title of the initial volume of a proposed annual publication by O. D. CASE & Co., of Hartford, who have sent us a portion of its pages in advance. Since the "American Almanac "was discontinued in 1860, and the two years of the "National Almanac" in '63 and '64, the broad field of information thus to be annually harvested has been entirely unoccupied. These publishers enter upon it now, appreciating the public needs, fully and permanently, a year-book and register which shall be indispensable for the intelligent public. The sheets before us fully sustain their promise to give to their work a broader and more valuable range than was covered by either of the annuals above spoken of. As a compendium of astronomical, historical, religious, political. financial and commercial information, as well relative to our National and State goveruments as to foreign countries, and carefully edited by competent writers, the completed volume of 800 pages will satisfy so nearly all the current requirements of public men or private citizens, as to command for the enterprise a well-merited success.
