Bonnets are expensive, the prices ranging from twenty to thirty dollars. The most elegant style is of real black lace, New Styles in Bonnets and Parasols. and decorated with flowers of the tint arrive in Chicago throughout the season large enough to enable our wholesale fruiterers to ship them in large quantities ion of the wearer. They are often trimmed with wild flowers and green grasses, and nothing has so pretty an effect as the little wild forget-me not peeping out here and there from among the dew spangled

An elegant black lace bonnet is made with a ruche over a diadem just above the forehead. Sprays of the beautiful clematis span this ruche, and are caught upon the top of the bonnet with a wreath of green leaves sparkling with dew. Wide, rich lace is fulled across the back, and deends upon the satin circlet in front. A bow of satin ribbon is fastened to the centre upon the breast, with a cluster of neticeable for its chasteness of style, and yet was not expensive. The frame was covered with black tulle, put on very full, and over this were rows of wide black lace edging, set on quite full. A roll of black ribbon crosses the back, from which is a fall of lace, both ribbon and which is a fall of lace, both ribbon and lace extending in a circlet in front, with charge and lang ends; clusters of mar. a bow and long ends; clusters of mara bow and long enus; clusters of mar-guerites and green leaves in front.

But every one does not admire a black bonnet, even when fashionable, and white crape or tulle are very much in vogue for evening wear and dress occasions. A pretty bonnet of white tulle is made by fulling the material in a slight puff across the front, and with upright box plaits at the back. Across the centre and sinking among the gossamer puffs of tulle is white satin piping, which, ex-tending in front, has a border of plaited tuile with a white satin bow upon the breast. Upon the front, in form of a coronet, are clusters of white moss roses and white lilacs, with a vine of half-opened roses and buds trailing at the back.

Green crape or tulle is also fashionable, and the bonnets of this color are very pretty when worn by those to whom green is becoming. But green being a favorite color, many persist in wearing it whose complexions suffer much from the nearness of so trying a color. A pretty green bonnet was trimmed with sprays of white lilac, with a green satin bridle in front, bordered by a boxplaiting of double tulle with a bow of green satin ribbon, and a vine of white convolvuli trailing from the back. Another of the same shade has clusters of pink hyacinths wreathing the front and sides, and dew-

spangled green leaves at the back.
A novelty is a blue crape bonnet, with loops of satin ribbon and sprigs of cow-alips, with satin ribbon edged with blonde forming the circlet in front. Another, a blue tulle, is neatly decorated with lilies of the valley, having strings of tulle edged with salin. A beautiful bonnet, of a delicate shade of rose-colored tulle, is made with a full will shortly be followed by all her sister high puff in front, above which is a coronal composed of beetle's wings, of a glittering emerald green, and a spray of leaves trailing over the chignon at the back. Another of rose color has a ruche of black lace in front, in form of a diadem, with a small tuft of white marabout feathers in the centre. At the side is a cluster of shaded, white and rose-colored flowers, with a spray of green leaves, and a trailing vine of the same falling over the chignon. A novelty in straw is formed of flutings of white straw, each fluting edged with narrow black lace. Simple white flowers form the decoration upon the top and sides, with a cluster of the lily of the valley in front. A bonnet of white crape was noticeable on the street. Crossing the front was a wreath of white moss roses and buds, with a vine of green leaves trailing down the white ribbon circlet in front to the bow and ends in the centre. white blonde was plaited at the back, falling over the chignon; ribbon of the most delicate shade of lilac was, in clustres of loops, a little to each side of the centre, from which ends trailed to the shoulder, where they were joined by a bow. With this bonnet a suit of black silk was worn, the upper skirt trimmed with lace five inches wide; the skirt of the nearly close fitting basque was edged with narrower lace. A novelty is of gray tulle with a wreath of half-blown and budding heath across the front, and a full-blown rose upon one side, as though just fallen there acci-

There are several styles of round hats. the most novel of which is the Leghorn, with very wide brim-for croquet ground and seaside wear—and trimmed with lace and flowers. As the Leghorn costs from $50 to $80, an imitation of this style can be purchased in straw, which is very pretty and serviceable. Another style droops both front and back, and is trimmed with lace and field flowers.

A pretty little hat, the Andalusian, 18 of black Neapolitan, trimmed with a Roman scarf tied in a loose knot at the back, with a bird of beautiful plumage in front. Parasols. - Parasols of some light, delicate shades are in vogue, the most dis-tinguished being those lined with some contrasting color, as pink, green or blue.

A lady should not thoughtlessly purchase one because it is her favorite color, as the shade of the lining has an effect upon the complexion, and the blue, green or pink parasol lining is no more becoming to some than a bonnet of the same shade would be. This is evident on pleasant after-noons, as one sees many pretty faces suffer sadly from the severe test to which they are subjected by the lining of the parasol casting an unbecoming shade upon the face. The most elegant parasols are of white silk, lined with a delicate shade, and covered with black llama lace.

Western Strawberries. A Chicago paper says: "Southern h'linois is the great strawberry-growing re-gion of the West, furnishing supplies not only to the Chicago market, but to Cinto other markets north and east. Some idea of the extent of the strawberry crop in Southern Illinois may be gathered from the fact that the strawberry growers of Cobden recently advertised that from the 20th of May to the 15th of June they would require 1,000 strawberry pickers.
"During the time the season is at its height—namely, from about the 25th of May to the middle of June—the quantity of strawberries imported from Southern Illinois by Chicago dealers average about three car loads a day, each car containing four hundred and fifty bushels. About the middle of June, when the supply from Michigan commences, the supply averages about five hundred bushels a day for about ten days. They are usually packed, cases, each containing from sixteen to twenty four quarts. The manufacture of these boxes is an extensive and profitable branch of industry. In the fruit growing districts of Southern Illinois and Michigan there are large factories exclusively em tiny chip boxes are turned out by the manufacturers during the season.

The Cuban Question. A Washington dispatch says: The ap-ointment to the Captain-Generalship of Caballero de Rodas is viewed by the Cuban authorities here and in New York as a sign of fiercer and more merciless hostilities on the part of the mother country. De Rodas is an able and prompt com-mander, and will assemble around him the worst and least scrupulous chiefs of the army, such as belong to the class of the duelist Escalente. It is expected he will draw the reins tighter upon the goaded Cubans, and by consequence make the war more desperate and unrelenting. Meanwhile, and before his arrival, the Cubans and their supposed fillibustering allies will have gained needful headway. The clog upon the new Captain-General's efforts will he founded in the finances of the sland, and the generally alleged cor-ruptions of its officials.

New advices have been received here from Cuba, relative to the recognition of the belligerency of Cubans by the Govern-ment of Peru. This was brought about, appears, not through the persuasion of special convoy, as has been stated, but by an official communication, addressed by Gen. Cespedes to the President of that Republic, describing the progress of the revolutionary movement in Cuba, and the prospects of the patriot cause. Similar communications, it is presumed, have been sent by Cespedes to the Presidents of other Republics of South and Central American and it is confidently expected.

Fifteen Hundred Fruit Trees Maliciously Girdled. A few nights since, at Benton Harbor,

St. Joseph county, Michigan, in the great fruit-growing region of the State, the orchards of Mr. Martin Green were visited by a gang of rascals, who girdled 1,500 peach, cherry, apricot, plum, pear and apple trees, valued at $30,000. The trees were in full bloom, and covered with a mass of blossoms. It was evidently intended that the work should be thoroughly done, as the trees were hacked and cut, and the bark peeled off with malicious care. The community was aroused, offered $15,000 for the arrest of the perpetrator, and set to work to repair, as far as possible, the evil which had been done. Five or six hundred trees were regarded as utterly hopeless. The whole region was laid under contribution for rags and grafting wax. The grafting wax was heated in large kettles; women and children stripped and dipped the rags, the tree-surgeons tenderly closed the gaps in the ragged and torn bark, and bound the orifices closely with the bandages, after-ward painting the whole liberally with the hot wax to exclude the air and protect the repairs that must be left to nature.

Industrial Occupations for Women. Miss Catherine Beecher, sister of Henry Ward, the other day invited a large number of leading ladies to meet her at a private residence in Thirty-eighth street, where she submitted to them a plan for the establishment of colleges and schools to prepare young women for industrial occupations. The real object of the gathering was to counteract the woman's rights and woman'ssuffrage movement, which has grown altogether too fast of late. In fact, one of the ladies present submitted a resolution denunciatory of the entire woman'srights movement, and the resolution would have been passed but for the general expressed wish not to touch the thing at all, and to ingore it altogether. Another meeting is shortly to be held when practical shape will be given to Miss Beecher's idea.

An exchange tells this tough story: The other evening; in our "private crib," there was a learned dissertation—subject: "Bedbugs and their remarkable tenacity One asserted of his own knowl of life." edge that they could be boiled and then come to life. Some had soaked them for hours in turpentine without any fatal consequences. Old Hanks, who had been listening as an outsider, here gave in his experience in corroboration of the facts. Bays he, "Some years ago, I took a bed-bug to an iron foundry, and dropped it into a ladle where the melted iron was, and had it run into a skillet. Well, my old woman used that skillet pretty constantly for the last six years, and here the other day she broke it all to smash, and what do you think gentlemen, that ere insect just walked out of his hole where he'd been layin' like a frog in a rock, and made tracks for his old roost up stairs! But," added he, by way of parenthesis, "by George, gentlemen, looked mighty pale!"

THE bill for the disestablishment of the Irish Church has passed the British Commons by a vote of three hundred and sixty-one against two hundred and fortyseven. Thus has England reformed one of the most illogical of her abuses, and guaranteed anew her Irish possessions.

SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dysepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They clearse the stomach, relax the livor and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diversed matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is thinonly way to cure consumption.
To thise three medicines Dr. J. H. S. henck, of Philiseliphis, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the nungs, nature throws it off, and the patient has reat and the lungs begin to heal.
T. do this, the deaweed Tonic and Mandrake
Pills must be ir, ely used to ciranse the stomach and liver, so that he Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.
Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ancies of the gall bladder, the bile starts friely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calome! (a deadly po'son which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will untock the gall bladder and start the scoretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.
Liver Complaint is one of the most prominent causes of Consumption.
Schenck's Scawed Tonic is a gentle stimulant
and alterative, and the alkali in the Seawed, which this preparation is hade oi, assess the
