Turned Adrift.

There are some men who seem to think and act on the principal that roguery is essential to success. One of this character (a native of another locality we are glad to know) appeared in our city yesterday, but left in a few hours. It seems he came from Louisville, Kentucky, where he had purchased a lot of cattle. In that city he employed a boy, about fifteen years of age, son of a widow, to accompany him to Pittsburgh with the drove, agreeing to pay him a certain amount for the trip besides all the ex-Tore It. We see by an address issued in the Presbyterian Banner, of this week, that the church at Shady Side, through their pastor, Rev. W. T. Beatty, is offering twenty thousand dollars towards the hundred thousand they deem necessary, their offer being conditioned on the location of the institution in their vicinity. When we consider what this young church has already done in the way of construction and organized in the way of construction and organized parochial effort, we regard this as very hopeful for a first bid. We only hope that we shall hear promptly from other quarters, each church stating how much will be given in case the question of lo-dation be decided adversely to its claim. The Shady Side prospectus is, as regards the unsectarian character of the teachings to be given, liberal enough. Important Revends Decision An important case has just been degided in Cincinnati, in which an omission whereby the Government is not wronged in anywise, is declared not to be a violation of the excise law. We herewith print the Cincinnati Commercial's report of the Judge's ruling, rendering judgment in favor of the plaimant:

Judge Leavitt, yesterday morning, rendered a decision in the case of the rendered a decision in the case of the Government against one hundred and seventy barrels of whisky, claimed by S. N. Fowler, of this city. He said: "As the case now stands, there is really no ground upon which the forfeiture of the whisky can be sustained. The only evidence before the Court is set of the fell. dence before the Court is; as to the fall-ure of Fowler to det the tubs stand-empty for twenty-four hours, as required by the law. This may be considered a technical violation, but it has been shown technical violation, but it has been shown that the distillery, in all its operations, has been conducted with rather more than usual honesty. There is no charge that one gallon of whisky ever went out of the establishment without the full payment of taxes. It is shown by the predominance of testimony, if Mr. Fow-ler himself is a credible witness, that himself was fully apprised of the manner in which the business was conducted. It is clear there never was any fraud intended, and as the Government has lost nothing, I cannot reconcile it with my duty or conscience to render a decree of forfeiture against this property; and if I did so, the claimant would have the right to apply to the Revenue Department for a remission of the forfeiture, which it has the power to grant. Judgment is, therefore, rendered in favor of

This is the most attractive place of popular resort in the city, and receives a large share of patronage. The billiard room is separate and apart from the saloon, and is beautiful and inviting in appearance. It is supplied with new tables, the very best manufactured in this country, which combine all the latest improvements and patents, and must prove attractive to the lovers of the noble and exhilerating game of ball and cue. Mr. C. R. Davidson, the accomplished and courteons bil-liardist, presides over the room, and is ever ready to welcome his friends to his elegant new quarters. The hall is farge and commodious and thoroughly ventil-ated from sides and roof, making it the coolest place in the city. The saloon is a model of cleanliness and good taste, and nothing but the very best of wines and liquors are sold; while the beer, ale and temperance drinks are of first quality. Mr. W. H. Dr. W. Snively, Physician of the Board of Health, reports the following interments in the city of Pittsburgh from May 28d to May 80th, 1869: Diseases Unknown, 1; Old Age,

Wm. Douds, a farmer from Beaver county, brought a lot of potatoes to the city yesterday on a flatboat. The craft had hardly touched the wharf, (so he states,) when he was approached by a young man of business appearance, who quickly introduced himself as James son of a prominent citizen in Beaver, well known to the farmer. Mr. Dunn said he was engaged in the produce business in Allegheny. A bargain was soon struck, and the potatoes hauled away. Mr. Doud saw the last of them disappear, and in a reasonable time afterwards started for the mythical produce establishment to collect his bill. He establishment to collect his bill. He failed to discover it, but did discover that the potatoes had been sold in Allegheny for a less price than had been paid for them. The supposed Dunn, he also states, subsequently turned out to be a youthful imposter named Sanders, who managed, however, to keep out of the way, and has not been observed about since the transaction. The case came before Alderman McMasters yesterday afternoon, who issued a warrant for the arrest of Dunn class Sanders, on a charge of false pretense preferred by Mr. Doud.

The Monument. We have been informed that the delay in the business touching the Soldiers Monument is occasioned by the failure thus far to receive the charter incorporating the Association. The charter was granted by the last Legislature, several months ago, and received the official signature, but as yet has never been sent here. We believe a committee was appointed at a meeting of the Association held in March last, to attend to the matter. Perhaps they have forgotten their duty by the press of other business. If so, a new appointment might be made with advantage. It is proposed, we un-derstand, to hold a meeting, possibly next week, when if the paper is not forth-coming, the Association will proceed with the work under the old organization ole matter has dragged its weary length along, about enough now. Let us have the Monument somewhere and without further delay.

Unrivated. The reputation of Pittsburgh restaurants and dining saloons is equal to that of any city in the United States, not sions on account of our excellent Market facilities, but because we have a few establishments in the city, the proprietors of which take a special pride in their business and endeavor to conduct it in such a manner as receives the approval of their patrons; and the others, desire to do a living business, must approximate to something near the standard established by these men. Our friend Holtzheimer, of the Continental, Fifth avenue, next door to the Postoffice, is one of the leading spirits in the business, and the Continental is the leading establishment.

Professor Chandler, analytical chemist to the New York Board, has been testing some specimets of illuminating oils in order to ascertain the explosive qualities. Seventeen samples were obtained from the same number of stores, of which seven were found to consist of benzine and naphtha sold under special names. This benzine is the most dangerous substance that can be employed in a dwelling, and has been the cause of all the frightful accidents, either when used by itself or as an impurity in kerosene. Various processes for rendering benzine and naphtha non-explosive have been patented, and rights of sale have been disposed of throughout the country. According to Professor Chandler, it is impossible by any means whatsoever to render these substances safe. The addition of a few grains of alum, potash, borax, alcohol, gum camphor, etc., to a barrel of benzine, does not change its dangerous character in the least. The experiment of pouring a little of the fluid into a bottle and applying a burning match, is no proof whatever; for to produce an explosion it s necessary to secure a certain ratio of air to benzine vapor, which it would not be possible to do in a bottle once in fifty times. Every oil that can be lighted with a match is unsafe for use. The various "patent safety lamps" which are warranted for the use of any oil (even benzine), are pronounced by dangerous kerosene, he insists, are always unsafe, no matter what lamp may be used. One lamp may be a little safer than another, when in perfect order, but lamps will break, the oil will be spilled sometimes, accidents will happen, and the oil or its vapor will be brought in contact with the flame, when, if the oil is not safe, an accident is sure to result. One-half of the so-called "safety lamps" are no safer than others, while the remainder are safe only as long as they are subject to no carelessness in filling or handling. What is needed to prevent kerosene accidents is safe oil; with it all lamps will be safe. The remaining samples were average specimens of the kerosone oil usually sold in retail stores. They all contained more or less benzine, and consequently were dangerous in the same ratio. A RURAL member of the Connecticut Legislature recently gave vent to his emotion in the following distich: Instead of listening to those debaters. I ought to be at home—to plant potaters
