NATURE AND ART IN EUROPE.

From Paris to Cologne-The Great Ca-thedral-Sacred Relics-The Rhine and its Legends-Art in Frankfort. [This letter, which should have been received before that one published on the and there are Roman towns and walls 4th inst., has been unfortunately delayed. nearly or quite 2,000 years old. How We believe, however, that it will prove none the less interesting on that account. --ED9.]

FRANKFORT ON MAYNE. I was glad to leave Paris on Thursday. It was a dark day, and in the dim gray of the early morning we drove through the streets for the last time. They were crowded with workmen in their blue uses hurrying to their work, with milk carts and country wagons. Off we went over a flat, dull country till we got | ers. From there we drove to see the fa to Belgium. From Namur all through mous Ariadne, by Danneke, a beautiful Belgium, until nightfall, the country was female figure riding a lioness. Then to lovely-great grey cliffs, broken and col-umn-like, often of a dark reddish brown, rich and warm, clustering ivy, green fields and russet woods-all very beautiful; and every now and then, peasants like leaves from a picture book; a long row of women, with short blue skirts, stout shoes and stockings and white head kerchiefs, with staff in hand and baskets strapped upon their backs. Everywhere, queer old fashloned children watching the cows. The peasants looked like a superior breed of chickens, busily engaged in scratching their living out of the We had for a traveling companion a polite old Frenchman, who gallantly presented me with a box of gum drops for the loan of my looking glass, expressed unbounded surprise at a lady's having none-spoke excellent English and greatly amused us until we reached Liege. when he left and we went on into Ger many. There, at the frontier, a custom house officer entered the carriage and talked German to us to our great dismay. Seeing we did not understand, he said "n'avous nous rien a declarir?" Now all was well, and then poured in a volley of questions, in French, as to the custom use, change of cars, time of arrival, &c.

He looked dismayed in his turn, and answered "nichts verstein." That one sentence had exhausted his whole stock of French. Very heartily he laughed and very foolish he looked, as on swept the cars, while we were laughing and our questions unanswered. However, we reached Cologne about seven o'clock after dark. Only one trunk was opened at the custom house, and we were soon at our hotel, where almost every one spoke English. As we crossed the bridge, I caught sight of a mighty pile, great buttresses and pinnacles, and with an "Oh! there is the Cathedral," thrust my head out of the window, and gazed and gazed till I couldsee it no longer. The maitre d'hotel met us at the door a handsome fellow in a black velvet coat with yellow whiskers floating behind him as he walked. Such a procession as we made, clattering through the halls, stone flagged and echoing. First went the mattre d'hotel, with his whiskers streaming behind him, then a short and chubby chamber maid with materials for

ECONOMY BUTTER CO. ask the attention of all interested in the reduction of the extravagant cost of Butter, to their practical and economical system of making pure rime Butter by the aid of the

EXTRACT OF BUTTER PLANT.

A brief allusion to the origin of this important iscovery may not prove uninteresting. Among the aut tain Cook's voyage around the world, is found the statement, that while sojourning for a short time on the Brazilian Coast of South America, he observed the natives using, in the preparation of their food, a beculiar oll, which, upon examinaion. he found to possess the appearance, taste and flavor of Butter; upon further inquiry, how-ever, he accertained that it was simply a substance that the natives distilled in a crude and imperfect mainer, from a rich and luxuriant jung that grew spontaneously and abundantly in that warm tropical country. A few years ago, ent French chemist, while on a profesan em sional visit to the tropics, made numerous experiments with this remarkable production of ture, and succeeded in extracting a concentrated essence of the plant. The formula for its preparation, and the Sole Bight for its sale in this country are the exclasive property of this Com-pany, by whom it was purchased from the original discoverer. We claim for this remarkable. yet simple and perfectly harmless preparat Its.-That by its use a net gain of from 50 to 200 per cent. is made in the manufacture of Butter. Sd.-That Butter, which from age or whatever cause, may be strong, rancid, streaked or course-grained, and comparatively useless for general use, by the aid of this Extract, is restored to its original freshness and sweetness, fine-grain, and even color. d.-By the use of this Extract, one pound of delicious, fresh Butter is actually made from one pint of milk. 4th.-That a pure and excellent table Butter can. be made, at a cost of from 15 to 20 c nts per pound. The chief expense wherein being Butter, which is the essential base. ter, which is the essential coses 5th.—That Butter manufactured by the sid of this Extract is equal in every respect to the best Butter made by the ordinary method.

Finally we all filed into a pretty room overlooking the Rhine, and in a few moments were left alone, and could give vent to our laugh-ter. From the window we could see the river with its long row of lights, and the river with its long row of lights, and the clattered up stair after stair. Finally we river with its long row of lights, and the large, dim bulk of the "Dom" overtopping the peaked roofs of the city. We were almost as much excited by the associations of the Rhine and Cologne as of London and it was long before I could quiet down to sleep: Next morning we sallied out under the guidance of a valet de place. We crossed a bridge of boats through a motley crowd, milk women with little wagons drawn by dogs, peasant women with clean white kerchiefs tied under their chins. Then through the vegetable and flower markets, open squares, filled with huge bas-kets, filled with vegetables, and healthy looking country women seated in the Soon we reached the Cathedral. midst. It is all finished now but the two spires; tower over the city. All the stones are out and have but to be put in place. From there we went to the queer old Church of St. Ursula and the 1,100 Virgins, rude and ugly enough, and a most curious charnel-house. All the sides are hollow and filled in with bones, with nourow and miled in which bones, with many gratings thro's which you can peep. The 1,100 Virgins must have had as many legs as centipedes, for never in my life did I see so many leg-bones. The case had its origin in the same difficulty out of which the defendant in this and the defense became the prosecutor. The case had its origin in the same difficulty out of which the former case grew, the defendant, deorge Hall, it was alleged, having, dur-taining a skull. I was tempted to laugh, till I saw the reverence with which the old secretary lifted one out, telling the name sacristan lifted one out, telling the name and tenderly replacing it. His evident belief and yeneration made me sad enough. A casket of teeth, St. Ursula's sllk hair net, some saint's finger withered and the prosecutor, was sworn.
