DEDICATION. BY BOWEN ROSSITER JOHNSON. If that indeed were facts which seems A pleasant universal fiction, That's daily born of youthful dreams, Nor dies of daily contradiction—

Nor dies of dank has a mate, And counterparts go blindly groping. To dad perchance, through foge of tate, The end of all their weary hoping— I'd say: Whatever I have done To h anhood's earnest work besitting. Be consecrate to her alone Who waits for me, though all unwitting:

Who puts the signs of pain away. Lest grief too soon her cheek should furrow; Who be as temptation back to-day, That I may see some glad to-morrow;

Who dare not pluck a flower that grows Beyond the path God spreads before her. Beyond the path God spreads before her, Nor ever think of passing those That bloom beside it to adole her; Who strives to add a cubit yet.
By faith unto ber morial stature—

A Bucking Story. A Lexington (Ky.) dispatch says: The community was startled and horri-ded on yesterday by a report that Thus. H Irvine, a farmer of this county, and for many years President of the Richmond Stage Company, had attempted to force his daughter, a handsome and sprightly little girl some fourteen years of age, to marry a young man named Broadwell Keith, and she persisting in a refusal, he held a pistol to her head and allowed Keith to lavish caresses on the unwilling girl. Even then she would not consent to marry him, and the father shut her in a room with Keith, and told him hat/"she would be d-d glad to marry him when he had gotten through with her." She made her escape from the room, and Keith ran after her and brought her back to the house, and Irvine brought her back to the nouse, and trying locked her in an upper room. Her stepmother had gone to Mr. Henry Bowman's, who lives near by, to escape her husband's cruelty, and the poor little prisoner managed to send her, by a negro woman, the following note; written has tily on a scrap of paper:

Dear Mar: For God's sake, come trying to make Broad Keith sides with me. What on earth will I do? Please come or send. He will not let me come down stairs. Oh what will I do? I am in the hands of God until some one comes to help me. to help me. Please, oh! please send me, some help. He has burst the bolt off the door already,"

Mrs. Irvin gave the note to Mr. Bow man, who immediately went to her rescue, and seeing her at the window of the room in which she was confined, placed a ladder, which happened to be at hand, and she came down on it, and thus escaped the clutches of her unnatural father and an unscrupulous lover.

Mr. Bowman brought her to town and placed her at Capt. Beard's, where she found protection and all the sympathy and tenderness which kind hearted pecple would naturally show to one in he orlorn condition. Warrants were issued for the arrest of Irvine and Keith, and they were brought to town by Deputy Sheriffs Cochrane and Didlake, and the trial set for yesterday atternoon, but the hearing was postponed till this morning at 9 o'clock. Irvine was released on ball, but Keith was sent to jail in default of $5,000 bail.
