BURIED ALIVE IN THE SEA.

In the year 1840, I was serving as a midshipman on board the United States frigate St. Lawrence, then cruising in the Pacific. The St. Lawrence carried a crew of six hundred men—Americans, Irishmen, and men belonging to every nationality under the sun...

move and glare at us through its canvas coffin, and the St. Lawrence herself looked like a phantom ship. One man touched another to attract his attention, but he did not dare to look around to see what it was that touched him...
