Superior—Its Future Prospects. It is instructive as well as intensely exciting, says the Philadelphia Press, to duced by the growth of its industrial and commercial interests.

Chicago, California, the oil country of Pennsylvania, the route of the Union Pacific Rallroad, to go no further back, have all been the central points of excitement, that, however fierce and unhealthy for a time, have in the end proved beneficial and conducive to the permanent strength-ening and building of the country.

The history of the past enables us now to forecast a little our probable future, and to determine ahead the prospective channels of enterprise and development. Just now the next grand movement would seem to be impending from the North. That great inland sea, called Lake Superior, reaches its index finger westward, within a few miles of the head of navigation on the Mississippi river. At the extreme western end it receives the water of the St. Louis river which head it.

extreme western end it receives the water of the St. Louis river, which near its mouth widens into the picturesque and commedious harbor of Superior, the largest and safest on all the six lakes, washing the boundaries of the two powerful States of Wisconsin and Minnesota. A few miles up the river, at Fondulac, is a splendid water power which will one day be all employed in turning the one day be all employed in turning the wheels of huge factories. Stretching far to the west and northwest, embracing the whole State of Minnesota and the manificent valley of the Red River of the North, Lake Winnipeg, and the Saskatchewan river, there is a country large enough to make three Empires as large as Great Britain, France and Austria—and rich in timber, minerals and agricultural resources. With a climate unsurpassed for sources. With a climate unsurpassed for healthfulness, and temperature, and now open to settlement, it will, for centuries to come, pour its treasures into the lap of Superior. This child of promise is now Superior. This child of promise is now just beginning to germinate and cluster around the mouth of the St. Louis river. Within one year the first railroad will be finished, by the aid of Pennsylvania capital, connecting this young city with the railway system of the Northwest at St. Paul, and extending thence to Omaha, and by the Pacific Railroad to San France. and by the Pacific Railroad to San Francisco, giving Superior City, it is claimed, more than three hundred miles advantage over Chicago, and water communication to the Atlantic seaboard. Next spring the first link of the Northern Pacific Railroad from Superior to Mississippi will be built. Within two years the road will be extended to the Red River of the North, only 185 miles from Superior, there tapping over 2000 from Superior, there tapping over 2,000 miles of good steamboat navigation running through a valley as large and well watered as that of Ohio, and within four years in all likelihood this railroad will be extended across the continent to Puget's Sound, thus making Superior the eastern terminus of both these great continental lines of railway. Before the road is finished to Puget's Sound, an eastern line from Superior via the Sault St. Marie, and Montreal, to Portland and Halifax, will be built. Another railroad, from Superior to a point on the St. Croix river, con. necting with roads leading to Chicago and Milwaukee, is projected. Many lines of steamers will be established between Su perior and Eastern ports. Three enterprises, and numerous others of equal magnitude and significance, will be pushed along by the accumulated power of this great nation, and, by the inevitable law of cause and effect, cannot fail to plant a city at Superior which may yet make the name singularly appropriate. While many cities not yet dreamed of will quirer.

spring up, and those now in existence will expand vastly beyond their present limits, Superior may outstrip them all when British North America becomes part of our Territory. So sanguine are Columbus-that geometrical point in Nebraska which is declared the physical

That this coming city is destined to conspicuous prominence, even under other relations in our commercial and financial system, is foreshadowed in our New Haven dispatch of this morning, in which Clen R & Roberts is called a horn. Academy a plan of a proposed great sidered fatal, and she can live but a few national undertaking about to be intro-duced to public notice by the Chicago hours, her brains coming out at the hole. After shooting Miss B., the murderer duced to public notice by the Chicago Board of Trade. This is nothing less than a plan to connect the head waters of the Upper Mississippi, Illinois and Ohio rivers, with the waters of Lake Superior, Lake Michigan and Lake Erie, and leveeing the Mississippi from Cairo to its mouth.

So great have been the achievements of modern enterprise that we need be astonished at no proposal, and may reason. ably expect success to attend any undertaking, pushed by American merchants. Should this plan, or something like it. reach a successful consummation, it will be but a fresh evidence of how inseperably are intertwined all the great interests and sections of our common country. National patriotism and sound statesmanship rejoice in the prosperity of all. The common weal is the development of every portion of our imperial land.

GEORGE PEABODY, in conversation in New York, the other day, concerning the Sumner ultimatum in the Alabama claims business, said: "Every man in England how Gen. McDowell has lived down the odium incurred by the first Bull Run business, said: "Every man in England would have been willing to resent, to the extremity of war, the demand which Sumner sought to get the Administration to enforce. Mr. Bright, who was the last man I saw in London before I left, (be lunched with me at two o'clock, and I left at five,) confirmed me in this impression.

The demand which sum defeat and appears to have mantained a growing popularie in the army and among the powers that be? Those who knew him intimately assure me that he is a model of a soldier, unselfish and brave, and one of the truest friends. And there is no one who has a more earnest affection for this country than has Mr. Bright. Neither he nor any Eng-

Herculaneum, undertaken by means of the $0,000 frances granted by King Victor Emanuel, have led to the discovery of Blarge room, which must have served for a kitchen. In it was a wooden clothes-press, entirely carbonized; also, fourteen vases; can delabrum and a lamp, all in bronze; several vessels in glass and terra cotts, a small marble statue of a faun and two broken tables, one in marble and the other in slate. Visitors have been very numerous of late to examine these
