PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

distant when the mills generally suspend operations in order to take stock and make repairs. With only moderate receipts, however, and no great accumulation of stock, and notwithstanding, the tendency is downward, prices compared with last week, have undergone no important change. There is still some inquiry for small lots of destrable foundry irons, and a very limited supply of this particular kind in market.

Bar Iron and Nail trade is reported dull and unsatisfactory, and the season all through head shard once or man. It through head shard once or man.

dull and unsatisfactory, and the season all through has been a hard one on manufacturers. There is not so much complaint in regard to the demand, as there is in regard to the extremely low prices it is said, and we have no doubt it is true, that manufacturers, have great difficulty in realizing, cost and that if they even do that, they are doing well, and that other points, in order to establish a trade, have been selling below cost.
