PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, July 22, 1869. The general markets present nothing that is new or really important. The fine weather of the past two or three days has produced a more cheerful feeling in commercial circles, and hopes are now entertained that the crops will yet be secured in good condition. We notice in our exchanges that new wheat has commenced to flow pretty freely into some of the western markets, and we may look for pretty liberal arrivals here within the next two or three weeks, as it is likely that farmers will sell as quick as possible, in order to realize present prices. All accounts agree that the crop in this section of the country is better, both in yield and quality, than it has been for several years, and it is not probable, therefore, that the figures now Private intelligence from New York in both of these places is in the hands of speculations, it is not improbable that they may be able to keep prices up for two or three week, especially if the European advices should in the slightest degree be in their favor, but the impression is that not only wheat but pression is, that not only wheat, but all kinds of grain must rule lower, once the new crop commences to move. APPLES-In steady demand, and we
