The Allegheny I

The first annual report of the Park Commission of Allegheny has been laid upon our table. The document is a conveniently arranged and neatly printed veniently arranged and neatly printed pamphlet of fifty-eight pages, containing all the reports and action of Councils relative to the Park, the act creating a Park Commission and its organization, reports of the City Engineer and Land-scape Gardener, together with a detailed statement of the progress and cost of construction thus far, and the contem-plated improvements. It was deemed desirable by the Commission that the re-port should be thus printed separate for that all matters, incidentia and di-rect, pertaining to the Park improve-ment, might be preserved in a continu-ous history for present use and future reference.

reference. The Report having heretofore been published in separate parts, we deem it unnecessary to make any extended in unnecessary to make any extended in the items of interest, however, we notice that of interest, however, we notice that although several efforts had previously been made at various times, it was although several efforts had previously been made at various times, it was not until February 14th 1867, that any definite action was taken in the mat-ter, when the Committee on Common Grounds submitted a report to Councils, together with a proposed act which was Grounds submitted a report to Councils, together with a proposed act which was subsequently passed by the Legislature, providing for the conversion of the Alle-gheny Common Grounds into a public Park. Under the provisions of this act, Park. Of the designs thus procured that pre-pared by Mitchel & Grant, of New York, was adopted. These preliminary ar-rangements were completed by Novem-ber 1867, and approved by Councils, when the Commission at once com-menced on the work before them, and urged it forward to the present time as vigorously as possible. Thus far the amount expended is $41,807,89. The Commissioners in closing the re-port, add a word of congratulation at the post, and asy, "as the work progresses ment, and say, "as the work progresses and the plans of the designers are devel-oped, the opposition and distaste to pay-ine the alight cost assessed is lessened,

The Procession Impeded.

As the fine procession in honor of St. Patrick's Day moved along Wood street yesterday it was seriously impeded by a number of wagons loading at the great trunk emporium of Joseph Liebler. The annoyance was provoking, but the police knowing that the trade of that house is knowing that the trade of that house is so large, owing to the fine quality of trunks, valices, hand satchels and carpet-bags manufactured and sold, could not interfere. Cheap prices and good goods are bound to tell, and it, was no wonder that Liebler's Premium Trunk Factory made such a display of business yester-day. day.
