PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, April 17, 1869. The fine weather which has prevailed during the past week, has imparted a better feeling in commercial circles, and business generally is improving, though it is not what ought to be at this season of the year. It is thought, however, that we will yet have a good spring and summer trade, though there is one thing apparent and the sooner it is understood the better, we must come back to the old way of doing business and be content, with smaller margins, and not expect to realize the profits that were realized during the war. Money is entirely too close for speculating, and, as a general thing, those who played the speculator during 1868, suffered severely, and are not likely to try it over again soon. APPLES-Very scarce, and prime to
