Beautiful Workmanship.

Yesterday we had the pleasure of ex-United States Circuit Court—Judge Mc- amining a number of marbleized marble mantles at the establishment of W W. Wallace, Nos. 319 and 321 Liberty Greogery vs. Gray et al., previously restreet. Heretofore Mr. Wallace was enported, the jury found for the plaintiff in gaged in marbleizing slate, but after considerable experience with slate and marble, finding the former greatly inferior in adaptability for fine workmanship he abandoned its use and is now making a specialty of marbleizing marble. The wisdom of the change is apparent. The slate while not as durable, is dull, heavy and cloudy in appearance, compared with the marble which has a polished, clear and glittering surface of great richness and finish. The specimens on exhibition embrace perspecimens on exhibition emissions of the most costly varie-gated marble, of the greatest variety in design or coloring. Mr. Wallace lately received an order from Washington, D. C., and has prepared a superb set of the marbleized marble mantles which will marbleized marble mantles which will be shipped in a few days.
