Slight Fire.

About eleven o'clock last night an darm of fire, proceeding from box 37, corner of Second avenue and Try street, was sounded from the central bell. The alarm was occasioned by the burning of the watchman's box at the north end of the Monongahela Railroad Bridge. It appears that the watchman had kindled a fire in the stove and had left the box to attend to his duties, when by some means the box took fire and was entirely consumed. The Duquesne engine and hose carriage responded promptly to the alarm, but the engine was not put into service, as the fire was extinguished by a plug stream.

A Strange Story.

Yesterday morning a woman, accompanied by a little child about three years of age, made her appearance at the Union Depot, and endeavered to arouse the sympathies of the officials by the relation of a story, pitiful enough, but unfortunately not very plausible. According to the tale, she had just arrived from New York, en route to Chicago. At Pittsburgh she had entrusted a gentlemanly stranger to purchase a ticket to her destination, but in this confidence was ex-ceedingly unfortunate, as the chap palmed off a ticket for New York, which e said cost fourteen dollars. After payhe said cost lourteen dollars. Alter paying for the ticket her purse was empty, and in a few minutes afterward she discovered the fraud of which she had been made the victim. Without money, without friends, in a strange place, no other course presented itself than to appeal to the kindness and charity of strangers, which she seemed not at all loth to do.

opments, the case assumed an entirely different phase, and placing no reliance in her story they refused to extend any aid. She lingered about the Depot for several hours, and finally disappeared as mysteriously as she had arrived.

tively asserted he observed the woman on the same train; that she had told some other pitiful story, and that a collection had been taken up in her behalf. The woman was questioned in regard to this, but affirmed the truth of her story, alough it was evident she desired no investigation.

We hoped that the officers would furnish copies of the reports for publication, and therefore took no notes, and have to regret the consequent meagre account we are obliged to give of this most praiseworthy Institution and its statistics of good work done in the past year.

A noteworthy incident of the evening, which it would be wrong to omit, was the public acknowledgment made by the Rector of Trinity Church, at the request of the lady managers, of the gread kindness of Mr. Pitcairn, proprietor of the Excessior Omnibuses, in sending carriages to the "Home," at Locust Grove, or the inmates, and taking them to the church and bringing them all so back when the services had ended. oin in the common sentiment of thanks for such considerate courtesy.

Another evidence of her untruthfulness was the fact that no train had arrived from New York during the morning, it not being due until afternoon. She further stated she had shown her ticket to a conductor on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, but he refused to allow her to pass on it. This was also a falsebood, as there had been to such train in the depot during the norning previous to her appearance. Anniversary-"Church Home." The "Church Home," a most admirable charity, maintained and supervised by the Episcopal Church of Pataburgh and vicinity, held its tenth anniversary at Trinity Church on Sunday evening. The children of the Home were present, all apparently in ruddy health and with happy faces. The usual evening service of the church was read, the part, including the Paalter, by Rev. Mr. Slattery, Rector of St. James, the lessons by Doctor Page, and the creed and following prayers by Rev. Mr.

Egar, Rector of St. Peters, after which the meeting was organized for business by calling to the Chair (the Bishop being unavoidably absent) the Rev. D. C. Page, Senior Presbyter of the Diocese. Rev. John Scarborough, Rector of Trinity, then, by request, read the report of Mrs. Crittenden, President of the Board of Lady Managers. When the above case is concluded, the District Court will adjourn over for two left after having given an emetic to two of the children—George and Tommy.
The emetic that George had taken did not operate and I repeated the dose and gave large draughts of strong c. ffee; also used an enema, and ordered bromide of potassium with mustard applications.
Made another visit at ten o'clock, when the warm mustard bath was used. At eight o'clock called again and continued action to recover rent alleged to be due of ammonia for potassium. Called again at ten o'clock and continued the treatment. At half past one o'clock at night was sent for, and when I went up found him considerably reduced. Large quantities of urine had collected and I used him considerably reduced. Large quantities of urine had collected and I used the catheter. Called again at eight o'clock Sunday morning and found that he had died about an hour before. From the symptoms I at once said it was beliadons poleoning. No other poison produces the rash and dilates the pupils of the eyes as this does. Had a sample of the poison, rash and dilates the publis of the eyes as this does. Had a sample of the poison, but have lost it. It resembles the ex-tract of licorice in odor and appearance. (Dr. Mabon here showed a piece of the poison.) The sister of the little boy told me he must have eaten a piece half as large as his finger. Half a grain will cause death.

Dr. Thomas Mabon, sworn-Was called on Saturday to see some children that were poisoned. Found one child lying in bed, cheeks flushed, whole face swollen, pupils of the eyes dilated, and the patient insensible. The other child was sitting up in the bed. They had both partially lost muscular power. I thought they had been poisoned by beliadous, and advised a draught of pulverized ip-ecacuanha and gave it to them in divided doses. Thomas vomited freely, but Grant did not, being insensible and the stomach did not, being insensible and the stomach not acting. Called in a few minutes again, and found Dr. Rankin present. We continued the treatment, as testified to by him. The poison caused the death. The piece of belladona was handed to me by Mr. Terry, who got it from a little girl who picked it up in the yard.

There was a cup taken off the top of the cupboard in my house, and the little girl cleaned it out, and threw the con-tents into the yard. That is all I know about it, except what I heard from my daughter. The contents were thrown out about eleven o'clock on the forenoon of Saturday. It was a small toy cup and would not hold more than a tablespoonful. It did not belong to any one in the family so far as I know. Did not tell my daughter to throw the stuff into the fire, that it was poison. Asked about it and my daughter Mary told me she had

Grand Army of the Republic—Dedica-tion of the New Hall of Post No. 3. For some time past the members of Post No. 3, G. A. R., have been engaged in fitting up for their use a hall in Paulson's new building, on Fourth avenue, near Woods street, and the final preparations having been completed last even ing, a large number of the friends of the Post, by invitation, assembled with the nembers to participate in the dedicatory exercisés

The hall is located on the fourth floor of the building, access to it being gained by broad and easy flights of stairs. Interiorly it is one of the neatest and most perfectly arranged affairs of the kind we have ever seen. The first thing which attracts the eye upon entering is an altar, situated in the centre of and near the op-posite end of the room, handsomely draped with flowing folds of the nation's flag. Lying upon the altar is a large open Bible, on which are placed two swords, crossed: while on either side a stack of arms completes the arrangement. Di-rectly in the rear of the altar is the chair of the presiding officer, so lo-cated that an unobstructed view of the entire interior may be obtained. Ranging around the walls, from this chair is a raised Dias about three feet in width, and occuped with a row of neat cane seated arm chairs. In front of the Dias a portion of the main floor is simover the interior. The place seems admirably adapted for the purpose designed, and reflects the highest credit on the energy and correct taste of the members of Post No. 3. After the hall had been thoroughly examined by the visitors, Captain W. B

Cook announced that the Committee of Arrangements had appointed Colone R. Biddle Roberts Chairman, and Lee S.
Smith Secretary. The Chairman called the meeting to order, when prayer was offered by Rev. F. A. Noble.
Col. Roberts said he had been invited by Post No. 3 to say something of the Hall and the uses to be made of it. He congratulated the members on the success of their efforts, and the fact that they had even a place in which they could as semble to renew old associations, live over again the stirring scenes through which they had passed, and thus ever keep alive in their hearts the fires of patriotism. The day in which it was inaugurated was ausplcious. No difficulty would ever be ex-perienced in remembering the date, for upon this day the triumph of the nation's greatest enterprise was witnessed in the completion of the Union Pacific Railroad. The speaker dwelt eloquently and at length on this achievement, and characterized it as one which in a large measure overshadowed the success he Atlantic Cable.

He said the question might be asked, however, what this had to do with the G. A. R. to-night? Much everyway. The same cause which resulted in the completion of the one effected the organization. of the other. Had the war not come upon the nation, and rebellion threatened its life, this scheme would never have been carried out. The railroad never would have been built. Congress might have been appealed to in vain to expend fifty millions of dollars o build a railroad for the commercial interests of the country; but when war came the enterprise came up in a new form, and, as a military necessity, our Representatives at Washington quickly apprehended it, and thought fifty millions as nothing compared with the ado'clock on Saturday morning. Took it to mother and asked her what it was. She said she did not know. Showed it to my sister Mary and she said she did not know what it was.
