Accident in a Coal Pit. A serious accident occurred at Shaner's Station, on the Connellsville Railroad, yesterday afternoon, by which road, yesterday afternoon, by which Patrick Flaherty received injuries which may lame him for life. He is a coal miner and was at work in a coal pit at that place, when a heavy mass of slate and rock fell from the roof of the pit. He heard the noise just before the fall, and attempted to get out of the pit, when he stumbled and fell and an immense weight of rock and slate 'fell upon his legs fracturing and crushing them both above the knee. He was placed on the legs fracturing and crushing them both above the knee. He was placed on the express train which passed the place a short time after the occurrence and brought to this city and taken to his residence in the Fifth ward.
