FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY. Corn Meal Puffs-In one quart of boiling milk, stir eight tablespoonsful of meal, four of sugar, boil five minutes, stir constantly, when cool, add six eggs well beaten, bake in buttered cups one half hour. To be eaten with maple mo-lasses or other sauce to suit the taste. Indian Slap Jack-One quart of milk, one pint of Indian meal, four eggs, four spoonsful of flour, a little salt. Beat together and bake on a griddle. Sage and Onion Sauce-Chop fine an ounce of onion and half an ounce of green sage leaves, put them into a stewpan with four spoonsful of water, simmer gently for ten minutes, then put in a teaspoonful of pepper and salt, and one ounce of bread crumbs, mix well together; then pour to it a gill of melted butter (or broth or gravy,) stir well and simmer it a few minutes longer. Onion Sauce.—Take four onions, slice them, put them in a stewpan with half cup of butter, and let them stew and brown until quite tender. This is very nice with round of beefsteak. Lemon Sauce. - Pare a lemon and cut it into slices twice as thick as a half dollar; divide these into dice, and put them into a gill of melted butter. Lemon Dumpling .- One pound of flour, half a pound of sugar, juice of three lemons, grated rind or two, chop half a pound of suet, mix all together with a little water, make out in dumplings, and boil constantly for one hour. To be eaten with any kind of rich sauce. -With two fresh eggs, half a pound of flour, quarter of a pound of sifted sugar, two slices of butter melted in a little milk, and some drops of orangeflower water, compose a batter well mixed, containing no lumps, and which ropes in pouring. Heat your waffle iron, grease it inside with butter, fill it with the batter, close it and return to the fire, browning the waffle on both sides. After being assured that it is of a good color, take it out and keep hot until the moment of serving.

A receipt asked for Fried Bread gives opportunity for the following communi-cation: "Slices of toasted bread, dipped in milk or wine and fried in honey, are excellent. Then, instead of calling them "fried bread" they are torejas, an excellent Spanish delicacy, I can assure you. Please understand there is neither butter nor lard. Simply melt the honey in a pan, and when it is very hot put in the bread, which is served hot also, after be-coming nicely browned, and without sugar, recollect." Lovers of honey can take notice.

APPLE WORMS. We call the following facts concerning these intolerable pests, from the American Entomologist. It has long been known that, by placing an old cloth, or anything of that nature, in the crotch of an apple tree, the apple worms may be decoyed into building their cocoons underneath it, and thus be destroyed wholesale. Dr. Trimble's method—which amounts to the same thing, and has been found to be practically very beneficial—is to fasten two or three turns of a hay-band round the trunk of the apple-tree, and every few days from the middle of July to the middle of September, to alip the hay-band up and destroy the cocsons that have from time to time formed on the bark under

All authors are agreed as to the practical importance of picking up and destroying the wormy apples as fast as they fall, either by hog-power, or, when that is inconvenient or impracticable, by manpower. The practical utility of allowing a gang of hogs the range of the apple or-chard throughout the summer is undoubted. When we consider that every female moth that hatches out in July or August, from the first brood of appleworms, will probably deposit an egg in some two or three hundred nearly matured apples, thereby rendering them more or less unsaleable, the importance of destroying the wormy wind-falls-in the fore part of the season, at all events -becomes at once apparent.

' CARE OF BEES IN SPRING. As soon as bees fly freely in the spring it is important to examine every hive and know their exact condition. If the bees are in movable comb hives, it is easy, by lifting out the frames, to see the amount of the stores, and also to discover, by the presence or absence of brood, if the colony has a queen. It is also easy, with bees in these hives, to supply their wants. If a colony has too little honey, it may have a frame or two of comb, containing honey, given to it from one that can spare it. If neither eggs nor brood, in any stage, are found in a hive on the 1st of March, you may be sure the colony is queenless. At that early period it is not usually best to attempt to supply the loss. The frames, bees, and all, may be put with some other that can make room for them. They will not quarrel, but unite peaceably. Queenless bees are not disposed to quarrel, and other bees will not trouble them if in this condition.

Too many bee-keepers, however, have bees in box-hives or gums. With those it is not easy to do more than guess at their condition, unless one has much experience—it is easy to tell if they are doing well; but, if not, it is hard to ascertain the trouble and apply the remedy. If hives are turned up, after smoking the bees a little to drive them up among the combs, a good "guess" can be given at the amount of stores and the strength of the colony. If the bottom board is examined every morning, you are almost certain to find eggs or immature bees under any hive that has a queen. Any colony, where the bees do not carry in pollen briskly in the first warm spring mornings, should be marked as suspicious, and watched. Queculess hives and those that contain little honey, are not apt to display energy in gathering pollen.

Every worm should be dispatched.

Every worm should be dispatched. Under even the best colonies, some may be found if you take the trouble to look. When my bees were in box hives, I never omitted to look on the bottom board of each one every morning, and destroy the worms. Every one left soon becomes a miller, capable of laying many eggs that become worms very soon every one that become worms very soon—every one destroyed puts a lingle season. Destroy generations in a single season. Destroy every worm in the spring, and you can have no millers hatched in your hives that season.

In localities where willow, hazel, elm, and soft maple abound, bees find natural pollen almost as soon as they can fly in

In other places it is of great advantage to place rye meal in shallow vessels near the bees every pleasant day, as a substi-tute for pollen. They gather it eagerly, and rear brood much earlier for having it. If no stream or brook is near your ees, provide them with water in some way; they need it specially in spring, and many are lost if they go far to obtain it.

-Rural World. Long wooled sheep should never be pastured with merinos. The later poison them so that they soon become eye-sore and run down.
