Fashionable Announcement.—Ladies will bear in mind that this morning Bates & Bell, dry goods store, No. 21 Fifth avenue, will open for exhibition and sale a fine collection of black silk dresses, walking suits, white linen sea dresses, directly imported from France, and styles are very neat and beautiful, and all are invited to call and examine them, as nothing prettier has ever been seen in this market.

French Suits for Ladies.—Messrs. Bates & Bell, No. 21 Fifth avenue, have just received a direct importation of ladies' black silk suits, street dresses, white linen suits, and walking suits, which will be opened this morning at the store. These suits are direct from Paris, and are something so stylish and beautiful that they must fill the idea of the most fastidious of our lady friends. Call in and see the exhibition, whether you desire to purchase or not, and take advantage of the lesson of good taste fresh from the French dressmakers.

Where to be Found.—I take this method of informing my many friends who are in want of suitable clothing for Spring and Summer wear, to come and see me at the elegant and fashionable Tailoring establishment of Mr. Henry Sutmyer, No. 127 Federal street, Allegheny City, where I warrant to suit my numerous friends in every particular. Serious Charge.—Mr. S. T. Faisley, Superintendent of the Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph, made information before the Mayor yesterday, charging William Cassidy with tampering with and breaking a fire alarm box. It is alleged that Cassidy maliciously broke and opened box 71, situated at the corner of Penn and Butler streets, in the Fifteenth ward, in charge, owing to the severity of the penalty, which in case of conviction is a fine of five hundred dollars and imprisonment for two years, both or either at the discretion of the Court, is a serious one. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Cassidy.

A Decided Advantage.—The very best lard in this market is that manufactured, pure, clear and clean by the celebrated oil packing house of Proctor & Gamble, Cincinnati, which is put up in patent caddies, convenient to consumers, in three, five and ten pound packages. By this system the lard is kept cleaner, without any waste whatever, and consumers experience no loss in weighing out as they do when using kegs and tins. Every caddy is full weight, warranted, and of the very best quality. The first-class lard of Proctor & Gamble is the most reliable Pittsburgh brand highly recommended in this city, to whom dealers should address their orders.

Put Him On.—James J. Saxton, master of the information before Alderman McMaster yesterday, against A. Eberhart for assault and battery. Eberhart is one of the bosses at the Manchester passenger car stables, and was riding in one of the cars yesterday, when he was assaulted by Saxton, who alleged he paid his fare once while crossing the suspension bridge, and was again riding in the car when he reached Beaver avenue, Sixth ward, Allegheny. He states he insisted upon having paid, and a difficulty accordingly ensued between him and the conductor, when Eberhart interfered and put his hands on the conductor, who was handling him roughly in the operation. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Eberhart.

Interesting Presentation.—Mr. H. M. Butler, the popular Depot Master at the Union Depot, was last evening presented with a valuable gold watch by his railroad and other friends. THE FIRE.

The Conflagration Continues.—Another Tank Explodes.—Another Man Reported Killed.—No Additional Damage.—Surrounding Property.—Loss Estimated at $50,000.—Insurance $33,750.

The great oil conflagration at Kew-Forest Brothers Oil Works, previous accounts of which we have published, was still raging last night, and, as we stated in our report of the disaster yesterday, will probably continue until every particle of oil in the tanks already reported on fire has been consumed. Since our last account of the fire there have been but few additional incidents transpiring worthy of note. The oil in the tanks mentioned continued to burn without any abatement or perceptible change until about six o'clock yesterday morning, when the large tank, which had caught fire the evening previous, burst, and the burning oil was spread in a sheet of flame over that portion of the works described yesterday, doing no serious damage, however, as everything of a perishable nature had been consumed the day the fire continued without the occurrence of anything worthy of note.

A report was current that a man had been buried in the barrel house on Thursday, but it was not credited. It was stated that several men, who had entered the barrel house, were found in a state of insensibility when they were rescued. It is not ascertained whether they were killed or not. The fire in the barrel house is estimated at $250,000, upon which there is but $85,750 insurance. Forsythe Brothers, who do not have an insurance of $85,500, as follows:

Table listing insurance amounts for various companies and property, including items like oil, barrels, and buildings.

The alarm of fire sounded from box 75, at one o'clock a. m., was occasioned by the renewed outbreak of the fire in the flory element. The oil in the six thousand barrel tank, which was burning during the day, at midnight reached the deposit of water on the bottom, which caused the flames to intensify, and burst out in renewed fury, reaching the hundred feet toward the heavens. The double frame dwelling, occupied by German workmen, and owned by Mr. J. H. Hensley, was destroyed by the fire, and the double frame dwelling, owned by Mr. J. H. Hensley, was destroyed by the fire, and the double frame dwelling, owned by Mr. J. H. Hensley, was destroyed by the fire.

At the time of the alarm, the male inmates of the Refuge, one hundred and thirty-seven in all, were out on their respective duties, and the fire, which was burning in the flory element, was extinguished by the fire department. The fire in the flory element was extinguished by the fire department. The fire in the flory element was extinguished by the fire department.

Our judgment of the fire, as reported by the fire department, is that the fire was caused by the explosion of a tank. The fire in the flory element was extinguished by the fire department. A Fair is now in progress in Berber's Hall, Sandusky crossing, near the West Penn Railroad crossing, Allegheny, under the charge of the ladies of St. Andrew's church. Many elegant and valuable articles are offered for sale. Right Rev. Bishop Sullivan, of Erie, and the late Father Steubel, of Allegheny, are among the speakers. The highest number of votes is a fine gold watch, and the most popular gold watch is a fine gold watch.

ANOTHER CONFLAGRATION.

Fire at the House of Repair.—Destruction of Works.—Estimated Loss $10,000.

Last evening, a fire broke out at six o'clock, Mr. H. Hensley's garden at the corner of Kew-Forest and Penn streets, in which was located the cooper shop, and a manufactory. He at once gave the alarm which summoned the officers of the institution, and caused an examination of the premises.

The wing in which the fire was discovered was a two-story brick edifice, located on the eastern side of and connected with the main building by a platform, across an intervening alley. The second floor was the lower floor was about twenty feet high, and the upper was a whip manufactory. Neither of these floors was occupied by any workmen at the time of the fire. The fire was discovered by the fire department.

When the officers of the Refuge entered the structure, they discovered the ceiling and rafters, but supposed the force to be confined to the upper floor. They commenced with the hose, but after working about fifteen minutes, and the assistance to the entire Fire Department, the fire was extinguished. The fire in the flory element was extinguished by the fire department.

The loss of Messrs. Kennedy & Bro. is estimated at $10,000, upon which, we are informed, there is but $3,000 insurance. They were principally of finished work, when constructed, about five years since, and as it was totally destroyed, the loss is a heavy one. The fire in the flory element was extinguished by the fire department.

At the time of the alarm, the male inmates of the Refuge, one hundred and thirty-seven in all, were out on their respective duties, and the fire, which was burning in the flory element, was extinguished by the fire department. The fire in the flory element was extinguished by the fire department.
