PARM, CAR P AND HOUSEHOLD.

Domestic Economy. HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE. Apple Oream. Take a quart of stewed apples strained through a sieve; sweeten and add cinnamon to taste; while the apples are boiling hot, add a lump of butter the lize of a walnut, and the yolks of three eggs, beat all well together, then beat the white of the eggs to a stiff froth, put the white in a kettle of boiling water and scald, skim out and lay on the apple; lay jelly on the white of the egg. This is an excellent dish to set off a table.

Jelly Cake.—Take one pint of sugar, one cup of butter, six eggs, seven spoonfuls of flour; bake in six pans.

Corn Starch Cake. The whites of twelve eggs, three cups of sugar, one cup of butter, three cups of flour, one cup of corn starch, one cup of milk, two teaspoons of cream tartar, one teaspoon of sods, add essence to suit taste. Cracker Pudding,—Take crackers, lay raisins between them, the closely in a cloth, boil half an hour in milk and water, have a rich sauce. Tapicca Pudding.—One teacup of tapicca soaked in repid water for one hour, take one quart of stewed fruit; put a layer of tapinca in the bottom of the pan, then a layer of fruit, and so on until the pan is then pour the juice over the top, and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. Whipped cream and sugar for dip

The objects to be bleached are to be washed by means of a brush in this solution, and transferred, while still moist, into water acidulated with hydrochloric acid, (twenty-five parts water to one and half of acid,), and allowed to remain a few hours in this liquid. They are then to be washed with fresh cold water and dried. Experiment has proved the results of this method of bleaching to be exceedingly satisfactory.

HOW TO CHOOSE AND COOK A STEAK. Steak usually considered the best is cut from the loin, the piece formerly almost used for roasting, and called the sirloin. This is the celebrated porter house steak. It has the tenderloin, with its delicious soft fat, for those who like tender meat, and the sirloin, which is somewhat more highly flavored. The porter house steak is better than the tenderloin or the fillet; the latter is very tender, but it has not the milk in the pail—let it continue to much flavor, and should be larded or have the finger until. I have given it served with some sauce, to be a good dish. The small sirioin steak is almost as second lesson is given in this way: Dip good as the porter-house. pounded; but it is a fact that implements have been devised and constructed: for that purpose alone. Do not pound a good steak, but flatten it with the sides of the chopper, trim it properly, precare it carefully, and cook it rapidly.—Hearth

To prepare the steak, rub in salt and pepper well with the hand, and greate both sides slightly with sweet lard or fresh butter. Use none of the strong butter of inferior quality, commonly known as cooking butter. The steak thus prepared should then be placed between the bars of a well-warmed light grid-iron, so that it can be easily turned over the fire. The preparation of the fire is the most important point of all. The very best is a clear fire of bright hickory coals. The next best is a charcoal fire but a bright fire of ordinary coal will broil pretty well. It is indispensible that the fire be hot and clear; and there should be no smoke from dripping gravy, which can easily be avoided with proper care. Put the steak over the fire, and turn often until done. When done, place it upon a hot dish, sprinkle over it a little more salt and pepper, apread over it a little sweet butter, and let it he served and eaten immediately. The difference in flavor between a well-cooked steak eaten immediately and one served five minutes after it is done, is enormous.

THE FARM. Wool Prospects.-Agricultural Com issioner Capron assures us that the late comparative unprofitableness of the wool business has led, in many instances, to a serious neglect of sheep, resulting in leanness, weakness, and the insidious apor sauce.

The furrows should be very shallow and near together, say two feet or less; the potatoes may be planted in the furrows at the common distance and covered very lightly with the hoe or a small corn-plow. As soon as the potatoes make their appearance above ground, so that they can be seen all along therows, they show covered with straw to the depth of about sixteen to twenty inches, and as even as possible. I believe that to harrow the potatoes lightly before covering them with straw would be beneficial. Very late potatoes might be planted and covered a little deeper. Nothing else has to be done then until fall; then, of course, to dig the potatoes, the straw has first to be remov-

Some plant their potatoes in this way: When the ground is ready for planting, they walk over the patch and drop the potatoes as near together as they desire, and step on them lightly with one foot in walking, and then haul straw right away to cover the potatoes. But I prefer the first method. New land, the first year in cultivation and planted to potatoes, I would not cover with straw.

Teaching Calves How to Drink.—S. N. Van Fleet contributes to the Country Gentleman his method of tending young calves: "My practice is to take the calf from the cow at the end of twenty-four hours, and fasten it with about six feet of rope in a box stall; I then milk the cow. and standing off just far enough for the calf to reach me, I wet my finger with milk, put it into its mouth, and gently lower my hand until it is immersed in the milk in the pail-let it continue to second lesson is given in this way: Dip
