatoes will make seventy-two and one-half pounds of pork. I do not wish to be understood that the five bushels of potatoes made the extra twenty-two and onehalf pounds, but merely state that under similar circumstances the two combined produced the result. USEFUL RECIPES.

Eggs and Potatoes.—Remove the skins from some boiled Irish potatoes, and when perfectly cold cut them up in small pieces about the size of a grain of corn, and season with salt and pepper. To a quart of pota-toes thus prepared take the yolks of six eggs and the whites of three, and beat them well
