AQUARIUM.

Counter Challenges Hamill to a Five Mile Race Over the Lower Monongahela Course. There has been a lack of interest in aquatic sports in this city during the present season.

There has been a lack of interest in aquatic sports in this city during the present season, and the indications at present are that it only requires something to start the sport to make the season an unusually interesting one.

Harry Coulter, the Manchester carman, is anxious to have another "spilly" with Jimmy Hamill, as will appear from the following challenge:

I do hereby challenge James Hamill to row me a five mile race over the lower Monongahela course, for five hundred dollars a side.

My race with Mr. Hamill at Philadelphia, last summer, not having proved satisfactory to me or my friends, I desire to row him again, and as he had the choice of waters then, I think that this time I have the right to choose, and therefore name the Lower Monongahela course, as stated above.

I hope James Hamill will accommodate me in this matter, and that we may have a race rowed to a satisfactory conclusion.

Letter from Fayette County.

UNIONTOWN, June 5, 1899. Messrs. Editors: For the past ten days I have been sojourning in this pretty town.

As your readers are probably aware, Uniontown lies but a few miles from the foot of the "Blue Ridge" mountains, which makes the situation delightful.

The famous "Fayette Springs" are about nine miles from here, and there exists quite convenient to the town. At present there is no life at the "springs"—being rather early in the season.

The new school building will be opened on Monday next. It is one of the most prominent buildings in town.

The rooms, ten in number, are fitted up in modern style. A large hall for exhibition purposes has been discharged in an excellent manner, and reflects credit on the architect, S. W. Kerr, Esq., of your city.

The school is under the superintendency of Prof. H. O. Gibbons. The building is completed this year, is a great convenience, as has been stated on many occasions.

The Catholic Church is being erected by the Pittsburg and Connellsville Railroad Company, convenient to town. It will be quite a large affair, and is being built by the Catholic Church in town.

Railway News.

The Bear Creek and Shenango Valley Railroad will be in operation this summer. The iron for the track is now all on the ground, and a considerable amount of the rolling stock is ready for use.

Negotiations for the right of way to Oil City, by the Jamestown and Franklin Railroad Company are progressing satisfactorily, and an early completion of this much needed extension is confidently expected.

Work has been commenced in earnest on the railroad bridge across the Ohio river at Parkersburg. The Gazette, of that city, says:

Most of the hands, about fifty in number, are employed on the pier in the river. The summer will probably carry all of them above high water.

We perceive that the Ohio Legislature passed an act forbidding the building of bridges across the river of a less span than 400 feet. We cannot exactly see where that law will be effective, as West Virginia owns the river to low water mark from near Pittsburgh to the Kentucky line, over 300 miles.

The bill to appropriate one million dollars to complete the Western Maryland Railroad to Williamsport, which some days ago passed the First Branch of the Baltimore Council, passed the Second Branch of the City Council by eight yeas to two nays, with some trifling amendments which will be unanimously acceded to in the First Branch of the Council.

The approval of Mayor Banks is certain. There is considerable rejoicing over the prospective passage of the measure, which insures the completion of the road in at least six months.

The valley of the Shenango is alive with the ever busy hand of the coal miner and thrifty farmer, and every hamlet presents to your view its huge smoke stacks with their lurid glare of fiery furnaces beneath.

The construction of the Erie and Pittsburgh Railroad, traversing as it does, the valley from one end to the other, and having connections with all the coal mines, has had a great deal to do in bringing into existence the many new manufacturing establishments, and enlarging the capacity of the older ones. It supplies the furnaces with Lake Superior ore, which is shipped from its docks at Erie, and again carries the manufactured products and the surplus of coal mined to an ever ready market, thus doing a large and profitable business.

The road built for a new one, is in a much better condition than expected, and improvements are being daily made, and if we judge aright the spirit of the Board of Directors, it will be in a short time equal to the best of roads. The rolling stock is of superior quality, and sufficiently ample for the large and constantly increasing business.

The Iowa Normalist, in describing a visit to the State Agricultural College, says: "The labor system, which has failed at so many similar institutions, has been inaugurated here with complete success. The students perform their two hours' work each day with a degree of cheerfulness and zeal that is extremely gratifying to the entire faculty, all of whom are firm believers in the system. The recitations occupy the forenoon of each day, the afternoon being devoted to labor, recreation and study. The labor is performed by dividing the students into squads, each under the direction of a captain, who receives the tools from the tool-house, directs the labor of his company, keeps a record of the time, quality of the work, and reports to the President in writing."

Fred S. Jackson, of Columbus, O., had been courting a young lady who resided ten miles east of the city, and they were engaged to be married. On Sunday she died with consumption, and he returned, and undertook to drown his sorrow in strong drink. On Monday he visited her again and found her dying. On his return home that night he drank a quantity of laudanum and swallowed it, and then told his mother that the young lady was dying and that he was not going to survive her. He died the next morning, and word was brought to the city the same day, that she, too, was dead.
