PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, February 6, 1869. There has been a slight improvement in business during the past week, occasioned mainly by an increased local demand for some of the leading articles, though there is still plenty of room for improvement. The feeling seems to be pretty general that there will be a good spring trade, and the fact that preparations are being made with that object in view, has a tendency to revive business now, and we look forward with strong hopes of better times during the next

In Railway speculation during the morning New York Central was the most active stock, and ranged between 161 and 161%. On the Western list prices are higher under the veto of the Governor of Illinois of the railway fare bill. The advance was more noticeable on The advance was more noticeable on Rock Island and Northwestern, but Fort Wayne and Ohio and Mississippi were quite strong. Erie was dealt in on the street at 38@38½. In the afternoon the market was weak. Pacific Mail fell from 117 to 112, which exercised a depressing effect on the rest of the market. The general interpretation of this fall was that a leading first restriction. that a leading firm was selling out. It was further reported they have been borrowing the stock to make deliveries, and that borrowed stock is all to be returned Monday or Tuesday. The shorts in the stock was large at the close of the market and was stronger, Pacific Mail rising to 1184. All other shares revived considerably from the lowest point.
