A BOY OF SIXTEEN, named William H Hageman, was the means of spoiling the little game of two bond stealers in New York, Wednesday morning. He was in the employ of Wm. H. Strong, a banker, and had received a tin box containing several thousand dollars' worth of bonds, to be conveyed to his employer's office. On reaching Mr. Strong's he placed the box on the counter, when two well dressed young men entered the place. One of them seized the box and ran into the street, followed by his ac complice. Hageman instantly sprang to the door, which the confederate of the thief endeavored to prevent being opened; but the boy effected an exit and started in pursuit. The messenger was rapidly gaining on the thief when his accomplice seized him by the arm and endeavored to detain him. Hage man, however, possessing considerable mus-cle, freed himself from the grasp of the vil-lain and continued the pursuit. While Hageman was pursuing the thief, an officer cam up and arrested the confederate who made no attempt to escape. The boy was fleet of foot, overhauled the thief, collared him, secured the stolen property and turned the robber over to the authorities at the station house, where he was recognized as an old

THE SOUND OF THE LUNGS. One of the most accurate ways of determini dition, is by means of listening to the respiration. To these experienced in this practice it becomes as plain an index to the state of the lungs, and is as well known to the operator as are the voices of his to Ivares expressed the truth, mest intimate acquaintances. The belief that ion attioned his hearers against crediting standing courds, and diseases of itse lungs upo most intimate acquaintances. The belief that long which they are dependent, are incurable, are fast becoming obsolete. One great advantage to be gained from this advance in medical knowledge is f the United States shared, and the streamler application of those was necessary to afford with these diseases to some one competent to afford with these diseases to some one competent to afford with these diseases to some one competent to afford relief. The error which had taken hold of the publishes sentiments he had expressed to lic mind in regard to the curability of consumption. or rather non-enrability, is fast becoming obliter-ated, and it is well that it should be so, not that persons should lose that salutary fear which would make them apply for a timely remedy, but that all might be induced to use remedles while there is any hope. It is the delay in these cases that fills us with apprehension and slarm, for if every one would make timely application of DB.
