Subsequently he paid the fine and was released.

Died in Hospital.—Christian Klunk, a German, who was arrested on the night of February 28th and taken to the lockup, from which he was sent to Mercy hospital, having been afflicted with mania, a portia, but was also afflicted with a loathsome disease which would eventually prove fatal, died in that institution Tuesday night and was buried Wednesday.

PITTSBURGH FEMALE COLLEGE.

The Essay Contest Last Night—Award of the Prize.

It is a matter of congratulation with our people that they have here in the heart of our busy, bustling city an institution where young ladies are trained to think for themselves, to think well and to give expression to their thoughts in language, pure, beautiful and concise. It is pleasant to know while the great processes of mechanism, art and science go on in the busy, bustling city, that in the quiet, dignified workshops of the female college, the young ladies are advancing steadily in their useful knowledge, and yet within hearing of the music of industry, the minds of timid maidens, the souls directed into proper channels, the elevated, shaped and moulded as to render their possessors honorable and members of the society they are destined to adorn. Those who were fortunate enough to be present at the essay contest of the Pittsburgh Female College last evening, and drank in the noble thoughts and sentiments framed by the young and rushing from pure and guileless hearts, must have felt prouder than ever of our city, and of the noble institution which has been founded here.

On the Boards Again.

It affords us pleasure to announce the recovery of Mr. G. C. Smythe, Manager of the American Theatre, who it will be remembered has for several weeks past been confined to his room in consequence of a gunshot wound in the leg. Mr. Smythe is a model manager, and through his enterprise and liberality we can now boast of a first-class variety entertainment, a want long felt but vainly wished for in this city. He will be remembered by careful management and a judicious expenditure of money, his determination to give to the public a variety entertainment second to none in this city. Mr. Smythe will appear for the first time since he was injured at the American theatre, in the new two act drama entitled "The Midnight Murder."

The Railroad Nuisance.

A special meeting of the Committee on Railroads was held last evening to consider the matter referred to that committee at a recent meeting of Councils relative to the nuisance which is said to exist in the Ninth, in the Allegheny Railroad, along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, by the operation of said Company neglecting to comply with the ordinance prohibiting the use of bituminous coal as fuel for engines, within the city limits. The committee found that the nuisance complained of did exist, and recommended that the City Council should have it abated, and proceed against the Company under existing ordinances relative to nuisances, and should employ a sufficient for their protection. The ordinance referred to requires all engines to use coke or hard coal in their engines within the city limits, and imposes a penalty of fifty dollars for each and every violation thereof.

School House Nuisance.

Messrs. Editors of GAZETTE: Some things are appropriate, and some things are not. It is appropriate to name a public school house in the ward of Lawrenceville, because of the old-fashioned name of the name. So with a public school house on Grant street, to be called "Grant." But Grant street is not appropriate to name a public school house on Centre avenue "Minersville." If it is designed to commemorate the names of the miners, which is the purpose of the name, it is not appropriate to name a public school house on Centre avenue "Minersville." Again the school house "Minersville" would carry with it the name of the neighborhood. Will our wise and learned Directors cast and see what they can do to prevent this? The school building on Centre avenue, "Centre" would be more appropriate in the name of the ward.

Mortality Report.

Dr. W. Snively, Physician of the Board of Health, reports the following from reports in the city of Pittsburgh from March 1st, to March 10th, 1899: Diseases.—Known 1, old age 1, apoplexy 1, paralysis 1, aneurysm 1, pneumonia 4, phthisis pulmonalis 2, marasmus 1, diphtheria 1, scarlatina 1, typhoid 1, dysentery 2, pericarditis 1, cholera 1, gastro intestinal congestion 1, eclampsia 1, gastro enteritis 1, cerebral congestion 1, congestion of bowels 1, spinal fluid 1. Of the above there were under 1 year: 10; from 1 to 3, from 3 to 5, from 5 to 10; from 10 to 20; from 20 to 30; from 30 to 40; from 40 to 50; from 50 to 60; from 60 to 70; from 70 to 80; 2.

Adultery.

An information of a novel character was made at the Mayor's office yesterday by Jacob Matter, in which he charged his mother with adultery. The accused is about forty years of age, and it appears that her husband, the father of the present, left the College a few months since, to go to California, living in adultery, as alleged, she has been living in adultery with a fine looking gentleman residing in one of the upper wards. It appearing that the lady and her husband were about to leave the city for New York on a pleasure trip, and the information was given to prevent it, made the information against the man, and the accused was arrested and held for a hearing.

Ladies desiring bargains in trimmings, lace goods, etc., call at No. 27, Fifth avenue, where the large stock of fancy goods, fancy novelties, recently purchased by Herman J. Harkins, from Dennison & Hooker, is being rapidly disposed of at prices which can hardly fail to satisfy the most exacting.

Dr. Aborn's medical and surgical apparatus, 134 Smithfield street, for the special treatment of chronic and obstinate diseases, such as Catarrh, Deafness, Discharge from the Ear, all diseases of the Eye, Throat, Lungs, Nervous System, etc., etc. No charge for consultation.

Secret of Success.

Scarcely a day passes without some occurrence to remind us that the true secret of success in business is to be found in honest and fair dealing, close attention to business, and being courteous and gentle to customers. We were forcibly reminded of the fact while visiting the extensive boot and shoe case of Taggart & Simon, No. 119 Federal street, Allegheny. But a few years have elapsed since these gentlemen set up business on a small scale and on a small capital, but by close attention and observing a proper regard for the interests of their customers, by being prompt to fill orders, and strictly honest in all their transactions, they have succeeded in ascending the ladder, until they now stand first among the business men of the two cities. Their trade has so increased that they are compelled to enlarge the present commodious four story building they now occupy, and to erect a new building necessary to store the immense stock of boots, shoes and gaiters in their house and the excellent quality of the goods to be satisfied as to the place to buy.

The Season for Painting.

The approach of spring sets all to be their households into new activities, and while housekeepers will allot themselves much work to do cleaning, renovating and repairing, merchants and dealers will arrange their plans for a general painting up, remodeling and improving of their stores and shops. Judging of the coming season by those in the past, there will be much painting done, and we feel that it will be assisting our readers to make a selection of a capable and patriotic painter by advancing a few words about Mr. John T. Gray, No. 54 North street, late Hand street. The high reputation which this gentleman has enjoyed for many years as an artistic and finished house and sign painter, is sufficient guarantee of his proficiency. Some of the finest painting and graining in the city bear his imprint, which is taken as evidence of superiority. Mr. Gray keeps none but the most careful, steady and personally supervised work entrusted to him. By using the very best paints, oils and varnishes, he makes his work of excellent and durable quality. His rates are not cheap, but are reasonable, as he does not derive his profits by imposing on patrons inferior job work with bad materials. Sign painting, and all kinds of painting specialties, and those having such work to do, should call on him. We have had dealings with Mr. Gray, and can commend him to our readers as honorable and upright in all his transactions.

Western Lands.

A company is forming, for which a charter has been asked of the Legislature, and no doubt will be granted, to purchase lands in the West and to assist each stockholder who emigrates to improve his lands. We look upon the company and the manner in which they propose to operate as highly commendable, and one of the best things that could be done by the mechanic or laborer, who can save from their limited incomes a small amount each week, and invest it as he can do in the investment, as Western lands will always be improved, and the better locations will double or triple in a short time. We propose buying their lands in bulk and subdividing them into small lots, to be sold to the stockholders. We can only refer those interested to Louis Roll and Alderman Mays, of the Eleventh ward.

Fine Foreign Soaps.

We have received from Mr. Simon Johnston, the well-known druggist, corner Fourth avenue and Smithfield street, a number of specimens of very fine toilet soaps, which he imports directly from Europe, and sells at very low prices. The Glycerine Toilet Soap and the Skin Soap are remarkably fine and soft, and their use would be considered of importance. The first soap mentioned softens the skin, and is especially adapted for soothing qualities, softening the skin and preventing chapping and uncleanliness. The second soap is with roughness equal. Mr. Johnston keeps a splendid assortment of imported and domestic perfumeries, toilet soaps and articles, at prices very reasonable.

Grant and his Officers.

Under new army regulations officers from the various departments are traveling toward Washington city, and are another week has passed, Grant will have met the greater number, if not all of those who shared in the glory of the battle of Gettysburg. We would advise all those who have to pass through this city to call at Dr. Ross' Remedies, where they will find the best of the Continental, as all others are familiar with them.

From the Army Hospital: The bloody battle-field of Gettysburg, the field of the humble abode of the poor—from the office and sacred desk from the mountain top, descending valley, at the corner of the civilized world, is pouring in the evidence of the nation's officers. Thousands upon thousands of letters like the following may be seen at our office: "I have been in the army hospital for thirteen months, speechless and nearly dead." At Alton, Ill. They have made me a well man. C. H. FAYETTE.

His stock of goods is one of the finest and most complete to be found in the city, and the attention and gentleness, and all the prices are lower than the lowest.

PITTSBURGH, March 1899.

EDITORS GAZETTE: You will no doubt join me in welcoming to our city all new and useful improvements. Among the most marvellous that has come under my observation in this myriad, we best to not say, is the new and improved sewing machine bearing the name of "American Button Hole Over-Seaming Sewing Machine." Like its great name, it combines all the excellencies of the best, and reaching far beyond into a domain of usefulness hitherto untraversed by sewing machines; it typifies and depicts the progress of spirit and wonderful results of the inventive genius which has marked our character as a people. I was both astonished and delighted to witness the performance of a machine easy, simple and noiseless, which executed, without change of needle or foot, all the different varieties of sewing, hemming, felling, braiding, tucking, cording, binding, quilting, gathering and sewing on, and also works a most perfect button hole.

Having had some experience and quite an extended knowledge of the machine, I can say that it is the most perfect and adapted to the various necessities of the household and workshop, and most certainly surpasses all others, possessing, as it does, advantages peculiarly its own.
