THE EXELUTION

(Continued from First Page.) black man, and to his efforts and these of his religions colleagues may be stoributed the happinessomanifested by Lane at the last moment. 112916 81

CONCLUSION We believe Lane richly deserved the fate he met, for in no view of the case can We think that Justice got more than her dues. The refusal of the prisoner to say anything on the scaffold or protest his indocence insures the belief that he was guilty, although an opposite course would not have made us more ready to believe to the contrary. He confessed the secrets of his life, his greater and lesser crimes, to the minister of God, and the world will never be the wiser of the confession. The law has been fully vindicated and Louis Lane, the murderer, will never again trouble courts and juries. Let all wicked people remember that Allegheny county has erected in her jail a new scaffold which will last for agesand beware!

streets fine buildings are being erected. Police News, From the scarcity of police news, we are inclined to believe that business with the police magistrates has been exceedingly duil for some days past, and is still becoming more so. There is nothing doing at the Mayor's office, outside of a few cases for violation of, ordinances, and at the Aldermen's offices there is no criminal business offices there is no criminal business being done.

The Work Goes On .- Five persons The Work Goes On, Five persons were arrested and taken before the Mayor yesterday for allowing their horses to stand on the streets unat-tended. This work of reform goes bravely on; and will be continued in this periods and when the streets who particular, at least, until people who drive and ride horses, learn to respect the rights, comforts, conveniences and safety of pedestrians.

Still Living .- The unknown man, in-ured on the Oleveland and Pittsburgh jured on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad Wednesday, an account of which we published yesterday, is still at the Mayor's office in Allegheny. He is still living, but has never returned to is shill living, but has never returned to consciousness. Dr. Buchanan thinks his brain is injured, and that it is hardly probable that he will recover. Allegheny Valley Railroad-Change of time.

By the new time table of the Allegheny Valley Railroad which we publish this morning, it will be seen that several imortant changes have been made in order to accommodate the largely increase of travel and training on the road. Four additional passenger accommodation trains have been placed on the road in order to accommodate local travel. One of the new trains arrives in the city at 7% o'clock P. M. and another the 3d. Halton accommodation departs at 11 Haiton accommodation departs in the same ev-

ming. The large increase of business of this road is in the main attributable to the excellent management of Col. J. J. Lawrence Superintendent, and Thomas
