Washington Items. Russell Jones, recently appointed Minister to Belgium, vice Sanford resigned, has received his papers and leaves for Europe on the 20th inst. Gen. Andrews, of Minnesota, appointed and confirmed to Copenhagen, has been transferred to the more important post of Stockholm, and also goes abroad the last of this month. The new Minister to Copenhagen has not yet been appointed.
The Bureau is satisfied that the incipient troubles in Kansas grow out of the hostility of the old Indian ring to the new Quaker policy being tried in that section, and expects like troubles for a few weeks in other parts of the country occupied by Quakers.

There is some talk here in official circles about the course which prominent men in England are pursuing in en-deavoring to throw upon Napoleon and the French government most of the responsibility for the policy which Great Britain adopted and followed in reference to the late civil war in the United States. The object seems to be to create a hostile feeling among Americans towards France, and to divert attention as much as possible from holding England miles of second track and 961 miles of alone responsible for her course.

.The administration is somewhat embar. the supplemental bill which passed Conycar of $796,054. The increase has gress in the last hours of the session with been steady each successive year for the the States of Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, and she is also not represented in both branches of Congress. The President has therefore submitted the question to the Attorney General for his opinion. If he shall decide the State is still out of the Union under the laws of Congress, it is not improbable, the President will assume that Georgia is in the condition of the other unreconstructed States, and recognize her only as under provisional government. 1 notice some papers are giving cur-rency to the statement that notwithstand. ing the recent large reduction of the debt, it is nevertheless eleven or twelve millions greater than on the 1st of June, 1868. This is an error, though if the face of the June statement of last year be taken as it stands it shows such a result. But to that statement should be added forty millions of accured interest, a liability which never appeared in the statements until Mr. Boutwell commenced to make them. This makes the debt now actually twenty-eight milions less than last year at the same time. It is not probable that there will hereafter be another decrease of the debt by so large an amount in any one month, but that the decrease will be gradual by small amounts each month, but nevertheless sure. The Secretary entertains the hope, founded upon the prospective character of revenue receipts and expenditures, that the expenses of the Government will not in any month of the immediate future exceed the receipts, but, on the contrary, will be within them by several millions

The vessel is made of oak, very well fashioned, and was found on the eighteenth of August, 1863. It is a slender galley for twenty-eight oars, seventy-five feet long, and the large planks are fastened together by strong iron nails. It did not carry a sail. The two ends, fore and aft, are built after the same style, running to a point, evidently with regard to the prevention of collision and to render the landing easier. The vessel is ten der the landing easier. In deep, the constitution and the contre, and also deep, the trade in the centre, and also deep, to be voters—the half white; that it has not and cannot change the status of an ot and cannot change the status of an other constitution. nairowing and shallowing towards the ends. It is made of eleven planks, five on each side, the ground plank and the keel. The latter is not more than an inch thick, and about eight inches wide in the centre of the boat. The caulking between the planks is effected by means of woollen stuff and a pitchy mass. The technic of this ancient Germanic shipbuild is much higher than it has been customary to assume for that period and people. Nevertheless the steer-ing apparatus found near the vessel in the turf-moor has a very primitive character, it being of the oldest known form, as seen upon the earliest monulength of nine feet and four inches. In regard to the movable articles belonging to the ship, dug up at the same time, there are many of them whose appointment and application are not at all clear or doubtful. A few water vessels, among otherthings compare very well with those in use at the present day. It appears to be undoubted that the vessel was purposely sunken in the primitive period, there being large holes of great age in the planks below the water line, throught which the water must have poured. The Nydan moor was formerly bay of the sea. The chronology is defined by a number of antiquities, arms, utensils, orna-ments of iron, bronze and allver, which were dug up near the ship and found in it. Thirty four Roman imperial coins of silver found are from the period 69 to 217 years after the birth of Christ. The Danish naturalists, especially Englehardt, who were present at the time the vessel was discovered, and who have made elaborate reports upon it, place the sphip and its sinking as belonging to the third century of our era; a view with which Dr. Michelsen coincides. The date has been doubted by some of the German papers, though no grounds have been given therefor.

An amusing discussion recently took ace at the meeting of the Poor Law. Guardians of the English town of Oswespouse should wear hats or bonnets. A persons to supply them with plain black straw hats, free of charge excited the sus-pleion rather than the gratitude of the picion rather than the gratitude of the guardians. "It's like the altar cloth," new journal about to be published in exclaimed one of them, "and we shall be geing on to Roman Catholicism." Another detected the germ of a social revolution. "I shall deprecate it very strongly," he sail; "I know my missis' the disputes among gentlemen which are won't allow one of her servant girls to usually decided by an ameal to arms. wear a natural productiveness of the soil to the extent of 250 per cent. > The Democratic Legislature of Ohio passed a Visible Admixture Law, intended to exclude from the polls a citizen having colorable suspicion of African descent, and grossly insulting those even faintly suspected. The Supreme Court disposed of the iniquitous measure by declaring it unconstitutional. Another Visible Ad-mixture Law, amendatary to the first, was passed, pronouncing extraordinary penalties on those who violated the law. Attorney General West, on the application of a citizen, has pulled the fangs of this last Democralic viper by showing that it cannot affect those already declared by the Constitution and the Supreme Court voter; and that consequently it is "mere sound and fury, signifying nothing." It is enough to move with compassion the bowels of a stone to see the Democratic legislators work so hard to accomplish so little. - Cleveland Herald.
