Pittsburgh is pretty well represented here at present. I find on the Columbia register the names of Messys. James P. Barr and W.M. H. Smith, our own party. Miss Butler, the family of Mr. R. T. Leech and some others, all apparently enjoying themselves hugely and appreciating the cool, fresh sud clear atmosphere as only denizens of Smoketown can. For refreshments in the drinking way, including the finest spring water, soda waters cool and pure from the best of fountains, and all kinds of mineral waters. I would recommend our old Philadelphia friend, Mr. Jos. Riegie, proprietor of one of the finest cottages here, and well known for many years past to all visitors at the Cape. They publish two daily papers, here, the Cape May Word and the Diamand, both sprightly little sheets, with good circulations.

The surf here is grand, and the cost is full of bathers at almost all fours of the day. Let every Pittsburgher come and enjoy the pure air and the ocean bathing Yours in histor.

Amusements.

Pittsburgh will not lack amusements next fall and winter, as in addition to the Opera House and the Old Theater, we understand that the "Academy of Music" will be opened for a regular dramatic/ season by a gentleman, who, though a stranger to Pittsburgh, is well known to stranger to Pittshurgh, is well known to the theatrical world as an experienced manager and talented actor. Report, moreover, speaks of him as a man of means and enterprise, as we see his name. Mr. Morton Prics, in print as lessee and owner of two or three theaters in England. So that we may reasonably presume he will not be easily disheartened if at the commencement his efform are not reasonable to according to their deserts. His wife, Miss Catharine Lucette, has quite a great reputation as a singer and His wire, miss Camarine Lucette, has quite a great reputation as a singer and actress—qualities too seldom combined—and we learn is youthful and very handsome. As first class music is to be a large item of attraction, an eminent English composer and riolinist has been engaged as leader of the orchestra, and we understand a first class company is in rocess of formation.
