Barvard University Boat Crew in London-Uneasiness in Spain Over the Carlist Demonstrations.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.] GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, July 20.—The steamer City of Paris, whose arrival at Queeustown was announced yesterday, brought as passengers the Harvard University Crew, who are to row an International match with the Oxford men. They reached this city to day in excellent condition, and will immediately go into training for their work. The 31st of August has been agreed to as the day for the match. The Twee to day, in an article on the Irish Church bill, urges that the motives which have hitherto inspired the House of Lords to secure the utmost for their friends in Ireland, must influence them to adopt the present bill, rather than exchange it for terms inevitably worse.

A large quantity of wheat in shock has been carried away by high creeks in Adams county. South Hannibal is inundated, and over sixty thousand feet of lumber have been washed

Davidson, Astronomer United States Coast Survey, on the night of the 28th of February, 1869, at San Francisco, California, on a loop of telegraphic wire extending thence to Cambridge, Mastachu-setts, and returning to San Francisco, the return eignals being received on a chronograph near that receiving the outgoing signal, it was found that the total interval of time between the two signals amounted to eight-tenths of one second, The entire wire was divided into eleven portions, of about 650 miles each, and connected by reneaters, which sent from one portion to the next a new electric current, having a greater speed than the original one would have had if continued beyond the first reach of 650 miles. It will be seen that the actual rate of transmission of each current over 650 miles cannot be deduced from these data by dividing the whole time by 11, but we are assured that the practical speed of a series of currents combined by relays is at the rate of 7,200 miles in 0.8 of a second.

Mr. BRIGHT, et the Trinity Housedin. ner in London the other day, says the New, York Times, said in congratulation, that the commerce of England was before that of any other nation-equal to that of all the world. Strange, that, with all this commercial increase, the pauper gopulation of the island should have loubled within the last ten years—as was doubled within the last ten years—as was lately shown at a London Poor law union meeting. As regards Ireland—that othor piece of the Kingdom—Hon. Mr. Ingarboll, in a letter to: a Chicago paper, declares that the island "is desolate beyond conception." The commercial glory of England is evidently no test of her civil; ization; and some of the greatest English, men have denounced contimerca as a demen have denounced columerce as a de-moralisation, sustaining merely the luxury of the upper classes. In this respect we might parody the words of Goldamith:

The Mast Hope Disaster—The Engineer of the Freight Train in Jail—What He has to Say—Funeral of the Victims.

James Griffin, the engineer who, it is averred, by his own carelessness sent eight or more souls into eternity by the horrible disaster at Mast Hope, Penna, was arrested, as announced in the city papers, at Salamanca. A detective at hat place took him to Great Bend, Penna. where a warrant from the authorities was issued, and he was arrested and placed in charge of officers until the arrival of police from Port Jervis and constable from Pike county, who put him on board the first train east, arriving in Port Jervis Friday at noon. Upon the arrival of the train carriages were in waiting. and he was quietly conducted to one of them, and immediately started for Mil-ford, the county seat of Pike county. A crawd had congregated at the depot to get a glimpse of the prisoner; but the railway officials managed the affair so quietly that he was on his way to jail ere his friends or the curious could catch a glimpse of, him. At Milford he was given in charge of Sheriff Corneliuson, who placed him in jail. We understand an effort will made to secure his release on bail. The prisoner states that he was asleep at the time of the accident. and pulled the throttle of his engine while in a dreamy and half unconscious state. He says he is extremely sorry, but that he ought not to be punished reverely. He confesses that he was to blame in allowing himself to go to sleep, but thinks his fireman was asleep also, and says that he depended on his fireman. He adds that he means to states that after the accident he went to Lackawaxen, by the advice of friends, and then to his home in Susquehanna. Mr. Conkling, on Fifth avenue. It was originally intended that the wedding should be celebrated in grand style, at Christ church, and arrangements were made accordingly, portions of the bride's trosseau having been imported from Paris; but a recent bereavement in the young lady's family neces-sitates a private and rather quiet mar-riage. Miss Throckmor on will be mar-

A young German gentleman of wealth and title will officiate as the baron's "best man" on the occasion. At the close of the ceremony the groom will give a dejeuner, and at its conclusion will start with his bride for. Saratoga, where apartments have been secured at a leading hotel. The couple will visit many of the watering places this summer, and in August they contemplate sailing for Europe. Throckmorton has already been the recipient of many handsome wedding gifts, some of which, sent from abroad, are parroyalty in gold, with red velvet caps, sur- ticularly elegant. Although late in the season for weddings, this approaching hymenial event is exciting the fashionin front, and at the steps of the platform able world, and will most undoubtedly create a great social sensation;
