The barrels containing this lot of vinegar, it appeared from the stamps and brand upon them, had at one time contained whisky, and instead of erasing the stamp as the law requires: it had merely been covered with a blue wash or paint which was easily rubbed off. The penalty for this violation of the law is one of the most severe that it imposes. The party ship-ping is liable to a fine of $300 and config-cation of the property, and the carrier is sobject to a similar fine, and the caror other means of transportation carrying the same is liable to seizure.

> Alleged Disorderly House. Yesterday morning, John G. Barder made information before Alderman Humbert, against Chas. B. Stein and his wife Barbara Stein, for keeping a disorderly house on Third avenue. According to John's statement, a few days ago he married a young woman, formerly a donestic at Stein's, and whom he had known for some time. After the ceremony was over, he left his wife at the mony was over, he left his wife at the house for a day or two, but when he returned again to bring her away, was refused admittance and ordered from about the premises. He endeavored in the sea shore in pursuit of health. But vain to effect an entrance, and finally, ex-aspered beyond measure, instituted the proceedings as stated.

An officer was provided with a war-rant, and proceeding to the house sucrant, and proceeding to the house succeeded in arresting four of the inmates, Mrs. Stein, Margaretta Yanman, Ella Dunham and Mary, the wife of Barder. They were all discharged with the exception of Mrs. Stein, who was held in the sum of $1,000 for trial. Stein, the proprietor of the establishment, was sick in bed at the time, but will be compelled to give bail as soon as he recovers. to give bail as soon as he recovers.

Margretta Yannan, after being dis-

He went to the door and saw Mary a short distance proceeding leisurely along the street with the cost on her arm, whereupon he followed her and recovered his property.
At this stage of the affair an officer came along and Mary was taken in charge.

> Narrow Escape. Last evening, about six o'clock, a carter attempted to drive his vehicle across the railroad track at the Sandusky street crossing, Allegheny, in front of the Freeport Accommodation, which was just then approaching the Depot. Unfortunately, the horse failing to move rapidly, enough the cart was struck by the bumper of the locomotive and shivered into splinters. Miraculously the man made splinters. Miraculcusly the man made his escape by jumping out at the rear of the vehicle and the hone was asved by the giving way of the harness, which was literally torn from his body. The animal was so badly frightened that he seemed to have lost the power of motion, and after the train had passed stood trembling alongside the track until he was secured. The remaining five which were consigned to Mr Kellar, of Allegheny city, had not been delivered, and were still at the depot.

In searching for the whisky he made another and more important discovery, which led to the seizure of twenty-three barrels of yinegar, shipped by George Engelke, No. 214 South Fifth street, Coformations had been made against two drivers on the Central Passenger Railway, and a driver on the Oakland road, against three tavernkeepers and one druggist, for selling whisky, and that one of the railroad cases had been decided in favor of the protectionists. He racommended that no member of the So. recommended that no member of the Society make information against any person without consulting the Society's attorney, who would be at Saenger Hall every Monday, between the hours of nine and ten o'clock A. M., for consultation, which was necessary bested nine and ten o clock A. E., for consultation, which was necessary, he said, to avoid prosecution for conspiracy. He further stated that no action for conspirations of the consultation of acy would lie against any member of the Society so far under the present law. He thought it the duty of every tavern keeper in the community to aid the Society in a strict enforcement of the Sunday law, and recommended that a subscription paper be circulated among the citizens favorable to the movement for the purpose of raising funds to carry on the enterprise.

A hat was then passed through the audience and a collection approximating $250 was taken up, after which the meeting adjourned, to meet at the call of the President.

The Most Perfect Application of the true idea of co-operation which has come under our observation is to be found in the workings of the Co-operative Life Insurance Company of this city. It asso-clates its patrons in classes with a limited number of members, who as between themselves are co-operators in an ordinary sense of a diffused partnership. But the real co-operative relation exist between the Corporate company and these separate classes, and consist in this; If any number of these co-operators make default to their class the corporate make default to their class, the company assumes their obligations, makes the payments for them, and protect itself from loss by a preferred claim on their policies; and thus without risk or loss to my save the defaulters themselves, renders perfectly indestructible these mutual itlends associations of self-insurants which have attend. heretofore failed of success only for want WALI of this co-operation of a responsible company. The whole system is exceed. ing simple, safe and economical, and when rightly understood will doubtless be adopted by the most progressive of the old companies.
