NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE VILLA ON THE RHINE. By Berthold Auerbach. Author's Edition. With a Portrait of the Author, and a Biographical Sketch by Bayard Taylor. Published by Leypoldt & Holt, New York. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., 193 Liberty street. Pittshurch.

erty street, Pittsburgh. Parts first, second and third of this popular novel, in paper covers, have been received. The introduction of Bayard Taylor tends to favorably impress the reader, but even a cursory reading will demonstrate that the work itself, like "On the Heights." is of no ordinary kind. There is a grasp of language, fertility of creation, and at the same time natural and flowing construction of the novel, that few works of this character possess. It is intensely German in thought, and gives pictures of men and things with life-like beauty: This trait gives almost a reality to the characters. We speak of the plot, and nice delineation of character, without reference to the author's views. The fact his favor. We have just received the "Grottoes and Caverns," "Heat," "The first bound volume of this work, which is admirably adapted for library purposes.

REMINISCENCES OF MENDELSSOHN. By Rilse Polko. Translated from the German by Lady Wallace. With additional letters addressed to English correspondents. Published by Lepoldt & Holt, New York. For sale by R. S. Davis & Oo., 193 Liberty street, Pittsburgh.

Many of our readers will recognize in this publication another evidence of the ability of this publishing house in reproducing valuable foreign works. We have kind of commentary upon his letters. In addition to the letters already published, there are several English letters hitherto unpublished. His eyentful-career, and LILERSLIE'S ENDING. By the author of "out Layingstone," &c. Author's edition. With illustrations. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., 183 Liberty street, Pittsburgh.

Harper's Ass Monthly for May is quite interesting and entertaining. This number closes the thirty-eighth volume, and, if anything, is an improvement upon previous issues. It opens with a capital article on "Christopher Columbus," elegantly illustrated. Next we have "Magphia. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., 193 Liberty street, Pittsburgh.

This is a story of much interest, and has a fascination about it that will likely Prescott Spofford. "Glass-blowing for attrat the attention of the reader from Little Folks," with nine illustrations. is the first to the closing chapter. It is written in an easy, graceful style, though for the valuable instruction embodied in a little highly colored in some parts. This the article. Then follows a well told edition is printed from advance sheets by story, "A Sin of Omission," and a quaint special arrangement with the author.

"The Plains, as I Crossed Them Ten Years Ago." The article entitled "The Working Men of the Middle Ages" is an excellent paper. The first installment of "The Brave Lady," by Miss Mulock, will be welcomed by hosts of her admirers. This novel will be continued during the ensuing year. Justin McCarthy gives two chapters of "My Enemy's Daughter." Several small articles of excellence are also given. Clos-ing with the "Easy Chair," "Book Ta-ble" and "Drawer." Now is the time

Immediately following is a poem of much beauty, which appeared in our Saturday's issue, entitled "Christus Sylvae." The writer, Mr. F. B. Plimpand in keeping with the text.

BARNES' NOTES ON THE PSALMS. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by Henry Miner.

Just received the second and third volumes of this valuable work. It is unform with his other commentaries, small titled "The Voyage of the Esperango" is rich and racy. "Mexico and the United States" is oppertune. "The Monthly Chronicle," home and foreign news, is brief and pointed. Notes on Foreign Literature, Science and Art are short and crispy, and that capital chatty depart-ment, "Table-Talk," is well gotten up. The Atlantic Monthly presents a substantial bill of fare to the lovers of magazine literature. There is more of a prac-Testament;" "The Fells of Swarthmoor tical smack about many of the articles than formerly. The opening pages are devoted to "Malbone," which maintains its interest, followed by "The Clothes Mania," by Parton in his best style. "Brahmanism" is a searching paper, and one of much research. Two pretty pieces of poetry spice the number, entitled, "The Puritan Lovers," and "Eleanor in the Empty House." The poet Whittier's paper, "The Heroine of Long Point," is. paper, "The Heroine of Long Point," is marked with the usual good sense of this popular witter. "The Foe in the Household" and "Spring in Washington" are quite readable, and also the "Autobiography of a Shaker." Bayard Taylor contributes a capital article entitled "Can a Life Hide Itself." The paper, "Pacific Railroad," is good. "The Intellectual Character of Grant" will attract attention. The Reviews and Literary Articles are as usual high-toned and discriminat-
