He tells the following story, and there can be no doubt of its truth: On the 8th of May last the Major, with twenty men, at-tempted to cross the Colorado river in a small boat, about twenty rods above its rapids, and about fifty miles from the canon, for the purpose of exploring the Big Black river, which emplies into the Colorada, at that point. When about thirty yards from the shore, gliding along on the apparently smooth water, the beat was seen to enter a vortex, which at was seen to enter a vortex, which at once engulfed it, and not one of the party, which left the shore a few. moments before gally cheering, was ever seen afterwards. Hisdon, who had been left at the point of embarkation, saw the boat go down.
