manded the Clerk should go on and call the roll.

The Clerk was proceeding, but Mr. BROOKS seemed determined not to be put down in that way, and shouted "I am a member of the House, and I have a right to appeal from the tyranny of the Clerk."

The Clerk mildly directed that the gentleman from New York should take his seat.

Mr. BROOKS defiantly declared the gentleman from New York would not take his seat on the order of the Clerk.

The Clerk reminded Mr. Brooks that the Clerk was acting under the authority of law.

Mr. BROOKS was not to be appeased in that manner, and declared the Clerk was not acting under such authority, but in violation of all law. [Loud cries of order and great confusion.]

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, demanded the Clerk should put the question on nomination for Speaker, and he nominated James G. Blaine, of Maine.

Mr. BROOKS insisted on his right of appeal and tried to make himself heard, but his voice was drowned in shouts of "Call the roll."

The Clerk once more directed Mr. Brooks to take his seat.

Mr. BROOKS refused and asserted he was a member of the House, while the person undertaking to dictate to him was a Clerk of the House.

The Clerk retorted the gentleman was not a member of the House, but only a member elect.

Mr. BROOKS—And the Clerk is not the Clerk of the House, nor even a Clerk elect.

The Clerk replied the gentleman was mistaken. By the law the Clerk of the last House was the Clerk of this body.

Mr. BROOKS—The Clerk is bound by laws and rules, and the rule is that pending the election of a Speaker the Clerk shall preserve order and decorum, and shall decide all questions of order that may arise, subject to appeal of the House.

The Clerk, interrupting Mr. Brooks, said—It is a very unpleasant duty for the Clerk.

Mr. BROOKS, interrupting—I know it is, but the Clerk is bound by the law, and is bound to hear the law.

The Clerk—The Clerk is enforcing the law.

Mr. BROOKS—The Clerk is not enforcing the law, but is violating it. [Great confusion and excitement.]

Mr. WASHBURNE, Ill.—The member from New York should be put under arrest by the Sergeant-at-Arms.

At this time almost all the members were on their feet, Republicans calling to order and Democrats sustaining Mr. Brooks, and the excitement was intense on the floor and in the galleries.

Mr. ELDRIDGE inquired, as a question of order, by what rules the Clerk was governed, by the rules of the House or the law of the land?

The Clerk replied—He was governed by the law of the land and the rules of the House.

Mr. ELDRIDGE—Is it the law of the land which the gentleman seeks to have enforced, and the Clerk refuses to entertain an appeal? I do not believe the majority here to-day would deny the right of appeal to a member. [Loud shouts of "Call the roll."]

The Clerk, in the midst of the now increasing confusion, inquired whether there were any other nominations to the office of Speaker?

Mr. ELDRIDGE, however, persisted in keeping the floor and trying to make himself heard. He would not say the Clerk was not right, but he would say the right of appeal was allowed to members of Congress, and he demanded that right now. [Applause and encouragement from Democrats.]

Mr. JONES, of Kentucky, addressed the Clerk, but he was met with vociferous scouts of "call the roll."

Mr. ELDRIDGE put it to the other side, whether when an appeal was taken in respectful language it should be denied?

Mr. BROOKS—It never has been denied.

Mr. ELDRIDGE—It never would be denied, but that we are all slaves to great excitement. I appeal to the sense of justice of the men who hold the power of the majority.

Mr. JONES, of Kentucky—I desire to make a point of order. I desire to have the rule read which secures the right of appeal.

Mr. LOGAN—I appeal to the Clerk to keep order. If the gentlemen are determined to make a display of this kind, I ask that the Clerk shall have them arrested by the Sergeant-at-Arms.

This suggestion was received by clapping of hands on the Republican side and in the galleries.

Mr. BROOKS defied the gentleman from Illinois to make any arrests.

The Clerk again inquired whether there were any other nominations for Speaker?

Mr. ELDRIDGE persisted in appealing to the sense of justice of the majority. [Cries of "call the roll."]

Mr. BROOKS—I insist on my right to appeal.

The Clerk called upon Messrs. Cullom, Kelsey, Woodward and Voorhees to act as tellers in counting the vote for Speaker.

Mr. ELDRIDGE—I ask the gentlemen if they will not let us appeal from the arbitrary action of the Clerk? [Cries of order.]

Mr. LOGAN—I insist that the Sergeant-at-Arms arrest these men. [Applause and great excitement.]

Mr. BROOKS—There is no Sergeant-at-Arms.

Mr. LOGAN—We'll do it ourselves. [Applause and encouragement on the Republican side, and laughter and defiance on the Democratic side.]

Mr. LOGAN, menacingly—If I were Sergeant-at-Arms, I would do it very quick, be assured of that.

Mr. STOKES at the same time was vociferating in an excited manner and threatening some sort of vengeance on the Democrats, but the only words that the reporter distinguished were to the effect that Democratic members were worse than rebels.

To this Mr. ELDRIDGE replied something which seemed to be an invitation to Mr. Stokes to send on his rebel soldiers. [Uproar, confusion and excitement.]

The Clerk called on Messrs. Woodward and Voorhees to take their places as tellers at the desk, where the other tellers were already seated.

Mr. Woodward complied with the summons, but Mr. Voorhees seemed reluctant.

Then Mr. WOODWARD returned to his seat and made some conciliatory remarks as to Mr. Brooks having the right to appeal, and suggesting the appeal be entertained and decided by the House.

The Clerk stated he had no desire to make a decision that would do violence to the feelings of any member, or to do anything that would throw the body into confusion; but he was obliged to administer the law so as to effect the prime duty of the House. He regretted that any decision of his should be regarded by any gentleman as an invasion of his personal rights, for it was not so intended. He appealed to the tellers to take their places.

Mr. BROOKS, satisfied with the remarks of the Clerk, withdrew his appeal, but without acquiescing in the decision.

The tellers took their places, the storm which had looked so portentious passed away, and all was apparently serene again.

Mr. RANDALL nominated Mr. Kerr, of Indiana, for Speaker.

The vote resulted, James G. Blaine 136, Michael C. Kerr 55.

The Clerk thereupon announced Mr. Blaine duly elected Speaker of the House of Representatives for the Forty-first Congress, and appointed Messrs. Dawes and Kerr to conduct him to the Speaker's chair.

The ceremony having been performed amid general satisfaction, the Speaker elect delivered his opening speech. He said:

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives—I thank you profoundly for the great honor which your votes have just conferred upon me. The gratification which this signal mark of your confidence brings to me finds its only drawback in the diffidence with which I assume the weighty duties devolved upon me. Succeeding to a chair made illustrious by the services of such Parliamentarians as Clay, Stevenson, and Polk, and Winthrop, and Banks, and Grow, and Colfax, I may well distrust my ability to meet the just expectations of those who have shown me such marked partiality. But relying, gentlemen, on my honest purpose to perform all my duties faithfully and fearlessly, and trusting in a large measure to the indulgence which I am sure you will always extend to me, I shall hope to retain, as I have secured, your confidence, your kindly and generous support.

The Forty-first Congress, assembled at an auspicious period in the history of our Government, the splendid and impressive ceremonials which we have just witnessed in another part of the Capitol, appropriately symbolizes the triumphs of the past and hopes of the future. A great chieftain, whose sword at the head of gallant and victorious armies saved the Republic from dismemberment and ruin, has been fitly called to the highest civic honor which a grateful people can bestow. Sustained by a Congress that so ably represents the loyalty, the patriotism and personal worth of the nation, the President this day inaugurated will assure to the country an administration of purity and prosperity, an era of Liberty regulated by Law, and of Law thoroughly inspired with Liberty. Congratulating you, gentlemen, on the happy auguries of the day, and invoking the gracious blessings of Almighty God on the arduous and responsible labors before you, I am ready to take the oath of office, and enter upon the discharge of the duties to which you have called me.

The oath was then solemnly administered by Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, the senior member of the House.

When the ceremony of swearing the members commenced, they were called up in batches of twenty or thirty at a time, arranged themselves in the area in front of the Speaker's chair, and took the oath with uplifted hands.

When the New York members were about to take the oath, Mr. SCHENCK called attention to the case of Mr. Reeves, from the First District, who had been represented to him as having given aid and encouragement to the rebels while editing the Greenport Watchman.

The SPEAKER asked Mr. Schenck whether he submitted any motion on the subject?

Mr. SCHENCK said he did not, and thereupon the New York members, including Mr. Reeves, were sworn.

Objection was made by Mr. BUTLER to Mr. Hamill, of Maryland, by Mr. SCHENCK to Messrs. Winchester and Rice, of Kentucky, and by Mr. BROOKS to Messrs. Van Horn and Dyer, of Missouri, and these gentlemen stepped aside and did not take the oath.

Mr. LAWRENCE, of Ohio, objected to Mr. Rogers, of Arkansas, and offered a resolution on the subject, but the resolution was laid on the table, and Mr. Rogers sworn.

All the members, with these exceptions, and the Delegates, having been thus sworn, the House, at half past five, adjourned.

The announcement of a Republican caucus for to-morrow morning at half-past ten was made by the Clerk.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

The Street Committee of the Allegheny Councils met last evening.

The Allegheny river is frozen over a short distance above the city.

See Advertisement of Cottage House and large lot of ground in East Liberty, for sale.

The Courts, Real Estate Transfers, and Brief Telegrams, will be found on our seventh page.

Fined.—Henry Skiles, a countryman, was fined two dollars by Mayor Drum, yesterday, for driving his wagon, loaded with straw, over the sidewalk in the Diamond.

Firemens' Association.—A meeting of the Firemens' Association will be held in the hall of the Association, City Building, Monday evening, the 8th inst., at 7½ o'clock.

The Inauguration Prayer Meeting held yesterday at noon in the First Presbyterian Church, was very largely attended. The exercises were of an unusually solemn and impressive character.

Miner Killed.—Yesterday afternoon a miner employed at Bell's coal works, Mansfield, was killed by the falling of a mass of slate. We could not ascertain his name. The Coroner will hold an inquest on the body to-day.

Assaulted.—Mrs. Sarah Schwartz made information before Alderman Mitchell, of the Nineteenth ward, (late East Liberty,) against Thomas McAdams for assault and battery. The accused was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance at Court.

Two Charges.—Thos. McAdams made two informations before Alderman Mitchell, yesterday, against Jacob Schwartz, one for selling liquor to minors, and one for keeping a gambling house. The accused gave bail for trial in each case.

Allegheny Sewerage.—Considerable opposition is being manifested in Allegheny against the proposed law regulating the sewerage system in the city. We understand a number of remonstrances against the measure are in circulation, and are receiving numerous signatures.

Another Coal Case.—The war against the coal dealers continues. Yesterday Alderman Humbert issued a warrant for the arrest of Thomas Moore, proprietor of the coal yard at the foot of Ross street, Monongahela wharf, for violation of the city ordinance relative to the weighing of coal.

A Middle Aged lady, yesterday morning, was suddenly seized with an epileptic fit, on Seventh avenue, near Smithfield street. She was taken into a store near by and medical aid summoned. She recovered in a short time sufficiently to walk to her residence in the upper part of the city.

Property Sales.—The following sales were effected this week by Mr. A. Leggate, auctioneer: House and lot, 155 North avenue; price, $13,000. House and lot, corner Bidwell street and Ohio avenue; price, $5,400. Two small houses, 38x40 feet, on Sedgewick street; price, $4,500.

Personal.—Rev. E. B. Snyder, at present pastor of the North Avenue M. E. Church, Allegheny, has received and accepted a call to the pasterate of one of the M. E. Churches in Chicago. Rev. Snyder has been with his present charge for the past two years, and is quite popular and very much beloved.

Fight Between Teamsters.—Adam Wess and James Shoenberger quarrelled on Penn street, Ninth ward, yesterday morning, and Adam, apparently getting the worst of the combat, revenged himself by lodging information against his opponent, before Alderman Strain, for assault and battery. A warrant for the arrest of Shoenberger was issued.

New School House.—The erection of a new school house in the First ward, Allegheny, is talked of. The old building is too small to accommodate the number of pupils in attendance. Messrs. Ingham and Borland of the Board of Directors, have been appointed a committee to take the matter into consideration and report a suitable site, &c., &c., at a future meeting.

Assault and Battery.—Alvin Weitzel made information before Justice Ammon, of East Birmingham yesterday, charging his son-in-law, Charles Rosefeldt, with assault and battery. He alleges that the accused struck him with his fist and knocked him down, Rosefeldt was arrested, and after a hearing was held to bail for his appearance at court.

Beat Him.—A warrant was issued by Alderman Strain yesterday for the arrest of Patrick Irish, charged with assault and battery, on oath of Peter Gallus. The parties reside in the Eighth ward. They got into a dispute yesterday morning, which came to blows, and finally led to the result as stated. Patrick managed to keep out of the officers' reach throughout the day.

The Lecture Last Night.—Mrs. Jane G. Swisshelm lectured last night in the Second U. P. Church, Allegheny, before a large and appreciative audience, many of whom were drawn from this side of the river. The lecture was one of the most entertaining we have heard woman deliver, and we trust the lady can be prevailed upon to deliver it before a Pittsburgh audience.

Fatal Result.—Wm. Brown, who was injured about a week since by falling from the top of a board pile at McBrier's lumber yard, Allegheny, died from the injuries received, on Tuesday. His funeral took place yesterday from his late residence on Sedgwick street, Sixth ward. The deceased was about fifty-five years of age and well and favorably known in this community.

Severely Injured.—Dr. J. H. Dickson, of this city, was severely injured by a collision which occurred on the Northern Central Railroad Wednesday morning. He was brought home yesterday, and is being attended by Dr. Hamilton. Two of his ribs are broken, and he sustained bruises and cuts on various parts of his body. His injuries, however, though severe, are not considered dangerous, and, with care, it is quite probable that he will be able to be about again in a short time.

Hit With a Brick.—Mary White made information before Alderman M'Masters, yesterday, against Thomas Corlin, a youth about seventeen years of age, charging him with assault and battery. Mary states she was walking down Virginia alley when Thomas hailed her. She paid no attention to his salute, which, she alleges, caused him to throw a brick which struck her in the back and made her insensible for a time. The accused was arrested and gave bail for a hearing to-day.

Self-Destruction—Another Suicide.

Another shocking case of suicide occurred in Allegheny yesterday. The victim, Mr. Andrew Phy, was a man about forty years of age, and the father of a family of five children. He resided on Chestnut street, Seventh ward, and was by occupation a baker. For several days past, it is said, he had been drinking pretty freely, and upon recovering from his dissipation, became very gloomy and despondent. Yesterday afternoon some of the neighbors in the vicinity of his residence heard children's cries coming from the house, and upon going in they discovered Mrs. Phy endeavoring to stop the flow of blood from a hideous gash in the throat of her husband. It seems the man, during the absence of his wife from the room, had seized upon a pair of scissors and attempted to take his life, but was interrupted in his operations by her return. As quickly as possible, Dr. Hardtmeyer, residing in the neighborhood was summoned, and medical aid rendered the unfortunate man. Notwithstanding every effort, however, the wound proved to be mortal, and about an hour after the commital of the rash act death ensued. The deceased had been predisposed to insanity, and the supposition is that he was laboring under a temporary mental aberation at the time he inflicted the fatal wound. His brother has been confined in the insane asylum at Dixmont for about seven years.

Coroner Clawson was notified of the affair and will hold an inquest on the body this afternoon.

How Do They Live!

This question, under some circumstances, might be considered an impertinent one, and, for aught we know, may be in this instance, nevertheless our "natural curiosity" or desire for information, which ever it may be, prompts us to propound it. Day after day the several County Court rooms are crowded from the opening of the Court until it adjourns with a set of able-bodied, healthy looking men, whose only object there seems to be to hear and see what is going on. The same faces that were seen there yesterday will be seen in the same places to-day and to-morrow. The appearance of most of the persons referred to does not indicate them to be men of leisure, or at least the possessors of sufficient means to live without labor, hence the question "how do they live?" Idleness is one of the first steps to crime, and it should not be countenanced either by individuals or communities, as both suffer to a greater or less extent from its consequences.

A Thief Captured.

Yesterday evening Charles A. Hunter, a young man, and evidently a stranger in the city, was arrested at Smithson & Co.'s auction store on a charge of larceny. He was in the store for some time, and it appears managed to get possession of a pair of shoes, which he secreted under his coat unobserved. He then endeavored to make his way out through the crowd, when his manner attracted the attention of some one who informed one of the employes that he thought Hunter had stolen something. He was stopped and an officer called in, who took charge of him and conducted him to the lock-up. On arriving at the watch-house, Capt. Graham searched him and found in his possession a pair of shoes, which were identified as having come from Smithson & Co.'s by one of the employes. Hunter alleged that he purchased the shoes in the morning, but could not tell where. He will have a hearing this morning.

A Brutal Husband.

Mrs. Mary Hopfield called at the Allegheny Mayor's office yesterday morning and stated that her husband, Henry Hopfield, while in an intoxicated condition, had beat and abused her in a shameful manner. Hopfield has been in the habit of indulging in this manly amusement, and but a few days ago was released from punishment for the offense by promising future good behavior. The woman was so badly abused that she could hardly walk yesterday. The accused was arrested, and, in default of payment of fine, committed to jail for thirty days.

The Rink.

The Keystone Skating Rink will be open to lovers of the skatorial art to-day and this evening. The Rink was flooded last night, and will be found to contain this morning a sheet of ice smooth as a mirror and level as a floor. As this may be the last opportunity for skating during this season it should be improved by those interested. In addition to the other attractions to-night, Prof. Yeager will represent "Mercury" on the velocipede. Don't fail to be present.

Cool Proceeding.—Alfred McWilliams made information before Alderman Mitchell yesterday against William Heshett for larceny as bailee. The parties reside in the Nineteenth Ward (late East Liberty). The prosecutor alleges that the accused and George M'Combs gave him a joint note in settlement of an account, about two months ago. Yesterday, he states, Heshett called upon him and asked to see the note, which he immediately pocketed and carried off with him. Heshett was arrested, and after a hearing gave bail in the sum of five hundred dollars for trial.

Alleged Aggravated Assault—Timothy Kelly, an ex-policeman, made information before Alderman Strain, yesterday, against Wm. McClure and John Paisley for aggravated assault and battery. The prosecutor states that while he was a policeman under Mayor Blackmore, the accused attacked and beat him one night without provocation. Prosecution was entered before the Mayor at the time, but the matter was afterwards dropped. The present information is therefore a revival of the case. A warrant was issued.

Disorderly Boarder.—Thos. Richardson drank too much whisky yesterday morning, which caused him to create a disturbance at his boarding house, in the Sixth ward, Allegheny. He was arrested on an information for disorderly conduct, preferred against him by the landlady. After a hearing, before Mayor Drum, he was fined $20 and costs. This is the second time within the last two days that Thomas has been in the watch house for a similar offense. He paid the fine and departed.

Acknowledgment.—The ladies of the Relief Society, of Allegheny City, have acknowledged the receipt of various donations ranging in sums of from three to one hundred dollars, in response to their appeal, recently made to the public, which sums added to those already acknowledged, $64, make the total of $280.

By order of the managers,
MRS. F. R. BRUNOT,
MRS. DR. TREVOR.

Alderman Peter Bolster, of the Third ward, Allegheny, will open his office, in a few days, on West street, a few doors above Ohio.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—The audience at the Opera House last evening was one of the largest and most fashionable that has assembled at that establishment during the present season, and we have never seen Lotta play better. The "Female Detective," a piece admirably adapted to Lotta's peculiar and original style, giving full range to her versatile talent, was presented in a highly acceptable manner. There is none of that affectation of inclination to imitate, so irksome to an audience, about Lotta. Her style is peculiar to herself and entirely original. The bill for to-night comprises "Capt. Charlotta," Brougham's burlesque of "Pocahontas," and "Family Jars." As this is the occasion of Lotta's benefit, we anticipate a crowded house.

SMYTHE'S AMERICAN THEATRE.—The Victorelli Brothers continue to be the attraction at the American Theatre, and they have so far proven a very forcible and profitable one to the Manager. The houses are crowded every night, and doubtless will be so long as these remarkable men form a feature in the entertainment.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The benefit of Harry Williams, at the Pittsburgh Theatre, of which he is the lessee, last night, was a decidedly substantial one. The house was crowded, and the entertainment was of the most satisfactory character to the audience. Dr. Thayer's excellent company of equestrians, gymnasts and acrobats gave an excellent exhibition, which they will also do this evening.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The three nights of the comic English Opera, by the Susan Galton Opera Troupe, commencing Monday night, promises to be the most brilliant of the season. Monday evening Offenbach's comic opera "Litchen and Fritzchen," the "Bonnie Fish Wife," and "La Rose de Saint Fleux," will be presented. The sale of seats will commence at H. Kleber, No. 122 Wood street, this morning. No extra charge for reserved seats.

JANAUSCHEK.—Fanny Janauschek, the great German artist, will give three entertainments next week at the Academy of Music, commencing Thursday evening, when she will appear in Elizabeth, supported by an excellent dramatic company. Sale of seats will commence Monday at Kleber's.

MUSEUM.—Maj. Burnell continues to add new attractions to his interesting Museum.

The Spring stock of trunks now on exhibition at the extensive and well managed trunk emporium of Joseph Liebler, No. 104 Wood street, attracts much attention, as it is one of the largest and most complete ever held by any house west of the mountains. The enterprising proprietor, in looking forward to the Spring and Summer trade, believes that there will be a large demand, not only for trunks but for articles in all other lines of business, and hence he has kept a full force of hands at work to supply the demands of the patronage which will be directed towards him. He sells at wholesale and retail, and at such prices as to make it advantageous to purchasers to bestow their patronage at his establishment. We commend Mr. Liebler as a fair dealing, honorable business gentleman, and one in every way worthy the confidence of our readers.
