FINANCE AND TRADE,

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, Tuesday, July 13, 1869. The upward movement in gold had reached its highest point early this morning, when it sold at 137%, from which point it gradually declined to 136%, with a firm undertone. Although gold may temporarly decline a point or two, the feeling among operators is rather bullish. Government bonds were strong this morning, but declined a fraction with the lower range of gold. There is even now some slight investment demand, but it certainly does not pay to buy bonds at such premiums. The Union Pacific Railroad bonds have attracted considerable attention on account of their low rates, about 90, and they are $1.75 ertainly a good investment at that. A sudden rise may set in in these bonds, just as soon as some small lots now on he market are absorbed.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, July 13, 1869. The markets generally are dull, and devoid of anything really new or important. The weather is again unfavorable for harvesting, and unless there is a change for the better, farmers in this section of country will be behind time in getting their crops secured. There is still considerable old grain in first hands, but it is likely to remain there for two or three weeks to come, as country people will not stop harvesting to haul their grain to market. The Chicago Republican. of Monday, a paper that has has a warm side for the "bull interest," speaks as follows in regard to the crop prospects: The very warm weather has been very beneficial to the crops, and accounts from grain sections are more promising than for some time past, and we still adhear to our assertion of two or three weeks ago, that if the fine weather came on, prices must go down if left to the natural laws of supply and demand. The winter wheat gathered in the sounthern part of the State is turning out finely, and is an improvement, both as to quality and yield, over last year, and the fears of bad crops, so prevalent throughtout the West two week ago, are rapidly diminishing, and should the frosts hold off in the fall, and the weather from this time forth continue favorable, there is no danger but that the yield of nearly all grains will be immense, notwithstanding the season is pretty well advanced.
